BAY CITY IN DARK.

Fire Destroys Great Power Plant.

Loss Reaches Two and Half Million—Five Firemen Are Injured.

Guards Are Thrown Round Jails and Bail Is Refused Prisoners.

Theaters, Business Houses and Municipal Offices Are Without Light.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—The destruction of the electric light and power-house of the San Francisco Gas and Electric Company at Twenty-second avenue, South, and Georgia street, by fire tonight, plunged almost the entire city into darkness, resulted in the serious injury of five firemen, at least one of whom will die, and caused a loss estimated at $2,500,000.

The following firemen are in the Potrero Emergency Hospital seriously injured:

CAPT. THOMAS J. MURPHY of engine 29.
LIEUT. HAYDEN.
LIEUT. DANEY.
LIEUT. KELLEHEP
LIEUT. J. DE MAR.

De Mar is believed to be fatally hurt

Three men are said to be missing and it is believed by their companions that they are buried under the fallen walls. The destroyed power-house was the principal electric light and power plant of the San Francisco Gas and Electric Company and furnished the electric light for the larger portion of the city.

CITY IS IN DARKNESS.

Virtually the entire city with the exception of the water front and a section south of Folsom street which are furnished by the power-house at Spear and Folsom streets is in darkness so far as electric light is concerned. The destroyed plant furnished the power for nearly all the street lights and as a result practically all the streets are in darkness, including Fillmore and Van Ness avenues in the new business section.

Several street car lines are tied up.

GUARDS SURROUND JAILS.

When darkness fell by the sudden withdrawal of the electric light there was much uneasiness at the County Jail, but the guards were doubled and the prisoners were warned that any attempt at escape would be severely dealt with. Before midnight the guards had the situation under control, but for a time it looked as though the prisoners might attempt to rush the guards.

At the City Prison an extra force of guards were put on. No one was permitted to leave his cell under any consideration, and the bond and warrant clerk turned away all who came with bail money to liberate friends for misdemeanor cases. He acted under orders of the Chief of Police, who refused to take any risks. There was much lamentation among friends of those in jail, but they were told to come early in the morning and bail would be accepted as usual.

Out of the nine leading theaters, six could give no performance, the Novelty, Orpheum and Central being the only playhouses which have gas lights for emergency purposes, while the Chutes Theater obtained electric power from the United Railroads. All the minor theaters, other places of amusement and several of the principal restaurants were in total darkness all night.

Extra police were placed on duty at the temporary Hall of Justice and City Prison at Eddy and Mason streets, the building having no gas connections. Many private houses and other places dependent upon electric power for light had to resort to candles and lamps when obtainable.

EXPLOSION STARTED FIRE.

The fire started shortly before 8 o'clock. It is said that it was caused by the explosion of a steam pipe in the engine room which scattered fuel oil in all directions. The oil immediately caught fire, ignited the oil tank, which exploded, and a few minutes the entire building, with it valuable machinery was wrapped in flames.

Officials of the San Francisco Gas and Electric Light Company declared tonight that the destroyed plant could not be rebuilt and rehabilitated under one year.

LOSS IS ONLY PARTIAL.

J. A. Britton, president of the San Francisco Gas and Electric Company, estimated the loss at $2,500,000. He said that it was a $7,000,000 plant and that over one-third of it was destroyed. It was the main lighting plant which distributed power to all the substations in the city. Britton stated that while it would be connected with the company's mountain reserve power lines in Yuba and Sacramento county and they hoped to have the greater part of the city lighted by tonight it would take considerable time to duplicate much of the valuable machinery.

By midnight 200 men already had been put at work on the partially-destroyed plant. President Britton expects to have the most of the substations connected with the mountain power lines by tomorrow noon. The Spreckels sugar refinery, almost adjoining the power station, was on fire several times, but was quickly extinguished. Fire alarms were turned in and fifteen engines fought the fire for three hours.

LEAVES OFFICE UNDER CHARGE.

CANADIAN MINISTER ACCUSED OF IMMORALITY, RESIGNS.

Premier Accepts His Portfolio and Accused Says He Does So for Purpose of Fighting Charges Against Him in Courts—Laxity With Woman Is Alleged.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OTTAWA (Ont.) April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There is a big political sensation here, because Hon. Emmerson, Minister of railways and canals, has resigned and Laurier accepted his resignation. Statements affecting his character were made by the "Gleaner," a Fredericton paper, and copied by others in Halifax and Toronto, that he took strange women to hotels. Emmerson denies these and today began suits for damages against all three.

On the floor of the House today he denied the charges and asked the country to suspend judgment until he fights the matter out in court, but as it might somewhat cripple the government, he has resigned from the Cabinet, though he still retains his seat in the House.

The matter was discussed at length tonight and caused the wildest sensation politically throughout Canada. It was started by charges made by the Parliamentarian using the words "wine, women and graft," as applied to the Dominion government, but no names were mentioned. The opposition brought out a formal charge and names, but these are denied.

DECLARES COUNTESS MANKOSKI IMBECILE.

Husband as Committee of Her Person Gets Referee in Proceedings. He Asks for Fifteen Thousand a Year, Sans Vouchers.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Upon an application made by Count Casimir Ignace, Mankoski, Adam Weiner was today appointed by Justice Bishop of the Supreme Court as referee in proceedings brought by the Count as committee of his wife, Grace Sterling Mankoski.

The Count wishes to have it decreed that he shall not be required to submit vouchers for expenditures incurred by him on his wife's behalf up to the amount of $18,000, which is the amount approved by the Supreme Court from her estate for her maintenance, she being an imbecile.

The Countess is the daughter of the late John M. Bixby, who owned the Casino, the Union League Club, and who upon his death left her a large estate.

Count Mankoski also asks the court to grant him an allowance of $15,000 a year from his wife's estate for his own personal estate and asks that their two sons, Casimir S., and Robert F. Mankoski, be awarded an income of $10,000 a year each.

The Count in his petition says he and his wife live at the Hotel Marseilles, this city. They were married in this city in 1879 and afterward they lived in England.

In 1901 the British courts decided that the Countess was incompetent and appointed her husband committee of her person and estate.

The Count and Countess returned to this country, and last year a Sheriff's jury here also declared the Countess to be an imbecile and her husband was appointed her committee, furnishing a bond for $50,000.

The Count in his petition says of his wife:

"She is as helpless and as incompetent as a child in any matter involving judgment, and has a confirmed habit of getting up in the night and walking about without any comprehension of what she is doing.

"The Countess requires the services of two attendants day and night and an independent establishment is wholly necessary for her."

He says he wishes to give his wife a villa in Southern France or Italy, where she may reside in the winter, and to take her to Switzerland when opportunity offers. He also plaintively remarks that it would be a wrong to the memory of his wife's father and mother to compel him to render vouchers for every little expenditure under $20 and that he ought not to be compelled to account for the money expended in her behalf until the annual allowance of $18,000 has been exhausted.

BUSSE IS WINNER.

Carries Chicago and Downs Hearst.

Mayor-Elect Beats Dunne in His Own Strongholds With Ease.

People Rebel Against Hired Imported Mudslingers and Libelers.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Fred A. Busse will be the next Mayor of Chicago.

His plurality is 13,121, indicating a Republican gain of 40,000 in two years.

The traction ordinances carried the election today by 33,126.

A new charter for the city of Chicago is assured.

Hearstism is repudiated.

Mayor Dunne and his allies are down and out.

Immediate municipal ownership has been strangled.

These are some of the fruits of one of the most sensational victories ever won by the enlightened electorate of Chicago. With Fred Busse, the entire Republican municipal, county and sanitary tickets have been elected.

The overshadowing feature of the election was the manner in which the electorate kicked and cuffed Hearst to whose libels and brutal prosecution of the Busse cause is charged the practical wiping out of the Democratic party in Chicago.

MUD SLINGING RECOILED.

From a survey of the returns it is apparent that the Hearst mud batteries made votes for Fred Busse in every part of the city. Traction was a large factor in the production of Republican votes, but it is apparent that the ruling sentiment was that of vindication for Busse against the defamatory methods of the imported Brisbane and the wrecking crew to which Mayor Dunne hitched his fortunes.

There is no doubt that Hearst was the burning issue in the campaign.

There is no reason why traction should cut a big figure in the First Ward vote. In this bailiwick the police ruled with as high a degree of absolutism as in any part of the city, yet in this bailiwick Mayor Dunne sustained a loss of 2948 as compared with his vote of two years ago. In all the Democratic wards the revolt against attempted Hearst dictation was acute.

VOTERS REPUDIATE HEARST.

The police returns show that the stalwarts of the Democratic party, however much they may have been cowed and bulldozed by Hearst, did not follow his mandates at the polls. In the Fourth Ward Dunne suffered a net loss of 1191, and in the Fifth Ward a loss of 566 as compared with two years ago. In the Eighteenth Ward, which he carried in 1905, by a plurality of 3638, Dunne's plurality yesterday was only 1105, netting a loss of 2533. This is the bailiwick ruled by Aldermen Brennan and Conlon, who supported Carter H. Harrison in season and out. In the Nineteenth Ward Alderman Powers backed Dunne strongly but the Mayor's plurality was only 2835 as compared with 3935 two years ago.

DUNNE LOSES HEAVILY.

Dunne suffered a net loss of 2270 in the Ninth Ward, 760 in the Tenth, 1641 in the Eleventh, 905 in the Sixteenth, 394 in the Seventeenth, 2772 in the Twenty-first, 1947 in the Twenty-third, 835 in the Thirteenth and 269 in the Thirty-fourth. All these are Democratic wards.

His losses in the Loefler string of wards comprising the Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh, were significant. Loeffler had been attacked by the Hearst sheets, apparently did nothing for the Dunne ticket. The Lorimer element in these bailiwicks also showed a strong influence for Busse.

In the Twenty-fifth, which proved to be the banner Republican ward in the city, Harry R. Gibbons, who was defeated for Sheriff last fall as the result of Hearst mud-slinging, contributed to the Busse plurality. The Twenty-fifth Ward gave Busse a margin of 5582, which means a net loss to Dunne of 2104, as compared with his vote of two years ago.

BUSSE'S HOME STANDS TRUE.

In North Chicago, the home of Postmaster Busse, the reaction against Hearst mud-slinging was written in large letters. The Twenty-first, which is Busse's home bailiwick, is the strongest Democratic ward in the city, although it does not return large Democratic pluralities. Two years ago it was carried by Dunne by 841. Today it gave a plurality for Busse of 1931, thus showing a Republican gain of 2772. This vote shows what Busse's neighbors think of him; also what they think of Hearst and his wrecking crew. In the Twenty-third Ward, which adjoins the Twenty-first, Busse made a net gain over Harlan of 1947. He carried the ward by 1056, although it went to Dunne in 1905 by 891.

ONE DEMOCRAT WINS.

John E. Traeger was elected City Treasurer by a plurality of 8000. The defeat of Gen. Young is attributed to the strong German-American following of Traeger.

Traeger served as Coroner at the time of the Iroquois fire, and was the only Democratic nominee elected in 1902. In recognition of his strong following he was appointed City Collector by Mayor Dunne, notwithstanding he was affiliated with the Carter H. Harrison crowd in politics.

COUNCIL BREAKS EVEN.

The new City Council will be evenly divided between the two major parties. The Republicans elected twenty-two new Aldermen, as against fourteen elected by the Democrats. With the hold-over Aldermen, this leaves the standing thirty-five for the Republicans, thirty-four for the Democrats and one independent Democrat, Alderman Bowler, of the Nineteenth Ward, who, however, usually votes with the Democrats on party matters.

The new Council, however, will be in strict sympathy with Mayor Busse. On traction matters Mayor Dunne's strongest adherents went down in the general burial. One of the "gray wolves" of former times, Charles Martin, was forced to the wall by the new lord of the ward which elected Alexander J. Burke, a Republican, as a protest against Martin's policies. In his place however, the "gray wolves" delegation will welcome back into its thinning fold Stanley Kunz, who, as the result of a day of fighting at the polls, in which the police were unusually active, was swept back in a position where he is again on the public pay rolls.

KILLS INDEPENDENCE LEAGUE.

The Independence League only made a small patter to add to the day's noise. Not a single one of the men who were sunning under the Hearst banner came near enough to victory to have an opportunity for being jubilant.

Aldermen Kenna, Powers and Brennan, the three Democrats against whom the Hearst man raised such a cry, were returned "as usual."

These men were not forced to extend themselves at all. Their votes proved conclusively when compared with that of Mayor in the same wards that Dunne suffered a great deal on account of his antagonistic attitude toward these men on account of their traction policies.

"Ed." Cullerton had a hard time in his ward, the Eleventh, being returned, but he was successful after the fight of his political life.

BECOMES NATIONAL FIGURE.

The election of Busse was the strongest possible in the Republican organization of Illinois. It also will give him national eminence in that he is the first Republican to break down the palisade of Hearstism, Bryanism and Dunneism in the second city of the nation. Chicago has not had a Republican Mayor since 1897.

Busse represents a new type in Illinois politics. He stands against what is known in politics as "trimming" and "side-stepping." He is a man of tremendous energy, great executive ability and notable independence. He does not know what it is to be afraid.

When they were Governors, he bearded Tanner and Yates at the opening of their administrations and served notice on them that although he would accept advice from everybody he would accept dictation from nobody.

It is Busse's independent and openheartedness, his decision and force, that have made him a power in Republican politics.

His word always has passed at par

Fred A. Busse, Chicago's Mayor-elect.

in politics and business, and a promise obtained from the new Mayor of Chicago is negotiable upon every possible exchange in the State.

It was not so with Mayor Dunne, whose vacillating temperament was the despair of friends and foes alike.

STATISTICS OF ELECTION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

Chicago's postmaster, Frederick A. Busse, the Republican candidate, was elected Mayor of the city today, having a plurality of 13,121 votes over Mayor Edward F. Dunne. The total number of votes cast for Busse was 164,839 and for Mr. Dunne 151,718. The Prohibition candidate polled 5875 votes and the Socialists 13,459. Two years ago when Mayor Dunne was elected to office he polled 163,109 votes and John M. Harlan, the Republican candidate, 138,671. The Socialist vote the same year was over 40,000, and today's vote was a great disapointment to the leaders of that party.

CLOSE IN MILWAUKEE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

MILWAUKEE (Wis.) April 2.—Justice R. D. Marshall, Republican, appears to be reelected to the Supreme Court over Henry Scudder of Marinette. The returns are close. Local questions were issues in most cases.

NEBRASKA CITIES VOTE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

OMAHA, April 2.—City elections were held in all the cities and towns of Nebraska except Omaha, South Omaha and Lincoln today. Probably three-quarters of the towns ignored party politics, voting only on the question of licensing saloons. In only a few towns were the existing conditions changed.

DIEKEMAS TO CONGRESS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

GRAND RAPIDS (Mich.) April 2.—Complete unofficial returns late tonight from the primary election in the Fifth Congress District show that Gerritt J. Diekemas of Holland has 700 majority over Huntley Russell of this city, for Congress.

REPUBLICAN SWEEPS TOPEKA.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

TOPEKA (Kan.) April 2.—William Green, Republican, was elected Mayor of Topeka today by a plurality of about 1500.

GAIN IN OKLAHOMA.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

GUTHRIE (Okla.) April 2.—Returns from Oklahoma and Indian Territory indicate sweeping gains for the Republicans. In Guthrie the entire Republican city ticket was elected by small majorities.

PRESIDENT INTERESTED.

BUSSE'S VICTORY PLEASES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The President showed his interest in the Chicago election by watching the special bulletins that came from the Busse-Dunne conflict early in the evening. He received a number of special messages announcing Busse's election, and the more he saw the figures grow, the more pleased he was. He said:

"I am exceedingly pleased at Mr. Busse's victory. During his service as postmaster, Mr. Cortelyou and I grew to feel that he was possessed to a very marked degree of administrative ability. I believe he will make an excellent Mayor for Chicago, and I heartily congratulate the city."

Ruef in Court, Wan and Anxious.

Sidelights on Trial and Grand Jury Proceedings in San Francisco.

Characters in the Great Graft Case as They Appear in Limelight.

Prosecution Declares Other Indictments Are Warranted by Evidence.

BY HARRY C. CARR.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] On the morning after the election two years ago, this city was startled by a young lawyer named Francis J. Heney, who boldly threw down the gauntlet to the "king" of San Francisco—promised publicly to send Abe Ruef to prison. Next day he was dragged before Ruef's grand jury, where humiliations were heaped upon him and Ruef's subsidized paper, the Evening Post, jeered at him.

This morning a wan, anxious, little dethroned boss skulked hurriedly into court, guarded by a dozen detectives, to be tried for extortion.

Surrounded by stenographers, desk telephones, bodyguards and assistants, Heney sat receiving reports from the trial at the "red house in Franklin street."

The Evening Post is now a wheezing wreck.

Ruef is on trial in a Sunday-school room of the Jewish Temple Israel.

The light which plays on the pale, worried face of the one-time king of San Francisco pours through stained and leaded church windows.

Judge Dunne, a young man, with a sorrowful air of anxiety, sits at the teacher's desk. Newspaper men, some of them distinguished writers, sit cramped humbly at little school desks—boy artists and gray-haired veterans—there to learn a lesson, with Heney as their teacher.

HENEY NOT PRESENT.

Heney was not there in person. Ruef's special prosecutor is Hiram Johnson, a concise, neat man, immaculately clothed. His lips are thin and tight. He speaks cold, chiseled, cutting words. He is never moved from a deadly-chilled deliberation. Near him sits Langdon, the Labor Union District Attorney, who is frantic to get the credit of the Ruef exposure.

Ruef sat all day in the midst of his attorneys, Sam Shortridge, the solemn; Frank J. Murphy, a young man with sad half-closed eyes, and Charles Farrali and Henry Ach.

There is something quaint and medieval about Ach, with his sharp nose, glittering eyes and long, snaky hair, combed straight back from a lean forehead.

Two more men with anxious hearts were there—one, Rudolph Spreckels, handsome, self-satisfied. His pocketbook supplies Heney's sinews of war. Crouched behind the newspaper men, listening with a gaping mouth, trying to keep hidden, was Myrtle Cerf, Ruef's "wretched man, Friday."

The morning session was sharp with swift jolts. Johnson arose and offered to consent to the dismissal of the entire jury panel summoned and objected to by Ruef.

LAWYERS SURPRISED.

Taken by surprise, Ruef and his lawyers hastily withdrew and consulted. They retracted their motion, evidently fearing that Heney means to have a new jury selected by Elbor Biggy. Then a slapback. Maurice Levy, a talesman, was missing. Ruef's lawyers refused to go on without him. Some of the prosecutors were startled. If the defense kept up this trick of missing jurors, Ruef might never get to trial.

Court adjourned and Levy was soon found. The news was hurried to Heney at the "red house in Franklin street," an aristocratic mansion of departed glory.

Heney was sitting upstairs with Burns. The room in which they sat must have been a fashionable drawing-room in some past day of elegance. A long pier glass with a faded gilt-frame looked down upon them. The room was filled with curious old-fashioned carved furniture. The telephone and desk were notes out of tune.

At the curbing in front of the house stood a luxurious auto awaiting Heney's orders. In it sat Hess, a fashionably dressed young athlete, who acts as bodyguard for Heney. In the hall below stood Rudolph Spreckels, evidently well pleased.

"They say we've spent half a million already, do they?" he said. "Well, we will keep right on spending it."

Heney is matter-of-fact, jocular, keen and slangy.

The messenger breathlessly took him the news.

THAT "BUM" DETECTIVE.

"Delay, eh?" he said, "I thought they were in such a hurry. Never mind. We've got plenty of time."

The telephone rang. "Burns?" said Heney, grinning, "you mean that bum detective? Right here.

"Here, Burns," still grinning, he handed over the receiver.

The afternoon session quickly showed how bitter this trial will be. The courtly sarcasm of Ach fenced with the icy slash of Johnson's tongue.

"We will stop this line of questioning right here," said Johnson sharply, as Ach asked something of a juror. "You will stop nothing, Mr. Johnson," said Ach coldly. He added: "My statement against yours."

Johnson looked at him contemptu-

HARRIMAN IS STILL BAITING ROOSEVELT.

President's Denial Brings Out Long Rejoinder from Magnate.

Politicians Absorbed in Tilt Between Big Men Over Question Whether Nation's Chief Magistrate Asked Railroad King for Political Contributions—Roosevelt Plainly Tells Harriman That He Is an Anahias.

YESTERDAY a letter abstracted from E. H. Harriman's files was widely published.

It stated that the President asked Harriman to collect a campaign fund of $250,000.

Today the President in reply published an old letter to Representative Sherman which deals with the Harriman allegation and by implication refutes it.

Last night E. H. Harriman issued a statement that his letter, substantially corrected, had been purloined by a discharged stenographer and published.

He substantiates the accuracy of its statements and refuses to withdraw them.

Following this Harriman alleges that the President treats him unjustly in the Sherman letter.

B/ TLE OF GIANTS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Roosevelt-Harriman letters have caused a political sensation in Washington. There's little talk for publication, but the letters are the general topic of private conversation. No one for a minute thinks the explosion is merely a bit of journalistic enterprise on the part of a New York newspaper. It is declared that Harriman and his friends have declared a fight against the President by the publication of this letter of Harriman's, recounting that the President applied to him for campaign funds.

SAY HARRIMAN IS INDIGNANT.

Harriman's friends assert that Harriman is indignant on account of the publication of his private letter to Sydney Webster. A discharged stenographer is accused by Harriman of using his old note book to give out a letter in distorted form. Incidentally the information is given out that the recipient of the famous letter by Sydney Webster is a brother-in-law of Stuyvesant Fish.

It was written when Fish and Harriman were friends. They are now enemies. The intimation is that Webster may have permitted someone to have a copy of the Harriman letter and it now is used to punish the writer of the letter.

Talk of bribing the confidential clerks is also put forward.

The great insurance racket was started in New York by a "professional tipster" selling some information to a New York newspaper. It was to the effect that "Jimmie" Hyde's masquerade ball at Sherry's had been charged to the Equitable. The "tipster" had been used by someone who wanted to annoy Hyde. The man who tossed this match in the newspaper office started a fire which is burning yet.

It is a universal belief here that those who are fighting the President are responsible for the Harriman-Webster letter getting into the papers.

BIG WAR IS BREWING.

Plainly it has been floating around since away last fall, at least the sentiments expressed came to the President's attention about then, and the answer made then is considered to be sufficient now.

The opinion here is that the newspapers were used as a last resort to fire the shot at Roosevelt. The inquiry often heard today is whether other letters of the same kind from the same and other sources are to come. It is quite plain here that those who are resorting to this method of warfare have been thinking of doing it for months. There is now, and will be in the future, a dispute over the truth of incidental statements. There are accusations against Depew, Root, Odell, Hyde and others.

ARE AFTER CORTELYOU.

The fighters doubtless know that the racket will bring out many unpleasant things, and apparently they are ready to stand for these if they can accomplish one thing—they want to dig into the Republican campaign fund of 1904. The opposition to President Roosevelt and Secretary Cortelyou have been driving away at this for a long time. They want to force Cortelyou to give the names of big contributors to the campaign fund. That is one of the things these fighters of the President want. Probably many of them have personal knowledge of some subscriptions. If they cannot make Cortelyou tell they will try to find out other ways to get the information to the public.

Harriman has told of his contributions. He may have told a lot of other things but this was in the bunch. He says there were others but gave no names. Without a doubt the men who are fighting Roosevelt want to go along on this line.

HOLD BOMBS IN RESERVE.

They are hoping to find other ways of letting the public know who gave the money to the Republican campaign in 1904.

Some forty newspaper men had assembled at the White House today to secure the President's reply to Harriman's letter.

The President had caused to be made copies of a letter he had written to James S. Sherman in October, 1906, when Harriman's conversation had been first reported.

The President appeared to be in an unusually good frame of mind. He shook hands with everybody and then he told the newspaper correspondents that the only reply he had to make was contained in the letter which had been written some time before.

For several days there have been rumors that letters were in the possession of interested persons which are expected would be disastrous to the President's political contemplations. What are the President's political contemplations, what these letters were or to whom written are things unknown.

Rumor had it that H. H. Rogers was one of the men who would create a sensation at the proper time. Nobody thought of Harriman, but when the Harriman letter was out it became known for the first time that more than one newspaper had known of it for several days.

WHAT HARRIMAN WROTE.

FULL TEXT OF HIS LETTER.

E. H. Harriman's letter, as published, which caused the controversy, is as follows:

"Mr. Sidney Webster, No. 5 East Seventeenth street, New York: Dear Sir.—I am glad to see that you are in town, and hope soon to have an opportunity of talking matters over with you.

"I had printed copies of the testimony sent you, in hope that you would, after reading them, give me some idea of where I stand, for I confess that I feel somewhat at sea in the whole insurance matter. The trouble originated in allowing myself to be drawn into other people's affairs, and partly from a desire to help them, and at their request. I seem to be like the fellow who got in between the man and his wife in their quarrel.

"As to my political instincts to which you refer in your letter of December 13, I am quite sure I have none, and my being made at all prominent in the political situation is entirely due to President Roosevelt, and because of my taking an active part in the autumn of 1904, at his request, and his taking advantage of conditions then created to further his own interests. If it had been a premeditated plot, it could not have been better started or carried out.

"About a week before the election in the autumn of 1904, when it looked certain that the State ticket would go Democratic, and was doubtful as to Roosevelt himself, he, the President, sent me a request to go to Washington and confer upon the political conditions in New York State. I complied, and he told me he understood the campaign could not be successfully carried on without sufficient money, and asked if I would help them in raising the necessary funds, as the National Committee had utterly failed of obtaining them, and there was a large amount due from them to the New York State Committee.

"I explained to him that I understood the difficulty here was mainly caused by the up-State leaders being unwilling to support Depew for re-election as United States Senator; that if he, Depew, could be taken care of in some other way I thought matters could be adjusted and the different contending elements in the party brought into alliance again. We talked over what could be done for Depew, and finally he agreed, if found necessary, he would appoint him as Ambassador to Paris.

"With full belief that he, the President, would keep this agreement, I came back to New York, sent for Treasurer Bliss, who told me that I was their last hope and that they had exhausted every other resource. In his presence I called up an intimate friend of Senator Depew, told him that it was necessary in order to carry New York State that $300,000 should be raised at once, and if he would help I would subscribe $50,000. After a few words over the telephone, the gentleman said he would let me know, which he did in three or four hours, with the result that the whole amount, including my subscription, had been raised.

"The checks were given to Treasurer Bliss, who took them to Chairman Cortelyou. If there were any among them of the life insurance companies, of course Cortelyou must have informed the President. I do not know who the subscribers were other than the friends of Depew who was an individual. This amount enabled the New York State Committee to continue its work with the result that at least 50,000 votes were turned in the city of New York alone, making a difference of 100,000 votes in the general result.

"There are between 2200 and 2300 districts in Greater New York, and in a campaign such as that, the expenditure of say $50 in each district for campaign purposes, would take more than $100,000.

"Some time in December, 1904, on my way from Pennsylvania to New York I stopped and had a short talk with the President. He told me then that he did not think it necessary to appoint Depew as Ambassador to Paris, as agreed, in fact, favored him for the Senate. I had not expected that he was the one to dictate as to what would be necessary, but he arrogated that himself, and I of course could say nothing further. After that I used what influence I could to have Depew returned to the Senate, as I concluded there had been an implied obligation which should be lived up to.

"This is the way I was brought to the surface in the political matters, as I had never before taken any active part and have only done what I could as an other private citizen might, so you see I was brought forward by Roosevelt in an attempt to help him, at his request, the same as I was in the insurance matter of Hyde and Ryan by their request for my help, and in the case of Ryan I probably would have dropped the matter after our first interview had not it been for my desire to save Belmont from taking a position for which he could have been criticized by the public press. As he was the one Ryan desired me to influence from opposing Morton for election as chairman of the Equitable board and Belmont afterward thanked me for taking this part, as if he had voted against Morton in view of his local traction contentions with Mr. Ryan, it would have been misconstrued.

"Ryan's success in all his manipulations, traction deals, tobacco combinations, manipulation of the Tate Trust Company into the Morton Trust Company, the shoe and leather bank into the National Bank of Commerce, thus covering up his tracks, has been done by the adroit mind of Elihu Root, and this is the situation that has been brought about by a combination of circumstances which has brought together the Ryan, Root, Roosevelt elements.

"Where do I stand?

"Yours, sincerely,

"E. H. HARRIMAN."

MAKES HOT REPLY.

PRESIDENT STRIKES BACK.

In rebuttal of all implications in Harriman's letter the President gave out the following correspondence, the first of which is a letter to representative Sherman of New York.

The text of the first letter to Sherman is as follows:

"October 8, 1906.—My Dear Sherman: Since you left this morning I succeeded in getting hold of the letter to which I referred and I sent a copy of Gov. Odell's letter to me of December 10, 1904.

"As I am entirely willing that you show this letter to Mr. Harriman, I shall begin by repeating what you told me he said to you on the occasion last week when you went to ask him for a contribution to the campaign. You informed me that he then expressed great dissatisfaction with me and said, in effect, that so long as I was at the head of the Republican party or as it is dominated by the policies which I advocate and represent, he would not support it, and was quite indifferent whether Hearst beat Hughes or not, or whether the Democrats carried Congress or not. He gave as a reason for his personal dislike of me partly my determination to have the railroads supervised and partly the alleged fact that after promising him to appoint Depew as Ambassador to France, I failed to do it, and I understood you to say that he alleged that I made this promise at a time when he had come down to see me in Washington, when I requested him to raise $250,000 for the Republican Presidential campaign which was then on.

"So much for what Mr. Harriman said about me personally," said the President, in concluding his first letter to Sherman. For the most part the President regards the additional remarks which Sherman said Harriman made to him when he asked him if he thought it was well to see "Hearstism and the like" triumphant over the Republican party.

FEARS HIGGINS BOLT.

"The trouble I spoke of had reference to the bolt against Higgins—that is, in reality against Mr. Harriman and Mr. Harriman's friend, Gov. Odell. A reference to the files of the New York papers at that time will show that it was a very extensive bolt against Mr. Higgins, on the ground that Gov. Odell had nominated him and he had in some matters favored Mr. Harriman overmuch, neither ground, in my judgment, being tenable. Mr. Harriman's backing of Gov. Odell and extreme willingness that he showed by securing Higgins's election was a common notoriety and mentioned in all the papers, notably in the New York Sun. On October 12 Mr. Harriman wrote me:

"'I am giving a very large part of my time to correcting the trouble here and intend to do so if any effort on my part can accomplish——. I will take occasion the first of next week to run down to see you and think by that time conditions will have improved.'

"I wrote Mr. Harriman the following letter, which I give in full:

"'October 1, 1904.—My Dear Mr. Harriman: A suggestion has come to me in a roundabout way that you do not think it wise to come on to see me in these closing weeks of the campaign, but that you are reluctant to refuse, inasmuch as I have asked you. Now, my dear sir, you and I are practical men, and you are upon the ground and know the conditions better than I do. If you think there is any danger of your visit to me causing trouble or if you think there is nothing special, I should be informed about or no matter in which I could give aid, why, of course, give up the visit for the time being, and then, in a few weeks hence, before I write my message, I shall get you to come down to discuss certain government matters not connected with the combination.'

LETTER SELF-EXPLANATORY.

"You will see that this letter was absolutely incompatible with any theory that I was asking Mr. Harriman to come down to see me in my own interest, or intended to make another request of any kind for help from him. On the contrary, all I was concerned with in seeing him was to know if I could be of help in securing the election of Mr. Higgins—a man for whom I had had the highest respect and who I believed would be, as in fact, he has been, a most admirable Governor.

"Moreover, the following letter will show that Mr. Harriman did not have in his mind any idea of my asking him to collect money, and that, on the contrary, what he was concerned with in connection with my letter to him was the allusion I made to the fact that I would like to see him before I wrote my message to discuss certain government matters not connected with the campaign.

HARRIMAN'S LETTER.

"His letter, which is of November 4, runs:

"'Dear Mr. President: I have had a telephone talk with Mr. Loeb and requested him to give you a message from me. I drew his attention to the last paragraph of your letter to me of October 14 last, and explained that, of course, I did not want to make a trip to Washington unless it should be necessary, that the only matter I knew of which I had any apprehension and which might be referred to in your coming message to Congress, is that regarding interstate commerce, and what the attitude of the railroads should be toward it.

"'I have communications from many conservative people in the West, asking me to take the matter up, they having information as to what you propose to say in your message on that subject, and I am very apprehensive about it.

"'Mr. Loeb stated that that part of the message could be sent to me, and I hope he will do so. I sincerely believe it would be best for all interests that no reference be made to the subject, and, in any event, if referred to, it should be done in such a way as not to bring about increased agitation. It is, as you well know, the conservative element and the one on which we all rely, which is the most seldom heard from.'

PRESIDENT EXPLAINS.

"This letter to me was crossed by one from which reads as follows:

"'Strictly personal. November 30, 1904—My Dear Mr. Harriman: Mr. Loeb tells me that you called me today on the telephone and recalled my letter to you of October 14, in which I spoke to you of a desire of seeing you before sending my message, as I wanted to go over certain matters, and you added that you heard that I had referred to the Interstate Commerce Commission; that you regretted this and wished I had left it out. In writing to you I had in view certain matters connected with currency legislation, and had not thought of discussing railroad matters with you. However, if it had occurred to me I would have been delighted to do so, but if you remember when you were down here, both you and I were so interested in certain of the New York political developments that I hardly, if at all, touched on governmental matters. As regards what I said in my message about the Interstate Commerce Commission, while I say I should have been delighted to go over it with you, I also must frankly say my mind was definitely made up.

CONSIDERED CAREFULLY.

"'Certain revelations connected with the investigation of the beef trust caused me to write the paragraph in question. I went with extreme care over the information in possession of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Before writing, I went over the written paragraph again and again with Paul Morton, who is, of all my Cabinet, the man most familiar with railroad matters, of course, and with Root, Knox, Taft and Moody. It is a matter which I had carefully considered for two years, and had gradually come to the conclusion that it is unwise and unsafe for me to leave the question of rebates where it is just now and to fail to give the Interstate Commerce Commission additional power of an effective kind in regulating these rates.

"'Let me repeat that I did not have this question in mind when I asked you to come down, but that I should most gladly have talked it over with you if it had occurred to me to do so, but, as a matter of fact, when you did come down to see me, you and I were both so engaged in the New York political situation that we talked of little else, and finally, that the position I have taken has not been taken lightly, but after thinking over the matter and looking at it from different standpoints for at least two years, and after the most careful consultation with Morton, Taft, Moody, Knox and Root, as to the exact phraseology I should use.

"I do not send you a copy simply because they have given no one a copy—not even the men above mentioned. It is impossible if I give out copies of any portion of my message to prevent the message being known in advance, and the three press associations who now have the message, are under heavy penalty not to disclose a word of it before the appointed time.'

"On December 2 he wrote me the following letter on the same subject:

HARRIMAN'S ANSWER.

"'December 2, 1904.—My Dear President.—Thank you for your favor of the 30th.

"'It is not natural for me to suppose that railroad matters would be included in any discussion you and I might have before writing your message. I am of the opinion that an effective Interstate Commerce Commission could regulate the matter of rebates and absolutely prevent the same, without any additional power of any kind, and, as you say, Paul Morton is more familiar with such matters than any other members of your Cabinet, and I believe he will agree with me in this. I fear there has been a lack of cooperation.

"'During the enormous development of the last four years, the railroads have found it very hard to keep pace with the requirements imposed upon them, and the so-called surplus earnings, as well as additional capital, have been devoted to providing additional facilities and the bettering and enlarging of their properties, so as to give the increased and better service required of them. This work of betterment and enlarging must go on, and is all-important for the proper development of all sections of the country. There is little doubt that during the next decade every single-track railroad in the country will have to be double-tracked and provide for enlarged terminals and other facilities, and any move that will tend to cripple them financially would be detrimental to all interests over the whole country.

"'I beg that you will pardon my not signing this personally, as I have to catch my train for Arden, and have asked my secretary to sign it for me.

"'Yours sincerely.'"

LETS MESSAGE STAND.

"I was unable to agree with Mr. Harriman's views of the matter and left my message unchanged as regards the Interstate Commerce law.

"The rough draft of this portion of the message was completed in October, before the election. I had always discussed with freedom all my proposed moves in railroad and labor matters with the representatives of the big combinations or big railroads, as well as with the leaders of labor men, of the farmers' organizations, the shippers' organizations, and the like; that is, I had freely seen and communicated with Mr. Harriman, Mr. Morgan, Mr. Hill and other railroad men, as I had seen and communicated with Mr. Gompers, Mr. Keefe, Mr. Morrissey and other labor leaders.

"Mr. Harriman, like most of the big railroad men, always has written me very strongly protesting against my proposed course as regards the supervision and control over big combinations, and especially over the big railroads—in a letter of his of August 15, 1902, for instance, he expressed the fear that a panic would follow my proposed action.

"It will be seen that the above correspondence is entirely incompatible with what Mr. Harriman now, as you inform me, alleges as to my having asked him to secure money or to subscribe money for the Presidential campaign. As for the Depew matter, he professed throughout to be acting in the interest of Gov. Odell and though Gov. Odell had been anxious that Mr. Depew should be nominated as Ambassador to France, at the time when he was supporting Gov. Black for Senator, he had changed his mind shortly after the last letter to me, above quoted from Mr. Harriman, and on December 10, he wrote me the letter I inclose, which reads in part as follows:

SEEKS HYDE'S APPOINTMENT.

"'My dear President: A great many of your friends here in New York would be very much delighted and pleased if you could find it possible to appoint Mr. James H. Hyde as Ambassador to France. Large business interests have given to him splendid executive abilities and his association with so many prominent business men would be fitting recognition of the effective work done by them in the last campaign.

"'In addition to this he has behind him, I am sure, the approval of Senator Platt and Senator Depew and, so far as I can speak for the organization, I believe his appointment would be, without question, more satisfactory than any that could be made from New York at the present time.

"'Personally, I should appreciate your favorable consideration of this suggestion almost beyond anything else you could do for me. If you so desire, I shall be glad to come to Washington and talk with you about it, but I believe there are others who are close to you and who feel just as I do, and I thought, therefore, that this letter would be sufficient as showing the attitude of the organizations and myself personally upon this important appointment.'

"As you know, I was obliged to refuse the request of the New York financiers and of the Republican organizers of the State and of the city, not deeming it proper to appoint Mr. Hyde to the position he sought.

"So much for what Mr. Harriman said about me personally. Far more important are the additional remarks he made to you. As you inform me, you who asked him if he thought it was well to see Hearstism and the like triumphant over the Republican party.

HEARSTITES CROOKS.

"You inform me that he told you that he did not care in the least, because those people were crooks and he could buy them; that whenever he wanted legislation from a State Legislature he could buy it; that he could 'buy Congress,' and that he could 'buy the judiciary.' This was doubtless said partly in boastful cynicism and partly in a burst of bad temper of his objection to the interstate commerce law and my actions as President. But it shows a cynicism and deep-seated corruption which make the man uttering such sentiments and boasting at least as undesirable a citizen as Debs or Moyer or Haywood.

"It is because we have capitalists capable of uttering such sentiments and capable of acting on them that there is strength behind sinister agitators of the Hearst type. The wealthy corruptionist and the demagogue who excites in the press or upon the stump, in office or out of office, class against class and appeals to the basest passions of the human soul, are fundamentally alike and are equally enemies of the republic.

"I was horrified, as was Root, when you told us today what Harriman had said to you. As I say, if you meet him you are entirely welcome to show him this letter, although it must not be made public, unless requested by some reason of public policy and then only after my consent has first been obtained.

"Sincerely yours,

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

The second letter to Sherman is as follows:

"The White House, Washington, October 19, 1906.—My dear Mr. Sherman: I would like to make an addenda to my letter to you of the other day. Both Mr. Cortelyou and Mr. Bliss, as soon as they found that Mr. Hyde had been suggested for Ambassador, protested to me against the appointment.

"Sincerely yours,

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

MANY DENIALS BY PRESIDENT.

IN MORE CONTROVERSIES THAN ANY PREDECESSOR.

List of Occasions When Chief Executive Has Claimed Willful Misrepresentation Is Longer Than That of Any Previous Occupant of the White House.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Students of history and public affairs credit President Roosevelt with more controversies in matters involving creditibility than any man who has occupied the White House since the republic was created. The President has seldom hesitated to allege wilful misrepresentation of himself.

In the rate bill discussion last year there was a whirlwind of denials following almost his every statement.

One of the most notable ocntroversies was that in which the President charged former Senator William E. Chandler of New Hampshire, with untruth in upholding Senator Tillman in his statement that the President had engaged in a "deal" to coax the Democrats to cast their strength in favor of the present railroad bill as a compromise measure when the Republicans had failed to rally to his support.

Another well-known instance was when the President charged former Ambassador and Mrs. Bellamy Storer with bad faith and misrepresentation regarding efforts to have Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul gain the cardinalate. Storer's recall as Ambassador to Italy was followed by an acrimonious discussion, and charges and counter-charges between the Storers and the President.

Henry M. Whitney, candidate for Lieutenant-Governor of Massachusetts, aroused the President's wrath when he went about on a canvass saying that his views were those expressed to him by the President concerning tariff revision. Roosevelt denounced Whitney's statements as wilful distortion of the facts.

Eugene N. Foss, one of the best known among New England tariff reformers, was also engaged in a discussion following an interview with the

FRICTION ENDS IN DISCHARGE

Berkeley Professor of Ger man Is Dropped.

Action Causes Sensation in State University.

Speeches by Subordinates Cause of Dismissal.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERKELEY, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The trouble that has existed in the German department of the University of California for some time past has broken out afresh. Martin A. Centner, for ten years instructor in German at the University, has not been reappointed to his post, as the result, it is said, of action taken by Prof. Hugo Karl Schilling, head of the department. His ground for dropping Centner from the teaching force of the University is said to be that Centner's presence was not conductive to good discipline in the German department.

Centner is not inclined to leave without a few words of explanation. While he would not go into detail, he gave the following statement and said he might have more to add later:

"I have my honor to defend, and you may be sure that I will not depart from this university after my ten years of faithful service without having my position placed before the people of the States whom I am serving here. The hundreds of students all over the State, who have been in my classes, and who have been graduated from the university here knows my record, and I feel confident that this decision will be that I have always acted for the interest of the university, and according to the directions of my conscience. Prof. Schilling was also disinclined to discuss the matter in details. He said: 'I cannot with propriety discuss this matter at all. It is something that I prefer not to talk about.'"

The dismissal of Centner at once recalled the discussion which came up in connection with Prof. Putzker's status in the German department several years ago, when Prof. Schilling came here from Harvard to take charge of that department. It had been thought likely that every possible effort would be made to prevent even the semblance of trouble of that sort. Those who profess to have some knowledge of the "inside" of the affair say that it is not hard to find a reason why Prof. Schilling should not be enthusiastic to retain Centner.

These persons refer to certain discussions held by the Staatsverbund, to which many prominent Germans of the State are members. Centner is a leading member of the organization. So is Prof. Schilling. It is said that when the Germans of California took up the cudgels for Prof. Putzker, Centner took a decided stand on matters of administration in the German department, and opposed the plans of Prof. Schilling not only openly but strenuously. Some of Centner's friends say that Prof. Schilling never forgave Centner for his acts and never forgot that he has been opposed on the floor of the German society by a subordinate in the German departments.

LOS ANGELES MINISTER TO SPEAK TO YOUNG WOMEN.

Girls Attending Student Conference at Capitola Hold Merry Gatherings "After Hours" by the Dim Flicker of Candle Light—"Baby" Delegation Enlivens Conference.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CAPITOLA, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dr. William Horace Day, of the First Congregational Church of Los Angeles, arrived here today to participate in the Student Conference of the Young Womens' Christian Association, after being delayed for some time on his journey North by the bad condition of the railroad tracks. He will conduct classes in the "life of Christ" and will also deliver lectures on "Japan," which will be illustrated with stereopticon views.

As the association girls get better acquainted there are many happy gatherings and social meetings which have to be indulged in after-hours by the dim flicker of candle lights, but this does not hinder merry bursts of laughter from penetrating the usually quiet halls. The conference members are very proud of their "baby" delegation from Whittier High School and notice that in song yells and enthusiasm they are not to be outdone by any college rivals.

Last night the High School girls entertained the Whittier College delegation in a most sumptuous spread. Having the example set for them, the Occidental College gave a candle light supper to the Nevada State University delegation this evening.

The most powerful address that the conference has yet heard was given by Dr. Johnston at the vesper services today. He spoke on "Christ's Charms" and pointed out that everything within the range of human knowledge is touched by a mystery which no one understands.

"There is no mystery so inscrutible," he said, "but is touched by a plain simple fact. There are two ways of approaching the study of anything: the first is to approach it on the side of its fact, to make the most of the fact, to push along the fact until the mystery is reached which will always happen sooner or later. Then the fact should not be denied because of the mystery touching it.

"This is the scientific method and all the progress in human knowledge has been gained in this way. The fact of electricity is a mystery which none of us understands fully, but any one would be foolish to deny the fact of electricity because he does not comprehend its mysteries.

"The other way to approach the study of anything," he continued, "is to get on the mystery side of the fact and refuse to accept the fact because you cannot solve the mystery. That is unscientific and it is hopeless. There are some people who will say they cannot accept fact in religion because they cannot fully understand the mysteries about it."

BERKELEY, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The trouble that has existed in the German department of the University of California for some time past has broken out afresh. Martin A. Centner, for ten years instructor in German at the University, has not been reappointed to his post, as the result, it is said, of action taken by Prof. Hugo Karl Schilling, head of the department. His ground for dropping Centner from the teaching force of the University is said to be that Centner's presence was not conductive to good discipline in the German department.

Centner is not inclined to leave without a few words of explanation. While he would not go into detail, he gave the following statement and said he might have more to add later:

"I have my honor to defend, and you may be sure that I will not depart from this university after my ten years of faithful service without having my position placed before the people of the State whom I am serving here. The hundreds of students all over the State, who have been in my classes, and who have been graduated from the university here knows my record, and I feel confident that this decision will be that I have always acted for the interest of the university, and according to the directions of my conscience."

TEN MONTHS' BUILDING RECORD.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—San Francisco's building permits for ten months between June, 1906, and March 31, 1907, are significant of the way the city is growing. Thirty-seven class A buildings were left by the fire, damaged but available. In addition to these, permits have been issued for twenty-seven other class A buildings, at an estimated cost of $5,684,000. Sixty-two class B buildings are estimated to cost $4,755,206.

For the 752 permits asked for to construct class C buildings the estimated expense is $20,475,597. Frame structures to the number of 448 call for the expenditure of $21,558,328. The 2009 alterations and repairs for which permits were given call for an expenditure of $5,066,405.

The total number of permits issued, 3298, calls for the expenditure of $57,518,-623. Adding 15 per cent. undervaluation, brings this total to $66,146,421. In addition to the above, temporary buildings were erected before June 20 to the number of about 4500.

FIERCE STORM NEAR FRESNO.

BLIZZARD IN SIERRAS STILL RAGES UNABATED.

Sawmills Forced to Shut Down, Stages Blockaded, Stations Snowbound, Mail Carried by Snowshoes, and Transportation Badly Interrupted—Worse Conditions Expected.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

FRESNO, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The fiercest storm known in years is now raging in the Sierras, fifty miles east. Since Monday night the blizzard has been continuous.

All the stations along the several stage routes are snowbound, and up as far as Shaver and Millwood the storm is very severe.

All operations in the sawmills, which had just opened, has been abandoned. A driver for the Pine Ridge Stage Company reports that the storm is growing more fierce from Pine Ridge toward the interior, and mail service is carried on by messengers on snowshoes.

At Shaver, the snow is four or five feet deep. At Millwood, forty miles south of Shaver, the storm is even greater. The stages of the Kings River Stage and Transportation Company can only run as far as Dunlap. From there to the mills at Millwood a road has been broken and the mails are carried on horseback.

A number of mill hands are here awaiting transportation to mills at Shaver. The fierceness of the storm shows no abatement, and conditions are expected to grow worse within the next few days.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Twenty-seven employés of the Port Blakeley Mill Company are quarantined in an annex to the hoted at the mill because a fellow-employé developed smallpox.

The man with the smallpox is supposed to have gone to Port Blakeley from Ballard, and had only been at work a few days, when the smallpox symptoms developed, and officers quarantined the hotel annex.

The sudden loss of twenty-seven men has embarrassed the mill company and the output of the plant has been cut down.

SLOPE BRIEFS.

Chinese Officers Coming.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—On the liner Siberia, due here about May 3, are coming a number of Chinese military officers who have been detailed by their government to attend the Jamestown Exposition for the purpose of studying foreign military and naval affairs. The delegation will include Lin Sung Chang, lieutenant, second grade, gunnery officer of the Chinese warship Hai Chi; Col. Li Ting Hsin, director of coast defense for the north; Maj. Hsiao Kiang Chen, commanding the first battalion, First Manchurian Division, and Capt. Wang Yen Pin, deputy aide-de-camp to the commander of the Second Division.

Supreme Court Decisions.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Supreme Court decisions today: In the case of A. S. Koyer vs. J. C. Wilson, involving a breach of contract for the purchase of a parcel of land in San Pedro, Los Angeles county, the court holds that motion for a non-suit should have been denied and remands the case for further proceedings. In the case of Clemence Kline against the Santa Barbara Consolidated Street Railway, the court affirmed a verdict of $8000 damages given to plaintiff for injuries received in an accident on one of the cars of the defendant in 1903.

Error Costs Life.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—The Rev. Henry Bontempo, missionary to the Slavonians in this city, was asphyxiated by gas at the clergy house of St. Ignatius Church last night. He turned out the stop cock when he retired for the night, but it appears that, through an error, caused by unfamiliarity with the gas attachments, he turned another on while putting the light out. He was 56 years of age and came here a few years ago from Dalmatia as a missionary.

MONTANA REDEEMS HERSELF.

HELENA (Mont.) April 2.—Yesterday's municipal elections in Montana resulted in a Republican landslide, only two cities in the State electing Democratic Mayors, while the opposition party was successful in all other instances where party nominations were made. As a rule party lines were closely drawn and a heavy vote was cast.

Great Falls and Lewistown elected straight Democratic tickets, while Billings, Bozeman, Livingston, Anaconda and Butte chose Republican Mayors. In Helena only Aldermen were elected, and the Republicans captured six out of seven.

In Red Lodge and Missoula, citizens' tickets were successful against the Socialists.

Preparations for the coming meeting of King Edward and King Alfonso are progressing. There will be a banquet on the warship Numancia at Cartagena, at which 100 covers will be laid. A feature will be the electric light display in the port. This will include the initials of the two Kings in letters forty-six feet high.

LABOR.

BREWERS KICK OUT UNIONISTS.

St. Louis Employers Declare Open Shop.

Tire of Dilly-Dallying With Totemites.

Neglect of Loafers to Heed Warning Costs Jobs.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The brewers of St. Louis declared open shop this afternoon, announcing that all negotiations with their 26,000 striking employés were at an end. This action followed a denial of a request from representatives of the striking unions for more time to consider a compromise wage scale submitted by the employers.

The brewers had announced that if the striking locals did not accept their terms by noon yesterday they would not be recognized further and their action was in accordance with this ultimatum. The late editions today of the evening newspapers contain a full page "help wanted" advertisement, reading as follows:

"Notice—To avoid an open rupture with organized labor, we has deferred for the past five days from filling the places of the striking employés, who, in the face of the liberal concessions made, refused to return to work. All the breweries in St. Louis, East St. Louis and Granite City now guarantee to hold all capable men, former employés being preferred."

This is signed:

"All the breweries."

C. Norman Jones, chairman of the committee representing the brewers in the conferences, said at the conclusion of the session:

"The locals have refused to accept the very fair terms we offered them and we have fulfilled our statement that we would declare an open shop. We are advertising for any laborers who will work for us. Any capable man can get a position with us, and if he makes good, stay with us.

"Negotiations are at an end. The engineers signed a five-year contract with us at the terms we offered, which were an increase from $20 a week to $23 for those paid the minimum amount, and they will continue at work. The drivers who accepted our offer of a 5 per cent. increase will also continue in our employ.

"Just after 12 o'clock the locals sent us a request for further time to consider the offers we made. We decided that we could not grant this."

When Secretary Kemper of the International Brewery Workers' Union was told by a reporter of the action of the brewers he expressed astonishment.

"It can't be true," he exclaimed. "I talked with Mr. Jones at 10 o'clock over the telephone and he promised us until 4 o'clock this afternoon."

Jones said this was an error on Kemper's part. All promises made by the breweries, he said, expired at 12 o'clock and they were no longer bound to recognize the unions. He said the strikers apparently intended to dilly-dally for days and that the brewers had finally been aroused from their lethargy to seek non-union help. If representatives of the unions cared to accept the compromise, he said they would be heard, but the breweries did not mean to hold themselves bound by it.

The last propositions submitted to their employés by the owners, offered to their brewers and maisters $16.50 a week—an advance of 50 cents over the old schedule. Others of the union were offered $17.50 instead of $17 a week. Employés of the bottling rooms were offered $2 a day for eight hours' work instead of $1.70 for a day of nine hours.

Corkers and fillers were offered $2.25 instead of $2 a day. The firemen 30 cents an hour for eight hours' work instead of $15 a week. The freight handlers $2 a day for eight hours instead of nine hours' work. The ice pullers the same wages for a like period of labor daily. The engineers $23 a week. The oilers $15 a week for eight hours' work a day instead of $62.50 a month and an eight-hour day. Laborers $2 a day for eight hours instead of $1.89 for nine hours.

Drivers and stablemen, who, with the engineers, refused to strike, were offered increases from $16 to $17.50 instead of from $14 to $15.

STATE'S CHIEF TAKES CHARGE.

GOVERNOR OF NEVADA TO BRING UNIONS TO TIME.

Sparks and Nixon Go to Goldfield to Make Extraordinary Effort to End Reign of Anarchistic Loafers' Organization—Serious Turn of Affairs Demands Some Settlement.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Extraordinary efforts were put forth tonight to effect a settlement of the labor troubles. Gov. Sparks and United States Senator Nixon arrived here today, the latter of whom, with George Wingfield, has the largest mining interests in the camp.

Gov. Sparks has kept clear of the turmoil so far, hoping that matters would be settled without his aid, but the serious turn affairs have taken and the fact that peace is not in sight has led the State officials to take a hand.

It has been known for some time that he was thinking of coming to Goldfield to act as arbitrator between the miners and mine owners, who, it is feared, will clash before the trouble ends. Senator Nixon is considered a strong friend of the miners and to intercede for them.

Gov. Sparks acted as mediator once before and settled the last labor dispute. He was in consultation all day with the leaders of the miners. A committee from the miners met the Executive Committee of the Mine Owners' Association late this evening. Tonight the miners held their regular weekly meeting and installed the new officers elected a week ago.

The visit of the State's chief executive to Goldfield at this particular time is the result of an invitation extended to him by those representing the mine owners, who are laboring most earnestly for a settlement of existing difficulties.

The Governor spent last night in Tonopah and there held a conference with representatives of the mine-owning interests in Goldfield district. This conference was subsequent to another which was held yesterday between representatives of the mine owners and the special committee which was appointed one week ago this evening at the meeting of the Miners' Union. At the latter conference the attitude of the mine owners was made clear to the representatives of the miners.

UNIONS STRIKE AND THREATEN TO USE DYNAMITE.

Employers Refuse to Treat With Totemites and Loafers' Organization Calls Out Thousand Men and Threatens to Dynamite Treadwell Properties.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Following the strained relations in labor circles on Douglas Island, the miners belonging to Union No. 1, employed in the Treadwell mines, the greatest low-grade mines in the world, today declared a strike. This decision was reached and the announcement made after the employers had refused to meet with the men and discuss their differences.

Secretary Thorpe, who posted the notice, says 1500 men are affected, all but 500 belonging to the union. In view of the threats made to dynamite the mine, guards have been thrown around the property, particularly at the powder mill.

The government troops requested by United States Marshall Shoup of Acting Governor Diston, of Alaska, reached the mines yesterday and are in command of Col. Greene. They made the trip from Fort Seward on the steamship Patterson in quick time.

IRON WORKERS STRIKE.

SAN FRANCISCO'S LATEST.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—A strike which may precipitate a general walkout of the iron workers of the Union and Risdon Iron Works was declared yesterday when about 150 blacksmiths and blacksmiths' helpers refused to go to work at those two establishments. While the strike affects only the unions directly involved, it is feared if the demands of the men are not granted that the entire force of workmen at the two works, marshalled under the leadership of the Iron Trades' Council, will strike.

The blacksmiths and helpers submitted to the employers an agreement providing for a rise of 25 to 50 cents in wages, making $4 a day for the former and $3 for the latter; they also asked for a nine-hour day. This agreement was submitted March 1. Thirty-five local concerns have granted the demands. The Union and Risdon works refused, and the walk-out resulted.

PROPRIETORS RUN LAUNDRY.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—Today the proprietors of every laundry in San Francisco and Oakland which has not acceded to the demands of the Laundry Workers Union are working at the Mercantile Laundry on Eighth street, where they are trying to complete the contracts which were made before the strike. There are forty-five of them and every department of the big laundry was running this morning.

The employers declare that they cannot accede to the terms of the union. They are willing, they say, to go back to the old agreement, but to meet the new demands of the union, they declare, would be ruinous.

MATRIMONIAL BUREAU USED TO LURE VICTIMS.

Woman Tells of Monstrous Scheme of Man Whom Daughter Advertised as Likely Husband and Whose Plan Was to Marry and Then Murder Applicants.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Asserting that James Marshall, alias James Rose, had married her at a matrimonial bureau here six weeks ago, Mrs. Majorie Friel caused Marshall and his daughter to be held on the nominal charge of false pretense today. They are under heavy bail.

The daughter conducted the matrimonial bureau, according to Mrs. Friel, and turned over applicants to her father who had been advertised as a "well-to-do gentleman," anxious to find a wife. On the witness stand Mrs. Friel said Marshall deserted her two days after the wedding.

Evidence is being collected by detectives she put on the case and the United States postal authorities in an attempt to show that Marshall murdered most of his applicants and that he now has one hundred wives scattered over the country.

That Marshall murdered six persons within the last month is one of the things Mrs. Friel expects to prove. Both the postal authorities and the city detectives are working on the case as it is charged that Marshall had been usin~ the United States mails in his scheme to lure women here.

RUEF IN COURT.

ously. "The statement of a lawyer against yours."

"What was that compliment you hurled at yourself?" inquired Ach.

Shortridge prevented further hostilities with some gracious remark.

Ach was trying to find out how much one of the jurors knew about San Francisco French restaurants.

"If I were in the habit of dining every day at the Poodle Dog Café, would you have known it?"

JOHNSON INTERRUPTS.

"For heaven's sake keep your habits out of this Mr. Ach," said Johnson cuttingly.

Only two talesmen were examined today—one J. R. Bradstreet, a weatherstrip manufacturer, who kept protesting that he did not want to serve. They asked him if he had ever visited the French restaurant which alleges extortion.

"Yes," he said. "In 1878 I sold a dozen bullfrogs there for a dollar and a half."

The other talesman was Angelo R. Duperu, a broker, who knew all the Spreckels family, knew the French restaurants and worked on the relief committee.

Ruef is trying hard to remove him, but is so far unsuccessful.

Questions put to Duperu indicate that Ruef will try to prove he (Ruef) is the victim of conspiracy of the corporations to oust him and grab franchises. Also that there may be warm developments about French restaurants and high society.

When court adjourned today, Attorney Johnson claims that Ruef sent some order to Steve Bunner, the leading detective in San Francisco. An attempt to rescue Ruef is still feared.

RUEF LAWYERS HAVE A CLASH.

ONE TALESMAN AFFORDS SOME COURT COMEDY.

List of Many Questions Asked Veniremen by Counsel for Defense, Ach and Duperu Engage in Sarcastic Repartee—Johnson Claims Sheriff Must Again Be Disqualified.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—A legal battle that promises to last for a week and is expected to be, in a measure, pivotal on all the criminal proceedings growing out of the grand jury's bribery-graft investigation, was begun in earnest today, when Abraham Ruef, San Francisco's indicted political boss, was placed on trial in Judge Dunne's department of the Superior Court on the charge of extorting large sums of money from local French restaurateurs under a threat that unless paid he and Mayor Schmitz would prevent the renewal of their liquor licenses by the Police Commission.

Only a very brief session of court was held in the morning, adjournment being taken until 2 o'clock, owing to the absence of a talesman, for whom a bench warrant was issued.

When court adjourned at the conclusion of the afternoon session, one talesman had been examined, and passed without challenge by both sides and a second was under examination by the defense. The first is J. R. Bradstreet, a weather-strip manufacturer, of No. 759 Eddy street; the second, Angelo R. Duperu, a real estate man, living at No. 2152 Pine street.

Hiram W. Johnson, as special counsel for the prosecution, and Henry Ach of counsel for Ruef, conducted the examination of talesmen, and the questions put by them indicated to a degree how searching is to be the scrutiny that must be withstood by each of the twelve men who will weigh the guilt or innocence of Ruef.

Aside from the stereotyped queries commonly put to jurors to determine their qualification, these are some of the more indicative questions to which the defense demanded direct answers:

"Do you personally know or have you ever had business relations or dealings with any of the owners, managers, editors, sub-chiefs or reporters of the San Francisco press?"—naming many of them.

"Prior to the earthquake and fire were you familiar with the French restaurants of this city, or did you know their proprietors, or ever have business dealings with them?"—naming each in turn.

"Have you an acquaintance, personal or business, with any member of the municipal government, or their parents?"—calling four or more of them by name.

"Do you know any member of the present grand jury?"

"Have you any prejudice against lawyers?"

"Have you any prejudice against a lawyer receiving a fee in pursuit of his professional business?"

"Would you be prejudiced against a lawyer because he charged a client more for his professional service than other lawyers might charge, or than you thought he was entitled to charge?"

"Are you prejudiced, politically, or otherwise, against the Union Labor party?"

"Are you prejudiced against Abraham Ruef because of his participation in politics?"

"Are you acquainted with any one who is said to be the very active political enemy of Ruef or of Mayor Schmitz?"

"Have you formed any opinion as to the connection of Rudolph Spreckels with this prosecution?" (Spreckels guaranteed a fund of $100,000 for the expenses of the present investigation.)

"Are you friendly with, or do you know, or have you had any dealings with, any member of the Spreckels family?"

"If you knew the Spreckels family was behind this prosecution would that tend to prejudice you one way or the other?"

"Do you know which one of the Superior judges named you as a talesman?"

"Has the fact that Judge Dunne disqualified Sheriff O'Neill and appointed an elisor, or that in your presence Judge Dunne declared Ruef to be a fugitive from justice prejudiced you against the defendant?"

"Did you believe Ruef to be a fugitive from justice after he had been so declared?"

"Have you changed your mind on that point?"

"Did you believe that Judge Dunne believed that Ruef was a fugitive from justice?"

"Did your belief that Judge Dunne believed Ruef to be a fugitive from justice cause you to believe that Judge Dunne believed Ruef guilty of the crime charged against him."

"If a witness for the prosecution whom you personally knew and whom, by virtue of that acquaintance, you considered to be a truthful man, testified one way on a vital point in this case, and Ruef, whom you say you do not know, testified oppositely, would your acquaintance with the prosecution's witnesses cause you to believe him, and find Ruef guilty, or would you, following the instructions which the court will deliver, give Ruef the benefit of the doubt, and find him not guilty?"

"Have you such a prejudice against persons called political bosses that you could not give them a fair trial?"

"Are you prejudiced against political bosses?"

"Do you belong to any labor union?"

"Are you prejudiced against the Union Labor party?"

"Suppose you should reach the conclusion that this case is being prosecuted with ulterior motives by men who had failed to obtain, by the influence of Ruef, certain franchises, and were determined therefore to punish the Board of Supervisors by means of special prosecution paid for out of a private fund—would that conclusion prejudice you against, or in favor of, this prosecution?"

To this question Judge Dunne sustained an objection by the people.

"If the rulings of this court upon objections interposed should indicate to you that this court has reached a conclusion as to the guilt or innocence of Ruef, would that prejudice you against the defendant?"

The process of jury-getting was frequently enlivened by clashes of counsel out of which sprang keen retorts, and by flashes of unconscious humor struck from talesmen by questions put. Juror Bradstreet early in the afternoon session fastened curious attention upon himself by the vehemence with which he expressed his disinclination to eventually sit in the jury box. He declared that he thought he could better employ his time by attending to his business and looking out for his wife and babies than by "sitting here listening to this case."

Reminded by Prosecutor Johnson that he owed also a duty to the municipality the juror retorted: "Yes, but my duty is to my family first, and I can't make a living here."

At another point in his examination, Bradstreet provoked a wave of merriment by replying thus to the question whether he had had any acquaintance with the keeper of a certain fashionable French restaurant:

"No, I haven't. Yes, I have, too. One day in 1878 or 1879, I went out and caught a lot of bull frogs, and took them down to his place and sold them to him. I had that acquaintance with the man. But I don't want to serve on this case."

By the time the talesman was finished with, his fellow jurors were wiping tears of laughter from their eyes, and it was with difficulty the bailiffs kept order in the court.

During the examination of prospective jurors, Ruef sat close to Attorney Ach, and within six feet of the former, eying them with unwavering glances, noting their replies keenly, whispering often with his counsel, and frequently jotting down notes on a pad.

Special Prosecutor Johnson and Attorney Ach exchanged sharp thrusts during the examination of Juror Duperu. "Did you," asked Ach, "visit Marchand's frequently — daily for lunch, as I did—or only upon occasion?"

"Kindly refrain from injecting your habits into this record, Mr. Ach," said Johnson.

Ruef's counsel, angered, but cool, turned and began a cutting reply when Judge Dunne interfered. "Proceed with the case," gentlemen," he commanded. "Mr. Ach, save your retort until after adjournment."

"If your honor would see to it that no occasion for retort were allowed," Ach answered, "I should not be under the necessity of making one."

A little later Ach broke in upon Duperu while he was replying to a question, and Johnson protested:

"Go right ahead and answer, Mr. Duperu—don't mind him. Mr. Ach, let the juror finish."

"Don't tell me what to do!" cried Ach.

"Somebody ought to," responded Johnson.

"You can't tell me how to proceed," retorted Ach.

"But I could teach you," was the reply.

After the court was adjourned Johnson made the interesting statement that inasmuch as the motion for the prosecution upon which Sheriff O'Neil was disqualified (for personal interest) did not contemplate the appointment of an elisor for any purpose other than to have the custody of Ruef, the Sheriff must be a second time formally disqualified, if the duties of Elisor Biggy are to be extended to include the drawing of a special venire and the guarding of the jury. The understanding, though unofficial, is that this will be done.

The trial of Ruef will be resumed tomorrow morning.

EVIDENCE FOR INDICTMENTS.

HOME TELEPHONE OFFICIALS FACE BAD PROSPECTS.

Torrance and Others Threatened With Indictment—Prosecution Says It May Have "Two Whacks at Them, Bribery and Perjury"—Testimony of Unwilling Witnesses.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The grand jury, under the direction of Heney, applied the torch this afternoon to various officers and directors of the Home Telephone Company, and its security-holding associate corporations, and smooted out enough evidence according to the prosecutors to warrant the indictment of several of its Los Angeles and San Francisco officials.

Incidentally, the grand jury inquiry disclosed the methods of a financial "ring," backing the Home Telephone Company and its auxiliary corporations, and the methods by which A. B. Cass, J. S. Torrance, James P. Adams and Thomas W. Phillips, capitalists of Los Angeles; A. K. Detweiler and F. F. Graves, moneyed men of Toledo, and George F. Hatton, a railroad lobbyist and attorney, of San Francisco, multiplied additional millions by stock and bond transactions in Home Telephone securities.

Not only is J. S. Torrance threatened with indictment by the grand jury, declares the prosecution, but other Los Angeles capitalists, associated with him are equally involved. J. S. Torrance, A. B. Cass, President of the Home Telephone Company of Los Angeles, F. F. Graves, Detweiler's handy man from Toledo; A. K. Detweiler, who is already indicted and a fugitive from justice; James P. Adams of the Adams-Phillips Banking Company, and Thomas W. Phillips of the same company, who has fled from subpeona servers and is believed to be in consultation with Detweiler in the East, are also in the same boat, and as all but Phillips and Detweiler have taken the witness stand in the grand jury room, the prosecution—to us a phrase of a member of the District Attorney's staff—may "have two whacks at them—bribery and perjury."

ORIGIN OF FUND.

The attention of the grand jury was devoted definitely to proving the origin of the boodle fund, which it is charged that A. K. Detweiler gave to Ruef for buying the Supervisorial votes to secure the issuance of a $1,000,000 telephone franchise in this city.

The evidence of unwilling witnesses showed that three security-holding companies of Los Angeles and San Francisco furnished the fund by a 30 per cent. payment on Home Telephone bonds.

In laying bare the transactions of these auxiliary companies Atty. Hatton, one of the active agents of the Home Telephone Company since its inception, was grilled and sweated by the inquisitors until he emerged from the grand jury room flushed and flurried.

Before taking the witness stand Hatton was warned that anything he might say would be used against him, which is not done except where the prosecution expects that the witness may later become a principal.

Under the questioning of Heney, Hatton was forced to tell of his connection with the Home Telephone Company, and although familiar with the bribing of the Supervisors, he was compelled to throw a flood of light upon the raising of the Home Telephone fund and the transactions of its promoters.

HATTON'S FAT JOB.

At the time the Home Telephone Company sought entrance to San Francisco, the city was facing the Mayoralty campaign of 1905. Hatton was retained by the Home Telephone Company at a fee of $5000 a year, for four years, and was given full sway.

The railroad lobbyist used Home Telephone money lavishly to secure the nomination of men favorable to granting the company a franchise on the fusion ticket, then headed by John S. Partridge, and opposed to the Labor Union ticket, headed by Schmitz, and selected by Abe Ruef.

The Home Telephone Company entered the fight to secure the election of a friendly board of Supervisors, but, in the open, appeared to favor the Ruef ticket.

The "boss" and his Mayor triumphed, and the efforts of Hatton came to naught.

At that time there remained one thing only for Hatton to do, and that was to approach the triumphant Ruef with suitable offers for the securing of the franchise. Ruef and Hatton, however, were bitter enemies, and Hatton refused to do the company's bidding.

Meantime certain Los Angeles and Toledo officials were meeting at the old Palace Hotel and planning the deal whereby the city's boss was to acquire several hundred thousands of dollars and the Home Telephone a $1,000,000 franchise.

When the Home Telephone Company was organized it was bonded at $5,000,000. The directors of the Home Company at that time comprised the Los Angeles aggregation, among whom were several witnesses examined yesterday afternoon. Soon the Empire Construction Company of Oakland entered into a contract with the Home, by the terms of which it acquired the $5,000,000 of bonds and an equivalent amount of Home Telephone stock. The directors of the Empire Construction Company were Detweiler, Torrance, Graves, Cass, Adams and Phillips. In return, the Empire was to construct the Home system and put in operation 15,000 telephones.

THEIR UNDERWRITERS.

At this juncture the underwriting companies came into existence. The Western Trust Company of Los Angeles subscribed for $1,000,000 worth of bonds, for which it paid $975 for each $1000 bond. With every bond they were given free 1000 shares of Home Telephone stock.

Among the directors of this corporation are Cass, Torrance, Adams, Phillips and Tobias Earl, owner of the Los Angeles Express.

In San Francisco, the Northern Investment Company was organized, with practically the same people as directors, among them being Gerstle, Cass, Torrance, Graves, Adams, Phillips and Detweiler. This corporation subscribed for $10,500,000 of Home Telephone bonds, but bought each $1000 bond for $900 each, and received equivalent Home stock.

Another corporation, called "the Central Securities Company of San Francisco," was organized by the same crowd, subscribed for $2,000,000 of the Home's bond and underwrote about $1,500,000, securing equivalent Home Telephone stock.

These three underwriting companies bought the Home Telephone bonds from the Empire Company which, in the case of the Central, executed characteristic piece of "frenzied finance."

The Empire gave but half of the equivalent stock to the Central Securities Company, the subscribers of that company receiving about 50 per cent. and leaving a profit of approximately $750,000 to be divided among its promoters.

AND MORE YET.

Still another company was formed by this coterie of financiers, the United States Telephone Company. This corporation contracted with the Home to handle its long-distance service, in which lies the greatest profit in the telephone business, and again the names of Cass, Phillips, Adams, Detweiler, Torrance and Graves appear.

From the three underwriting companies was raised the fund which financed Ruef and the Supervisors in the project of giving away the city's valuable franchise.

In April last, 15 per cent. payment on the bonds was called for by the Home Telephone Company. The Western Trust Company of Los Angeles came through with $150,000; the Northern Investment Company of San Francisco turned in approximately $225,000, and the Central Securities Company of this city, approximately $225,000.

With this fund the Supervisors and the Mayor were bought to betray the city, while Ruef received a bountiful attorney fee for "facilitating" their dishonesty.

A second call of 15 per cent. was made by the Home on the three companies last December, and the amounts were paid. Thus 30 per cent. of the bonds have been paid for by the subscribing security companies.

Much of the foregoing was forced from Hatton on the witness stand yesterday. Much was corroborated by President Henry T. Scott of the Pacific States Company, and Secretary and Treasurer F. W. Eaton of the Pacific States Company, who are directors in the Home Telephone Company.

WITNESSES YESTERDAY.

Among those who were called to testify to the formation of the Home Telephone Company were R. M. Hotaling, an early director of the corporation; J. J. Mahoney, the contractor; Vanderlin Stow and Mrs. Jane Friendly, who was stenographer for Marcus L. Gerstle for several years, and was one of the directors of the Northern Investment Company when it was organized.

Marcus L. Gerstle was the attorney for the Home Telephone Company, in conjunction with Hatton. He said, after leaving the grand jury room, he was familiar with the underwriting of the Home Telephone Company's bonds by the Northern Investment Company, but declared that the prosecution could not use his testimony.

Henry T. Scott, president of the Pacific States Telephone Company; F. W. Eaton, secretary, and E. J. Zimmer, former auditor and now vice-president of the same company, were questioned by Heney as to their knowledge of the payment of the bribe money by Halsey now under indictment.

The books of the Pacific States Telephone Company, which were procured by Detective Burns and showed the withdrawal of $50,000 from the bank at the time of Halsey's bribery.

Zimmer was an auditor at that time. Under Glass's direction it is shown Zimmer drew the boodle money from the bank, and passed it on to Halsey.

From the cross-examination of Zimmer today, a strong mesh of corroborating evidence was adduced.

SPRING VALLEY COMPANY.

The grand jury probed the affairs of the Spring Valley Water Company, besides continuing the investigation of the Home Telephone Company and the Pacific States Telephone Company. Capt. A. H. Payson was the only witness who represented the Spring Valley.

"Has Spring Valley ever had any dealings with Ruef?" asked Heney.

"Most emphatically, no," replied Payson.

Payson volunteered a statement regarding the status of the water company.

"The Spring Valley Water Company is on its last legs," he said, "its resources are crippled. Something must be done if the people of San Francisco are still to have its services. We have plenty of water and the plant is in good condition, but financially its condition is very bad."

Capt. William Swift, who commanded the battleship Connecticut when she struck on rock.

was found guilty of inattention and neglect of duty by the court-martial which tried him at Norfolk. The Navy Department reviewed the sentence and today it was announced by Assistant Secretary Newberry that Capt. Swift will be suspended from duty for nine months and will lose three numbers.

The court-martial recommended suspension for a year and a half and a loss of five numbers, but also asked for leniency.

ADOPTS TWO-CENT RATE.

ST. PAUL (Minn.) April 2.—Both houses of the Legislature today adopted the 2-cent passenger rate ticket formulated by the joint committee which had been appointed to receive the compromise proposed on behalf of the railroad. The compromise did not come up to the expectations of the legislators and as a result it was decided to recommend the passage of the bill making a flat rate of 2 cents per mile for passenger service throughout the State. The bill now goes to the Governor for his signature.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] President Ripley of the Santa Fé has made an ineffectual demand upon the postoffice authorities for the temporary privilege of transporting mails destined for Southern California, which are now being delayed by washouts on the Ogden route. The postoffice officials declare they cannot divert the mail to the Santa Fé without transgressing all precedent, and that the Southern California route will be left undisturbed no matter what its condition.

It is charged by the officials of the road that if it were not that this is reweighing period in the third section west of Chicago to the Missouri River the mails would be diverted to that road the moment anything was wrong with the other route.

Wins Young and Pretty Oakland Girl, Marries Her, and Now, Ten Days After, Is in Court Asking to Be Allowed His Property Back Because She Has Left Him.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NIOBRARA (Neb.) April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Leonard Weigand of Niobrara, the octogenarian of this town, who, two weeks ago, married Matty Douglas, a young and pretty girl of Oakland, Cal., is now mourning the loss of his wife and a considerable bunch of his property, which she took with her when she ran away from him several days ago.

Weigand has asked the court to set aside the deed to a lot of property which he transferred to her before the marriage, and which his children are seeking to save.

Weigand, who is 83 years old, was in San Francisco during the earthquake, and met Miss Douglas, just 23, in Oakland, afterward. They corresponded after the old man came home and two weeks ago she came to Omaha and was met by Weigand and they were married.

Before the ceremony was performed Weigand turned over valuable property to her. After living together ten days the new wife deserted the old man, taking with her, so he claims, deeds to lands and other valuables of which he cannot remember the amount. The court has been asked to set aside the deeds and return the property to Weigand.

LAME BACK.

Lame back is only one of many symptoms of kidney trouble. Other symptoms showing that you need Swamp-Root are, being obliged to pass water often during the day, and to get up many times during the night, inability to hold your urine, smarting or irritation in passing, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, catarrh of the bladder, uric acid, occasional headache, dizziness, poor digestion, sleeplessness, nervousness, sometimes the heart acts blues, rheumatism, bloating, irritability, worried feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion.

If your water when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling, or has a cloudy appearance, it is also evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

In taking Swamp-Root you afford natural help to nature, for Swamp-Root is the most perfect healer and gentle aid to the kidneys that has yet been discovered.

If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at drug stores everywhere. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

SPECIAL NOTE—In order to prove the wonderful merits of Swamp-Root you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy they needed. The value and success of Swamp-Root are so well known that all readers are advised to send for a sample bottle. In sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure to say you read this generous offer in the L. A. Daily Times. The genuineness of this offer is guaranteed.

LETTER STOLEN, SAYS HARRIMAN

Magnate Then Gives to Newspapers Letters Which He Says Are Omitted from Sherman Correspondence as Published and Contradicts Implications Made in Executive Publication.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, April 2.—E. H. Harriman late tonight gave out the following statement in response to the statement made public by the President at Washington today:

"For many years I have maintained an intimate correspondence with my friend, Sydney Webster. What I wrote him and what he wrote me was of course intended for our eyes alone. In the course of a letter which he wrote me in December, 1905, he warned me against being drawn into politics and questioned whether I had any political or party instinct. This drew from me the reply to Webster's inquiry, which, in a substantially correct form, had been stolen and published. The letter was written on January 2, 1906, at a time when no one could doubt the cordiality of my relations with the President.

"About ten days ago I was told that a discharged stenographer was trying to sell to some newspapers a reproduction from his notes of one of my private letters. I could hardly believe that any matter so obtained would be accepted or published. Yet I made every effort to prevent it. When I learned late yesterday afternoon that a New York paper had a transcript of these notes I notified the publisher at once of the facts and urged upon his attention the gross outrage that the publication of it under such circumstances would involve. While deploring, of course, that the sacredness of a private correspondence should be thus violated, I cannot withdraw any thing in the letter.

"I have read the President's statement. I am most anxious to treat him and his utterances with the consideration due to the high office which he holds. Nevertheless I feel bound to call attention to certain things in regard to which he does me an injustice.

"In his letter to Representative Sherman he clearly seeks to convey the impression that the personal interview with him in the fall of 1904 was of my seeking and not his. He says:

"'His (Harriman's) and my letters now before me in the fall of 1904, run as follows:

"'On his return from spending the summer in Europe, on September 1, he (Harriman) wrote me, stating that if I thought it desirable he would come to see me at any time, then or later. When he had been, as you remember, a delegate to the Republican convention, having voted for my nomination. On September 23 I answered his letter, saying:

"'"At present there is nothing for me to see you about, though there were one or two points in my letter of acceptance which I would like to have discussed with you before putting it out."'

"Let me present the facts. On June 29, 1904, the President wrote me the following letter, which he does not include in the correspondence published today. It reached me in Europe:

"'WHITE HOUSE, Washington, June 29, 1904—Personal: My dear Mr. Harriman, I thank you for your letter. As soon as you come home I will want to see you. The fight will doubtless be hot then. It has been a real pleasure to see you this year.

"'Very truly yours,

"'THEODORE ROOSEVELT.'

"In reply to this I wrote him on my return from Europe the letter of September 20, the opening sentences of which he eliminated in his publication:

"'NEW YORK, Sept. 20, 1904. My Dear President: I was glad to receive your note of June 29 last while I was in Europe. I am now getting matters that accumulated during my absence somewhat cleared up, and if you think it desirable will go to see you at any time either now or later. It seems to me that the situation could not be in better shape.

"'Yours sincerely,

"'E. H. HARRIMAN.'

"To the President, Washington.'

"Then followed a series of invitations from the White House both from the President and his secretary urging me to go to Washington. On October 15 the President wrote:

"'In view of the trouble over the State ticket in New York I should like to have a few words with you. Do you think you can get down here within a few days or take either luncheon or dinner with me?'

"On October 14, he wrote:

"'My Dear Mr. Harriman: A suggestion has come to me in a roundabout way that you do not think it wise to come to see me in the three closing weeks of the campaign, but that you are reluctant to refuse, inasmuch as I have asked you.'

"A funeral in my family prevented a prompt response to the President's repeated invitations, but finally about October 20, I was able to go to Washington and see him. There is some difference of recollection as to what transpired at that interview.

"Fortunately the President himself in his 'personal' letter of November 20, throws some light upon what did take place. He says:

"'If you remember when you were down here both you and I were so interested in certain of the New York political developments that I hardly touched upon governmental matters.'

"Again in the same letter he says: 'As a matter of fact as you will remember when you did come down to see me we were both so engaged in the New York political situation that we talked of little else.'

"The invitation of October 15 made me to the White House to have a few words with the President 'in view of the State ticket in New York.' I had replied on October 12:

"'I am giving a very large extent of my time to correcting the trouble here and intend to do so if any effort on my part can accomplish it. I will take occasion the first of next week to run

This letter was written on January 2, 1906, at a time when no one could doubt the cordiality of my relations with the President.

"About ten days ago I was told that a discharged stenographer was trying to sell to some newspapers a reproduction from his notes of one of my private letters. I could hardly believe that any matter so obtained would be accepted or published. Yet I made every effort to prevent it. When I learned late yesterday afternoon that a New York paper had a transcript of these notes I notified the publisher at once of the facts and urged upon his attention the gross outrage that the publication of it under such circumstances would involve. It seems to me that the situation could not be in better shape.

"'Yours sincerely,

"'E. H. HARRIMAN.'

"'To the President, Washington.'"

Then followed a series of invitations from the White House both from the President and his secretary urging me to go to Washington. On October 10, the President wrote:

"'In view of the trouble over the State ticket in New York I should like to have a few words with you. Do you think you can get down here within a few days or take either lunch- eon or dinner with me?'"

On October 14, he wrote:

"'My Dear Mr. Harriman: A suggestion has come to me in a roundabout way that you do not think it best to come to see me in these closing weeks of the campaign, but that you are reluctant to refuse, inasmuch as I have asked you.'

"A funeral in my family prevented a prompt response to the President's repeated invitations, but finally about October 20, I was able to go to Washington and see him. There is some difference of recollection as to what transpired at that interview.

"Fortunately the President himself in his 'personal' letter of November 20, throws some light upon what did take place. He says:

"'If you remember when you were down here both you and I were so interested in certain of the New York political developments that I hardly at all touched upon governmental matters.'

"Again in the same letter he says: 'As a matter of fact as you will remember when you did come down to see me we were both so engaged in the New York political situation that we talked of little else.'

"The invitation of October 10 bade me to the White House to have a few words with the President 'in view of the State ticket in New York.' I had replied on October 12:

"'I am giving a very large extent of my time to correcting the trouble here and intend to do so if any effort on my part can accomplish it. I will take occasion the first of next week to run down to see you, and I think by that time the conditions will be very much improved.'

"Whether I was seeking his aid to secure the adherence of the State of New York to the State ticket, or he was seeking mine, is proved or disproved by this correspondence, and I cheerfully submit to the public whether the inference clearly suggested by the President is the proper one. I did not so understand it from the invitation nor from the interview.

"The President dwells at length on the assertion that he did not ask me to contribute 'for the Presidential campaign,' nor for his 'personal benefit.' I do not deny this statement, nor is it at all consistent with the assertions I made in the Webster letter respecting the interview.

"Therein I distinctly said:

"'The President sent me a request to go to Washington for a conference upon the political conditions in New York State. I complied and he told me the campaign could not be successfully carried on without sufficient money and asked if I would help them in raising the necessary fund as the National Committee under Chairman Cortelyou had utterly failed of obtaining them, and there was a large amount due them from the New York State Committe.'

"If that means anything whatever it must be that he was urging me to help the New York State Committee and not the National Committee nor the Presidential campaign except so far as the success of the State ticket would contribute to the success of the national ticket.

"What the condition of the finances of the New York State Committee and of the Republican Committee is, is well known to every one. That the National Committee did owe the State Committee and the State Committee was in financial straits is notorious. I was not a political manager. I was asked to go to Washington by the President in the interests of the State ticket. I could help raise money. That I did help in this regard; that I did raise funds immediately upon my return from the interview with the President is undeniable and to this fund I contributed $50,000. My interview with the President covered a wide range of subjects connected with the New York State convention and I did not pretend to go over the whole matter in the Webster letter.

"The President's letter of October 10, and his comment thereon are interesting. In that letter he suggested that I might think there was some danger in my visiting him during the closing weeks of the campaign and suggested that if I thought so my visit might be postponed until after election when he would ask me to 'discuss some governmental matters connected with the campaign.' Here were two distinct invitations to discuss two different subjects. I could see no danger in visiting him to discuss New York politics before the election and therefore I went and discussed the subject alone and after the election took up the other subject for consideration with him.

"I think if what concerned me as to the object of the visit had been the government's relation to the railroads the interview would certainly not have been entirely confined to politics.

"'I am not responsible for what Mr. Sherman may have said to the President with reference to the conversation he had with me. All that I have to say is that I did meet his urgent requests; that I contributed to his campaign fund and that the statements alleged to have been attributed to me by him were false. The President was assured of this fact by a mutual friend who was present at the interview."

APPOINT DETECTIVE.

FRESNO, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A. F. Derrick of Oakland has been appointed private detective for the county. His appointment is made possible by the county government act, and will be of material assistance to the District Attorney in gathering information against criminals.

There is no power given the new officer to make arrests, and in this sense he is not connected with the District Attorney's office.

Derrick is well known in Oakland as a private detective. He has had considerable experience, ranging over a number of years. His duties began today.

DESERTING SOLDIERS SHOT.

GALVESTON (Tex.) April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Deserting Mexican soldiers, located on Texas ranches near Eagle Pass, were captured by a squad of Mexican soldiers, who started for Mexico with them. The four prisoners were shot by the guards before reaching the barracks.

These deserters told tales of extreme cruelty by the hands of the Mexican army officers. The victims had been trying to reach President Diaz, they claimed, with a complaint against the officers, but failing, deserted to the States for the purpose of communicating with President Diaz.

The officers, designing their plans, had them shot to death upon the pretense, it was alleged, that in trying to escape they had been killed by their guards.

APPOINTMENT EXPECTED.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It is expected that the President will shortly announce the appointment of W. C. Van Fleet of San Francisco as additional United States Judge for California, which office was created at the last session of Congress.

Senator Flint, who has just returned to Washington from a trip to Cuba and Porto Rico, along with Secretary of the Navy Metcalf, called at the White House today to urge Judge Van Fleet's appointment. Judge Van Fleet is indorsed by the entire California delegation for the position, and his selection is expected within a few days.

ATTACK WATCHMAN.

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An I.W.W. agent, named Gilkerson, is under arrest, charged with assault with intent to kill. Gilkerson is one of three I.W.W. thugs who surprised D. A. Shea, a night watchman at the Daisy mine, swooping down upon him when he was out of reach of the gun he had near by, held a revolver against his breast and cursed and searched him. After this they hustled him into the I.W.W. hall at Diamondfield, which is near the Daisy mine, five miles north of Goldfield, and there administered a bellicose warning, punctuated by raps over the captive's head with a gun in the hands of one of the captors, "Kid" Allen.

Shea was told he would return to the employ of the mine only at the risk of his life, and was threatened with death should he come to Goldfield and tell of his experience. He found an escort and came to Goldfield, where he swore to the warrant that resulted in Gilkerson's apprehension. His other assailants have not yet been taken.

Allen, the most brutal and the most orthodox I.W.W. member of the cowardly trio, wanted to kill Shea at the mine, or at least break his legs, but was dissuaded by his two accessories, who feared the consequences.

MACHINISTS QUIT.

SEATTLE, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Seventy-five machinists went on strike today at the Moran shipyards, the Washington Iron Works and the Union Machinery and Supply Company, because employers failed to grant a minimum wage scale of 40 cents an hour. At Moran's work on the battleship Nebraska alone is being done, the advance being granted to the machinists on this job on account of its importance.

The strike, which was agreed upon Sunday night, if the minimum scale was not raised from $3.25 to $3.60 per day, affects all union machinists employed by these companies, although all have maintained an open shop and a large number of non-union men are employed.

T. H. Stevens, walking delegate for the machinists, has been in conference all day with the employers, and he says the demands will be met after the employers have had time to get another on the proposition.

PEARY HAS FUNDS.

NEW YORK, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Commander Robert E. Peary, it was learned today, now has the $200,000 necessary for his coming experition to the Far North, and expects to set out about the last of June.

WHITE'S ART COLLECTION.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Eight hundred persons, including artists, connoisseurs and dealers, visited the Stanford White house yesterday and viewed the art objects which are to be sold at auction on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. Admission was by ticket. Another public exhibition will be given today.

Announcement is made that a Greek squadron will meet the Italian royal yacht off Crete on the occasion of the visit of King Victor Emmanuel to Athens and will escort the Italian vessels to the Poraeus. Princess Milena of Montenegro, mother of the Queen of Italy, who has been seriously ill, is on the road to recovery.

WEEK SHORT ON BASEBALL.

Local Fans Get Worst of It by New Schedule.

Portland Secures Two Weeks More at Home.

Season Will Open Here With Big Parade.

The baseball magnates of the Pacific Coast League have finally rearranged the schedule to fit the changed conditions of postponing the opening of the season one week, and as a result the schedule seems to be mixed a trifle. Los Angeles will have but five weeks of baseball here the opening session, instead of six weeks that were given by the original schedule, but that week will be made up here at the end of the season. The final date here is November 3 with Portland, instead of October 27 with Oakland, as at first proposed. This makes it undesirable because it brings the close one week nearer the rainy season.

President Pendleton of the local club received the following message yesterday from Secretary Long:

"McCreedie earnestly requests series July 9 to 14 and that series June 18 to 23 be transposed, dropping the other series down one week. San Francisco and Oakland are agreeable. Also requests your permission to transpose series immediately following May 12 to last week of the season so that teams start North May 13."

This is self-explanatory in a way. According to the original schedule, Los Angeles was to play San Francisco July 9 to 14, but from Long's dispatch the teams are to play at Portland. San Francisco was to have played here during the week beginning June 18, but the telegram says that week will be shifted to San Francisco, and if this reads right, it looks as if Los Angeles is to be deprived of one week of baseball.

On this assumption Portland will get two weeks more of baseball, for the week of June 18-23 was to have been played by Portland at Oakland. The telegram fails to state just how the games will be played and the fans must figure the thing out themselves from the old schedule. The fact remains that Los Angeles will be short one week of ball.

OPENING DAY PARADE.

Manager Berry of the local team is making great preparations for the opening day next Saturday, and will have a big parade of automobiles, carriages and a band. The Mayor will be invited to pitch the first ball and Jim Jeffries will be in the game for a time in some capacity. The Oakland team will come down from Santa Barbara on Friday and probably will be out at Chutes Park that afternoon to get acquainted with the grounds. Derrick doubtless will be the umpire for the first two or three weeks.

NORDHOFF TENNIS.

Large List of Entries Is Assured from the High Schools in This End of the State.

Arrangements practically have been completed for the annual tennis tournament to be held at Nordhoff, and this year it will be held later than in other years in order to avoid the late rains. The dates are April 25, 26, 27, and there will be a goodly number of Southern California players in attendance. Of the Suttons, Miss Florence, Mrs. Bruce and Mrs. Doeg will be there, and in all probability the usual list of men players. The tourney will be notable for the number of young players that will be out.

The Thacher School at Nordhoff will contribute eight players. The Marlborough School of this city will send Elizabeth Ryan, and Miss Head's School in Berkeley will be represented by Dora Thayer, Harriett Caswell, Ruth Valentine and Alice Warner. The high schools in this end of the State have picked the following boys to attend: Ventura High School, George Mallory and Walter Argabrite; Riverside High, John Brown and Edwin Pole; Throop, J. Horrell and Huntington Baker; Los Angeles High, Ward Dawson and Allen Davis; Santa Monica High, Max Fogel and Vincent Shutt; Santa Paula High, L. Sharp and Artemus Crane; Occidental, P. Lowry and W. Mace.

TROPHY CUP FOR FLIERS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, April 2.—The Scientific American is going to offer a cup to be competed for annually by American-built flying machines. It will be confided to the care of the Aero Club, under whose management the competitions for its custody will be held.

The cup will cost not less than $1000 and it will be competed for the first time on September 4 next, at the Jamestown Exposition. Only machines heavier than air will be eligible and they must all be self-propelled without any gas bag attachment whatever, even for lifting purposes. The cup will not be awarded unless one of the competing machines travels at least 1000 feet in the air.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

News of the amateur baseball teams and individuals will be published in The Times under a special column devoted to the youngsters. Captains and managers are invited to send to the sporting editor notices of games, before and after playing, giving the place of game, date, results, line-ups and any interesting features.

All news sent in should be written on one side of the paper only with a wide margin at the top of the sheet. Only essential facts should be written, with no unsportsmanlike remarks. Address communications to the Sporting Editor, The Times, Los Angeles, Cal.

JOHN I. TAYLOR,
president and manager Boston Americans.

OWNER IS MANAGER.

John I. Taylor Has Full Charge of His American League Baseball Aggregation.

President John I. Taylor of the Boston American League baseball club, has set a precedent in the national game by taking the management of his team into his own hands. President Taylor owns the majority of the stock, but has taken a personal interest in the management ever since he gained control.

When the late "Chick" Stahl committed suicide, Taylor took the reins, and now that Stahl is dead he has full charge of the team. Heretofore Taylor's interest in the management of the team has been looked upon by some as interference, and it is alleged that the trouble with Manager Collins last year was caused by friction in that respect. Stahl gave up the management because of worries over his duties, but this may have been caused by the same reasons that induced the failure of Collins last year.

WANT MIXED RACES.

Auto Association to Be Requested to Admit Foreign Cars to Vanderbilt Race.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It is said here today a request will be made to the American Automobile Association, at a meeting of the engineers at Indianapolis, April 13, to discuss conditions for the proposed touring car contest over the Vanderbilt cup course, that foreign machines be admitted on an equal basis with American cars.

There has been a decided tendency within the last few days to modify the original suggestion that the two or three day contest be limited solely to American cars.

"If the foreign car as a regular product is better than the American car," said one manufacturer, "the American manufacturer wants to know it; if the American car is as good as the foreign car we want the public to know it. The foreigners, it must be remembered, have had decided advantages in the racing field, due to the large number of high-priced cars they have been able to dispose of and the fact that opportunities for fast drivers are greater in Europe than in this country, thereby producing a larger number of expert drivers."

DUAL TRACK MEET.

Los Angeles and Oakland High Schools to Settle State Athletic Supremacy.

Los Angeles and Oakland high schools will contest in a dual track meet on Bovard Field tomorrow afternoon.

The meet will be one of the most important dual interscholastic meets to be held on the Coast this year, as both teams have proved that they rank at the top. Oakland won over Los Angeles in the Stanford interscholastic meet, and the local aggregation evened up matters by pulling out a victory in the U.S.C. invitation meet on Bovard Field last Saturday. Thursday afternoon's contests will be fought for with honors even.

Both teams will be represented by practically the same men who took part in last Saturday's meet. The members of the Oakland team have stayed over in Los Angeles especially for the meet, which they are permitted to do, owing to the fact that the northern schools are at present having their spring vacation. Maddox, Coleman, Free, Bristol and Goodwin will again make up the Los Angeles relay team, and the Oakland five will have their third chance to down them.

Munn will compete for Oakland in what will be his last appearance in the south, as he will pass the age limit in June of this year. He is liable to be a very formidable factor in a dual meet, and his work in the pole vault and shot put will be watched especially in view of his record-breaking performances last week.

REVOLVER MEN TO ORGANIZE.

Turner Hall, on Main street, is the place selected for the meeting of those interested in the proposed revolver club, at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night. The gathering will be in the lodge room on the third floor of the building, and all those who have signed the papers in circulation or are interested in rifle and revolver shooting are requested to be present.

It is probable that committees will be appointed tonight for the purpose of reporting on constitution and by-laws, and for recommending such methods of procedure as are deemed advisable. Thorough discussion of the principal features will be in order.

Saints Resume Work.

The St. Vincent's baseball team will start in practice again, after the short vacation which ends Thursday. After all their preliminary games with the New York Giants and the Los Angeles team, very little hard practice is needed. Their first intercollegiate game will be played April 20 against Pomona College, at Pomona.

Monrovia Baseball.

MONROVIA, April 2.—The first baseball game of the local season will be played here Saturday afternoon between the local High School team and the High from Long Beach. The game will be played on the Ivy diamond.

CHASE TO PLAY EAST.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, April 2.—Word has been received in this city that Hal Chase, the noted first basemen of the New York American baseball club, will join the team in a few days. Chase, who lives in San José, Cal., has hitherto refrained from reporting to Manager Griffith because of a salary disagreement. It is believed the matter will be amicably settled.

GANS AND LEWIS AGAIN MATCHED.

ARTICLES TO BE DRAWN UP AT CHICAGO TODAY.

Provisions Made for Lightweight Champion to Take on Nelson If Terms Are Arranged—Attell and Robson to Meet Tonight for Six Rounds in Philadelphia.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Articles of agreement for a fight between Joe Gans, lightweight champion, and Harry Lewis, challenger, will be drawn up in this city tomorrow. E. W. Dickerson, Lewis's manager, is on his way here to close the deal for the match, and it is almost certain the battle will be arranged.

Gans will have the privilege of inserting a clause in the contract which will allow the champion to take on Nelson, should the latter and his manager agree on weight terms. A Nevada club is reported to have offered a $20,000 purse for the battle.

ATTELL AND ROBSON.

FEATHERS BOX TONIGHT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Abe Attell, featherweight champion, arrived here today and will finish up his training for his six-round bout with Spike Robson, the English fighter, which is to be decided before the National Athletic Club tomorrow night.

Attell is in fine shape for the contest and is confident of winning. If Robson beats Attell he will leave on the first steamer for England, where he expects to get on some big fights on the strength of his showing.

O'BRIEN COMING WEST.

TELEGRAPHS M'CAREY.

Jack O'Brien left Philadelphia tonight for the Coast, according to a telegram received by Manager McCarey last night. Jack expects to visit San Francisco before coming to Los Angeles. On his arrival he will begin light training in preparation for the big championship battle in May.

Dave Deshler, who was training for a fight in Brookline, Mass., was struck by an auto while taking his early morning run, recently, and seriously injured. His collar bone was broken, and he was badly bruised.

"Slugger" McGovern's broken hand is pronounced as well, but a slight swelling is apparent at the injured point. McGovern wants a go with Eddie Menney to retrieve his only defeat, but claims that Eddie will not give him a return match. Most of the boys in these parts are afraid of McGovern's slugging abilities.

Leonard Lauder is to leave for San Francisco in a few days and while there hopes to get on in limited round contests with some good men.

Rube Smith has been waiting in vain for a match here. He was carded to meet Kid Williams at San Diego, but the go has fallen through. Rube expects to go back East to get on in limited round bouts.

Jim Flynn is matched to meet George Gardner at San Diego. After that bout he expects to meet Al Kaufman before some club. The fighting fireman can whip them both in the same ring.

Kenney Woods was to have met Frank Fields in a twenty-round battle as the opening attraction of the Anaheim boxing club, but has gone to his home in La Junta, Colo. Fields will meet Hayes instead.

Thornton Stake Entries.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—The following are entries and weights for the Thornton renewal at four miles, to be run April 13 at Oakland:

Grafter, 103; Dr. Leggo, 113; Inflammable, 102; Mamie Algol, 108; Los Angeleno, 111; Benvolio, 106; Huston, 99.

Hollywood Wins.

The baseball team of the Hollywood High School defeated the Downey High School nine Monday afternoon by the score of 2 to 0. Brown of Hollywood struck out ten men.

DRIVING CLUB WAR SLEEPS.

REYNOLDS-KENT SCRAP ABOUT SMOOTHED OVER.

Ex-Manager, Who Was Suddenly Let Out of His Position, May Return—Charged That He Has Been Extravagant and Was Disciplined for Insubordination.

The tempest in the teapot that promised, a few days ago, to boil over on the Los Angeles Driving Club, will probably not even give out steam now. From all accounts, the fires have been banked or put out altogether, and yet when the directors hold their regular meeting this evening something may break out.

The club has had rather a stormy time of it in various ways during the past five years, but it is very much alive and kicking, showing that its troubles have not been very serious. It is said to have had trouble over a lease of Agricultural Park several years ago. Then it was handed a lot of grief, owing to a dispute with J. W. Brooks, who, at one time, had a lease of a part of the park. Then there was a long internal war over ex-Secretary Redpath, who got himself and some of the other directors into a mess, or rather a long discussion concerning the classes in which certain horses should be entered. Later Redpath resigned.

The latest trouble concerns S. A. Kent, ex-park superintendent, who had charge of the park for over a year, and up to last Saturday night, when he was discharged by President Reynolds. It is rumored that Kent has good friends on the directorate, but it is not likely they will do much for him at the meeting this evening. It is not possible that all will kiss and make up.

Saturday Kent received a letter from the president, in which he was notified that his services would not be needed after Sunday, and Kent said that some time after the receipt of the letter Reynolds went to the park and the two had a warm wordy argument, and "shot it at each other pretty heavily." Kent declared the next day that he had always been a faithful servant, and that he did not know why Reynolds should discharge him. Reynolds said yesterday that the matter didn't amount to anything more than any man discharging one of his employés, and for all he knew Kent might continue on at the park for the club if he did what was right.

It seems that Kent has been extravagant in his expenditures for the team the club keeps at the park for general work, and that he persisted in buying various kinds of supplies for the park after he had been instructed several times not to do so. The cost of the team's keep under Kent was in the neighborhood of $40, and after several of the directors began to look out for the expense of the two horses, the bill dwindled to less than half that sum. Then last week, when it was learned that Kent had ordered a bill of lumber for the park, it is said Mr. Reynolds at once sent him a letter discharging him, and then rushed out and gave him a curtain lecture.

Kent is said to be a good man, who understands the business of training and driving horses, and, as he has written a letter of apology for his actions Saturday night, and sent it to Stewart, the club's secretary, it is likely he will be forgiven. Before writing this, however, rumor has it that he was busy with his friends on the board of directors, and there was a chance of stirring up another internal war in the organization that has already had more than its share.

OAKLAND RACING.

EVERY FAVORITE IS BEATEN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—Cloudlight beat a field of clever sprinters when she won the Bonnie Bird Handicap over the futurity course at Oakland today. The mare led all the way and won in a drive from Lisaro. Third money went to Rapid Water, the favorite. Black Sam finished second to Ten Oaks in the third, but was disqualified for fouling and placed last. Results:

GOSSIP OF THE FOREIGN STAGE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

LONDON, March 16.—Alfred Sutro's new play, "John Glayde's Honor," played for the first time on any stage at the St. James Theater this week, warrants more attention than the brief cabled notice of its striking success. Perhaps it will not make so much money as "The Walls of Jerico," which brought the dramatist into sudden fame after long waiting, but it is certainly far stronger, abler and more convincing drama—perhaps the best that London has had since Pinero's "Iris."

Sutro's treatment of his millionaire hero, although a small point in itself, is significant of his defiant attitude in this play toward a good many other dramatic conventions. The traditional American millionaire of the British stage is an ill-mannered, self-assertive, unscrupulous, and loud-voiced person, and signs have not been wanting that George Alexander is considered by some of his critics to have been inefficient in presenting John Glayde as a quiet gentleman, without accent or any other supposedly American characteristic. Time was when an American audience would have scorned any other portrayal of an Englishman than the conventional dense, stubborn individual in a fore-and-aft cap, single eyeglass and loud-checked suit; but that day has gone by in all of the larger American cities—wherein we are ahead of the British cousin, who still insists as a rule that the stage American shall say "wa-a-l" frequently and shall be quite unaccustomed to social usages.

Another stage tradition flouted by Mr. Sutro is that the audience must never be deceived. Yet two of the strongest incidents in this play arise from the deception of the audience. And the end is so subversive of stage custom that, if Mr. Sutro had been unknown, one ventures to say he never would have got an acceptance of "John Glayde's Honor" in its present form.

The first half hour of the play is its worst. The curtain rises on a little dinner party in Mrs. Glayde's Paris flat. The coffee-and-cigarettes stage has been reached, and we have to glean as best we may from the elaborate scintillations of the guests that the charming young Mrs. Glayde has scarcely seen her husband for two years. He has been too busy over in America, manipulating trusts, and smashing competitors, to pay any attention to her of late, although they married for love. But they have had no children—and she has been amusing herself in Paris. We gather that she has been having a flirtation with Trevor Lerode, the decent-looking young artist who has been painting her portrait. Suddenly Glayde himself turns up, without warning. Some one has enabled him a domestic tip.

With Glayde's appearance there is a cessation of clever talk and we get down to business. He "sizes up" Lerode instantly, and asks him for a private interview on the morrow. When the others are gone, he pleads for his wife's love. He has been too busy amassing his millions, but is pulling out of his "trusts" even at a moment when there is a great fight on, that he may devote himself to the little woman as he has never ceased to care for. "Too late," she says. He has sacrificed her love, and must begin all over again. Also, there isn't room for him in her new flat, and he must spend the night at his hotel. Even the touch of his hand on her arm is evidently repulsive to her.

In the next act Glayde is at his hotel, torn between his domestic difficulties and the cables apprising him of a rival's raid on his stocks. He takes on both—dictating cable messages, interviewing guests of the last night's dinner party, and quietly picking up from them such information as he needs concerning Lerode, and dealing with his London agents over the long-distance telephone. When Lerode arrives, Glayde is ready for him. The portrait of Mrs. Glayde must remain unfinished, Lerode must undertake never to see her again. The artist revolts. He will see Mrs. Glayde as often as he likes, until she herself asks him to stop calling. Glayde is called away for a few moments to the Paris-London telephone, and bids the artist think it over while he is gone.

CLUB LIFE IN PARADISE ISLE.

Mrs. Cowles Sketches Bits of Hawaiian Trip.

Women Accomplish Much in Humanitarian Work.

Lawn Fete at Cleghorn Home a Charming Affair.

Mrs. J. E. Cowles, who has just returned from Hawaii, tells some interesting things concerning women's club life in the islands. Dr. and Mrs. Cowles, who accompanied the Chamber of Commerce excursion to Hawaii, were the guests during their ten days' stay, of Bishop H. B. Restarick and family of Honolulu. Dr. Restarick, who is now bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Hawaii and the islands of the Pacific, was for twenty-five years rector of St. Paul's Church at San Diego, hence he has hundreds of friends in Southern California. For the past five years he has been a resident of Hawaii.

"At Hilo I met Mrs. Siemsen, who was a delegate from the Hawaiian Women's Club to the biennial in Los Angeles in 1903," said Mrs. Cowles. She has since married and is now living in Hilo, where she has established a branch club. The club women over there devote their energies chiefly to humanitarian work and are enabled in this way to reach a class of people that others cannot. They have accomplished some wonderful things in this line.

"The president of the Hawaiian club is a graduate of the Kamehameha School, which is so heavily endowed by Mrs. Bishop, a descendant of the Kamehameha family. This club has taken up district nursing; among the poor as its special work. One of its prominent members is in charge of the Maternity Home in Honolulu.

"While we were there a 'luau' (feast) was held for the benefit of this home and it happened that a child was born in the home that very day. To one of our Los Angeles ladies was given the honor of naming it. She called the little girl 'Alice Los Angeles' and the mother was delighted with the name. Ex-Queen Liliuokalani was at this 'luau' and her autographs, written on a long strip of yellow ribbon, were sold at a dollar apiece to swell the benefit fund."

COLLEGE WOMEN'S CLUB.

Mrs. Frear, the wife of a prominent Honolulu lawyer, is president of the College Woman's Club, made up of American-English college women. Many Los Angeles club women will recall Mrs. Frear, who attended the biennial when it was held here and came as a chaperon for the native Hawaiian representatives. The particular work of this club is fighting tuberculosis. As yet, the great white plague has not secured a firm foothold on the islands and these educated, energetic women are determined to stamp it out as fast as it appears. Toward this end the club has raised, during the past year, a fund of $20,000, to be used in anti-tuberculosis league work. The members of the club many of them, are descendants of the early missionaries to the islands and are most charming half Hawaiian women.

"The morning before sailing for home, Mrs. Cowles, in company with Mrs. Frear, drove out to Waikiki, the beautiful beach resort of Honolulu, to visit a club meeting of Hawaiian women who had met at the home of a teacher there to sew for a family of poor children of whom they had heard, who were being cared for by an old man.

LIQUID SUNSHINE.

"We drove out through the 'liquid sunshine' of a typical Hawaiian morning,' said Mrs. Cowles. "The raindrops fall through the brilliant sunlight in the most wonderful way. No one thinks of carrying an umbrella, or even a parasol, to protect them from the mist, as the bright sunshine dries it almost while it is falling. We found the club women busily at work, running sewing machines and fitting out wardrobes for these poor children. The women themselves, clad in their graceful 'holukua,' looked very charming and picturesque. These garments are fashioned after a modified style of the Mother Hubbard gown. They are fitted more closely to the figure and are made with a slight train.

"No one over there wears kid gloves, leather shoes or silk gowns. The constant moisture of the climate rots the silk and molds the kid and leather, hence white linen or wash fabrics and canvas shoes are the prevailing style and you have no idea how pretty and tropical it all is. The native women are extremely diffident and reticent in their manner, but so generous as to be almost embarrassing. If you admire a 'lei,' or a fan, or any little ornament they have on, they take it off and give it to you."

EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS.

Mrs. Cowles, during her short stay on the islands, took time to look into educational affairs over there. The Punahon College, originally designed for the sons and daughters of missionaries and heavily endowed for that purpose, is now thrown open to the native sons and daughters. It is at this college that Gen. Samuel Armstrong, himself the son of a missionary, and born on the island of Maui, received his education. Two large dormitories have just been added to the college buildings.

One of the oldest schools in Honolulu is the Priory, established years ago by two English ladies—sisters, who are still living, now aged women, in a quiet home on the grounds of the institution. The present principal of The Priory is a Los Angeles woman who will be well remembered by hundreds of citizens as Miss Abbie Marsh, for years preceptress of the Marsh School for Young Ladies on Olive street.

"On the morning we left Hilo," said Mrs. Cowles, "we had the pleasure of breakfasting at the Lyman Industrial School for Boys, with the president and his family who are our old-time friends—of the Lyman family in Chicago. It is from this school that Gen. Armstrong received his idea for the Normal and Industrial Institute which he founded at Hampton, Va. Graduates of the Lyman School are scattered all over the islands now and its effect in refinement and practical education are noticeably far-reaching and splendidly beneficial."

HOME FOR AGED; NOSE FLUTE.

The Lunalilo Home for Aged Hawaiians, endowed with the fortune left by King Lunalilo, is the great charitable institution of the islands. Situated in the midst of acres and acres of beautiful grounds in the heart of Honolulu, it is one of the show places of the city. The matron, Mrs. Weaver, is a sister of Gen. Armstrong. Unlike our American institutions of a similar nature, this home demands no entrance fee and is absolutely free. It is ample enough to

Mrs. Cowles Sketches Bits of Hawaiian Trip.

Women Accomplish Much in Humanitarian Work.

Lawn Fete at Cleghorn Home a Charming Affair.

Mrs. J. E. Cowles, who has just returned from Hawaii, tells some interesting things concerning women's club life in the islands. Dr. and Mrs. Cowles, who accompanied the Chamber of Commerce excursion to Hawaii, were the guests during their ten days' stay of Bishop H. B. Restarick and family of Honolulu. Dr. Restarick, who is now bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Hawaii and the islands of the Pacific, was for twenty-five years rector of St. Paul's Church at San Diego, hence he has hundreds of friends in Southern California. For the past five years he has been a resident of Hawaii.

"At Hilo I met Mrs. Siemsen, who was a delegate from the Hawaiian Women's Club to the biennial in Los Angeles in 1902," said Mrs. Cowles. "She has since married and is now living in Hilo, where she has established a branch club. The club women over there devote their energies chiefly to humanitarian work and are enabled in this way to reach a class of people that others cannot. They have accomplished some wonderful things in this line.

"The president of the Hawaiian club is a graduate of the Kamehameha school, which is so heavily endowed by Mrs. Bishop, a descendant of the Kamehameha family. This club has taken up district nursing; among the poor as its special work. One of its prominent members is in charge of the Maternity Home in Honolulu.

"While we were there a 'luau' (feast) was held for the benefit of this home and it happened that a child was born in the home that very day. Unlike our American institutions of a similar nature, this home demands no entrance fee and is absolutely free. It is ample enough to accommodate more inmates than are now quartered there.

"It was at this home that we heard a most remarkable musical performance," said Mrs. Cowles. "An old man who played the nose flute, an instrument resembling our own flute in appearance, but played with the nose. The series of sweet and wonderful bird-like melodies which the old man drew from that flute with his nose were simply remarkable. They told us that there were but two men in all the Hawaiian Islands who knew how to play this instrument. Then he drew from a conch shell the calls used in ancient times by the chiefs to summon the people—the piercing notes reverberating again and again from the hills. He followed this with the ollos of the kings—queer, gutteral sounds of a most remarkable character."

In speaking of the many social events given for the visiting Angelenos, Mrs. Cowles was especially enthusiastic over the delightful features of the lawn fête given by former Gov. Cleghorn on the beautiful grounds surrounding the official mansion. This brilliant affair was especially in compliment to the ladies of the visiting party.

"I cannot begin to describe to you the tropical beauty of that scene," said Mrs. Cowles, "the charming Hawaiian music, the beautiful costumes of the ladies, especially of the receiving party, the flowers and foliage, the overspreading cocoanut palms, the peacocks strutting about, the flaming hybiscus, the night-blooming cereus, and all the rich tropical growth made a setting of such vivid and striking beauty as we dream of but seldom see.

"Ex-Gov. Cleghorn, who has a most courtly presence, with piercing dark eyes under overhanging snow-white brows, rarely opens his house for social functions, hence the Los Angeles ladies felt especially honored. He is the father of Princess Kiuiani and the husband of Likelike, who is a sister of Queen Lilluokalani and the late King Kalakau who visited Los Angeles just prior to his death in San Francisco in 1891."

Upon her return, Mrs. Cowles, who is treasurer of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, found more than 500 letters on official business awaiting her attention. She will leave next month for Norfolk, Va., to attend the National Council of Women's Clubs, to be held there June 5-6.

PAY HOMAGE TO FLAG.

Pupils Present "Old Glory" to Union-Avenue School With Inspiring Ceremonies.

An outburst of patriotism and enthusiasm marked one of the most beautiful school events ever seen in Los Angeles yesterday, when the pupils of the Union-avenue school celebrated a special flag day, presenting to each room a splendid silk banner, mounted on a staff guarded by a golden eagle.

The large hall below, where parents, friends and former pupils of the school were gathered, was a poem of color, flags being the central motif, set with soft green smilax, and starred with red geraniums.

A stirring martial air accompanied the tread of many young feet, and the pupils of the school assembled in the hall and gave the salute to the flag, afterward singing "America." The school orchestra played fine selections. A manly youth, Harold Maxon, delivered a declamation, "The National Flag," and the brave little kindergartners, in soldier caps, played a game which showed their special appreciation of patriotism, making round faces and perky bows set with responsibility.

"A Song of Iron," given by the second grade, Mendelssohn's "Spring Song," by the eighth grade, and an instrumental quartette, "Pilgrim's Chorus," preceded by one of the most striking numbers, "Out of the Deep," sung by the seventh-grade male quartette. A burst of applause greeted the climax of the afternoon, when the nine standar-bearers from the nine schoolrooms appeared, proudly holding aloft the nine new additions of the "Star Spangled Banner."

As the silken folds caught the pale light of the afternoon suddenly a girl's soprano voice took up the song of the "Star Spangled Banner," and the eighth grade double quartette rang out in the chorus.

The Superintendent of Schools was honored with a special cheer when he received the emblems and told "The Message of the Flag," in a short address. He gave the banners back into the charge of the pupils of the Union-avenue school "to honor and uphold."

Singing "Our Own United States," the pupils marched back to their rooms and the visitors who had crowded the halls and every bit of available space, went home feeling that the country is safe in the hands of this army of loyal school children. Principal J. W. Hamer conducted the flag-day exercises.

WANTED—
To Purchase Real Estate.

FOR SALE—
MR. RANCH OWNER—
If you want to sell your ranch we can sell it for you and we can do it quicker and at a better price than you can. It makes no difference where it is located. We have our own agents in over six hundred towns and cities throughout the United States, and, mind, you, we do not ask for an EXCLUSIVE contract, either; just an assurance of our commission in case WE SELL. You are free to withdraw it or sell it yourself at any time, in which we make absolutely no charge for our service.
Write us at once.

$4450.	$4450.	$4450.

THIS MODERN SIX-ROOM BUNGALOW is beautifully located on large lot near the corner of Adams and Vermont ave. The grounds are highly improved with lawn, palms, ferns and choice flowers and are divided into front and back yard, separated by large lattice fence—splendid auto barn, drive, and wood and coal sheds on rear of lot. All rooms are large and well arranged and receive an abundance of light—owing to the fact that all buildings are over 25 ft. away. PLATE-GLASS WINDOWS in front of cottage; floors of oak; plenty of closets and other conveniences; the living-room and dining-room contain built-in seats, French windows, and are artistically finished in Flemish oak. All rooms are daintily, artistically tinted and contain original, pleasing lighting fixtures. Large front and side porch—latter being used exclusively as a conservatory. A most elegant and complete home for the money—and a bargain you should not ignore.

THIS NINE-ROOM home is built in the mission style and is located in the Westlake district, on a 100-ft. lot. Splendidly constructed from best Portland cement and steel. Large front porch—handsome oak and plate-glass entrance.
FIRST FLOOR contains fine large pressed brick mantel, with massive shelves; lighting fixtures specially designed for this house; quarter-sawed oak floors, artistic antique oak finished woodwork and handsomely tinted walls.
LIBRARY has paneled walls—also heavy wood frieze. Interior is very beautiful—ivory finished woodwork and beautifully tinted walls. The most convenient and desirable kitchen and pantry ever devised.
FIVE ARTISTICALLY TINTED BEDROOMS, finished in white enamel and containing large closets, and modern bathroom on second floor.
Maple floors throughout second story. Owing to the owner's inability to reside in this city he has placed the price of this home way below its actual worth. See it today before it is too late.

FOR SALE—
COME TO BEATTY.
The half has not been told about it. It is an oasis in Nevada. It has many gold mines now in active operation and numerous others are being elaborately developed. It has three railroads—the Las Vegas and Tonopah, a branch of the Salt Lake road, now running into town; Bullfrog and Goldfield, connecting with the Southern Pacific to San Francisco, which will be finished into Beatty in a few weeks; and the Tonopah and Tidewater, Borax Smith's road, which will reach Beatty within a few months. It has water in inexhaustible supply from an underground river, flowing millions of gallons of the purest water, with no variation in supply either summer or winter.
Beatty is the logical spot for a big town, and it will be the commercial and railroad center of Southern Nevada. Now is the time to buy lots in Beatty. Hundreds of people are pouring in, and the price of lots will be rapidly advanced.
COME TO BEATTY.
We want a laundryman, confectioner, photographer, several more restaurants, a fine dry goods store, shoe store, fruit stand, several more boarding-houses, another barber shop, blacksmith shop and machinist who can repair automobiles, another druggist, meat market, baker, plumber, carpenters and other mechanics.
Lots in Beatty are now selling for $100 and upward. Partial payments can be arranged. Lots on Main and Third streets—the business streets—now selling for $750 to $1000, will bring $7500 to $10,000 in a short time.
Remember the rise of Goldfield, Tonopah, Reno and older mining towns. Buy into Beatty NOW. Since the first advertisement appeared, offering lots in the townsite of Beatty, the offices of the General Securities Company have been crowded with buyers who have been making fortunate selections. One excursion of buyers has gone forward and another is to go.
Our next big excursion will start early next week. Free transportation to all buyers of lots to the value of $500 and upward. Come along and have a good time. Make your reservations now if you wish to join the excursion.

Alienists and Others Go Before Commission.

Jerome's Array of Witnesses Includes Evelyn.

Olney Criticises Claims of the Prosecution.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, April 2.—Dist.-Atty. Jerome had a large array of witnesses awaiting the pleasure of the Thaw lunacy commission today, among them being Evelyn Nesbit Thaw.

The young woman was dressed in a dark brown cloth suit, trimmed with leather of the same shade. She wore a black straw sailor hat and automobile veil. The new costume still maintained the school girl effect because of the flat linen collar caught with a brown Windsor tie.

Dr. Charles P. Bingaman, the Thaw family physician from Pittsburgh, also was present today. Other witnesses included Frederick W. Longfellow, the attorney formerly employed by Thaw; Drs. Hamilton and Flint, and most of the other alienists who appeared either for Thaw or the State at the trial.

Dr. Frank A. McGuire, the Tombs physician, was the first witness called. He had seen Thaw two or three times a week since June 25, last. Dr. McGuire said he had seen Thaw every day of his trial.

"Was his conduct such at any time during the trial as to attract your attention?" asked Chairman McClure of the lunacy commission.

"No, sir," said the witness.

"You have talked with him in the Tombs since the trial began?"

"Yes."

"Was his talk sensible?"

"Yes, sir, very sensible."

"Have you ever heard the defendant say or see him do anything irrational?"

"Do you mean since his arrest or since the trial began?" asked the witness.

"Since the trial began," said Mr. McClure.

"No, sir, nothing."

"Have you at any time seen him do anything irrational?"

"No, sir."

Dr. McGuire was asked about the book in which he kept a record of the prisoner, and which Jerome produced before the commission on Saturday. He said the book contained mostly hearsay matter and but two original entries entered by himself.

Dr. McGuire said on cross-examination that he had never made a special examination of Thaw to determine his sanity. He had refused permission to be present at Thaw's examination by the alienists for the defense on June 28, last.

Dr. McGuire said he had not talked with Thaw regarding his trial or his mental condition.

DELEHANTY EXAMINED.

Michael J. Delehanty, the first prison guard, who attended Thaw at his trial, followed Dr. McGuire upon the stand. The witness said Thaw always talked in an "understandable way" and appeared rational throughout the time he had him in custody.

On cross-examination, Delehanty said he had not talked to Thaw about Stanford White or about the house in West Twenty-fourth street.

In discussing the trial, Thaw would speak to him in general terms, saying: "I had a good day today," or ex-pressions like that.

Chairman McClure wanted to know if the witness thought Thaw had had a good day when he used that expression.

"Yes, it impressed me in that way."

Franklin J. Sherndon, another of Thaw's guards, was next called. He said he had never seen Thaw do anything irrational.

Cross-examined by the District Attorney, the witness said he never discussed Stanford White with his prisoner.

"Did you ever hear him say anything about being St. George rescuing virgins from red dragons?" asked Jerome.

"No, sir."

Mrs. Emily Walker, a probation officer of the Court of Special Sessions, and a constant visitor of the Tombs, said she had talked with Thaw many times prior to and during the trial. His talk and manner of speech were always rational.

Rev. John A. Wade, the Episcopalian chaplain in the Tombs, answering questions by McClure, said he had often discussed various matters with Thaw.

"Have you ever noticed anything in his conduct or speech which suggested irrationality?" asked McClure.

"Not since the trial."

"But before?"

"I can't say that there was ever anything more than a highly excited or overwrought condition."

The witness never noticed in his facial expressions anything which suggested irrationality.

Jerome asked Ware if the first conversation he had with Thaw after his arrest was rational or irrational.

THAW ADVISES.

Thaw, who sat inside the interior rail with his counsel, tugged at Hartridge's sleeve and said in an audible whisper: "Object to that."

Hartridge did so, but the question was allowed.

"His conversation at that time," said the chaplain, "was irrational."

Jerome here asked Dr. Allan McClain Hamilton to take the stand.

"When did you last see Harry Thaw?" asked Jerome.

"In July last."

"At whose instance did you call?" interrupted Chairman McClure.

"At the instance of the defendant's attorneys. And I would like to have Your Honor's rule as to my privilege in this matter," said Dr. Hamilton.

Chairman McClure suggested to Jerome that he ask the witness as to what he had observed in court.

"I decline to proceed along those lines," replied the District Attorney. "The commission has a definite purpose—to find out if this defendant is in such a condition of lunacy as to rationally advise his counsel. Unless there is an objection upon the ground that a professional privilege is involved, I shall proceed. I am ready to show that the privilege in Hamilton's case was waived at the trial."

"There is no objection, but the doctor himself has asked for instruction. No privilege has been waived by us," said Chairman McClure.

Jerome proceeded to read the official court record of Dr. Hamilton's testimony.

JEROME'S ARGUMENT.

Jerome argued that notwithstanding the fact that the jury had retired when Dr. Hamilton made the statement as to Thaw's present mental disability, it was testimony given in open court and was published to the world. He then quoted from a decision of the Court of Appeals, in which it was held that the professional privilege as between physician and patient could not be used both as a sword and as a shield. Once published, the facts could not again be concealed behind the cloak of privilege, Jerome declared. There was, moreover, he said, an express waiver of privilege as between Dr. Hamilton and the defendant when Delmas, after a conference with his associate attorneys, stated that it had been agreed that the witness might tell all he knew.

Jerome went on to point out what he claimed were three separate and distinct waivers of privilege as regards Dr. Hamilton.

Hartridge declared the District Attorney had not accepted the agreement to have Dr. Hamilton tell all.

Commissioner Olney here began to interrogate Dist.-Atty. Jerome.

"You claim Thaw has been insane all through his trial?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then how can you contend that these attorneys can waive a privilege for an insane person? If they were in a position to waive the privilege, don't you reach the foundation that their client must have been sane? How do you reconcile the two points? The question has arisen in my mind and I thought you might care to address yourself to the point."

"The burden of proof in this proceeding is placed on me," replied Jerome, "and I did think the commission was open-minded—"

Olney interrupted.

"I asked you a civil question in a civil manner," he said, "and I suggest that you might care to discuss the matter. If you don't, all right."

BINGAMAN IS CALLED.

After Drs. Ferris and Pritchard expressed opinion coinciding with those of preceding witnesses, Jerome called Dr. Bingaman.

Dr. Bingaman told the commission that an aunt upon the Thaw paternal side had suffered from epilepsy and died mentally enfeebled at the age of 60. He mentioned also cases in the prisoner's mother's family as there had been traces of insanity. He described Thaw's conduct immediately after incarceration as indicative of insanity.

At the afternoon session Dr. Austin Flint expressed the opinion that Thaw was incapable of understanding the charge against him, or of advising counsel, and that he was suffering from paranoia with original delusions of persecution now passing into delusions of grandeur.

Twenty or more pages of memoranda prepared by Thaw as suggestions to counsel were submitted to Dr. Flint. They included newspaper clippings and a speech by the President denouncing "the heinous crime of rape," and this letter Thaw recommended be used in the summing up.

After examining these, Dr. Flint said they had an important bearing upon his opinion that Thaw is now insane.

The prisoner came into court, Dr. Flint said, with a self-satisfied and dominant air, which increased as the trial progressed and was not consistent with a man on trial for his life.

Concluding, Dr. Flint said Thaw was insane from the alienist's point of view, when he killed White, but was not insane in the language of the Penal Code.

Drs. Mabon and Hirsch testified that Thaw is now incapacitated mentally.

Chairman McClure announced that the commission had decided to let Dr. Hamilton testify.

After much technical testimony, Dr. Hamilton described what he termed Thaw's delusions. One was that his counsel and others had conspired with the District Attorney to put him in an asylum. Another was that he had acted as an agent of Providence in killing White.

"What is your definite opinion as to Thaw's present mental state?" asked Jerome.

"He has progressive paranoia, in my opinion."

Dr. Austin Flint, who testified for the prosecution, said he had seen Thaw every day of the trial and had examined his writings and was of the opinion that Thaw today is incapable of understanding the charges against him and incapable of advising counsel.

Dr. Flint declared Thaw's manner in court was that of an insane man.

CONCLUSION TODAY.

It was announced very late tonight after a session which lasted from 10:30 o'clock this morning until 6:30 p.m., that the lunacy commission inquiring into the present mental state of Harry K. Thaw will conclude its labors tomorrow and report its conclusions to Justice Fitzgerald before the hour set for the Thaw jury to report in court Thursday morning.

The decision probably was due to the conflicting character of the testimony heard today.

BLACK TIGHTS FOR BEAUTY.

Pink Kimona Also Figures in Divorce Complaint.

St. Louis Woman in Pasadena Sued by Husband.

Name of Los Angeles Man Is Linked With Hers.

Black tights to add to the attractiveness of her figure, and a pink kimona for a dash of color, are startling features of a divorce suit filed in St. Louis yesterday against Mrs. Emile C. Langton, now in Pasadena, by her husband, John J. P. Langton, a wealthy merchant of the Missouri city. One John O. Horton of Los Angeles is named in the suit.

The tights, the kimona and Mrs. Langton are associated with a select private boarding house at No. 1022 Bonnie Brae street, this city, conducted by Mrs. Felicidad Carrello Kirby. They all left there together on order of Mrs. Kirby.

Mrs. Kirby has told what she knows of the matter in a deposition that has been filed in the St. Louis court.

She says that Mrs. Langton wore the tights under her skirts to add to her attractiveness.

According to the deposition, there was something about the tights that caused Mrs. Langton to believe that she was more than usually beautiful when she had them on. She is said to be a handsome woman.

KEEPS THE SECRET.

Mrs. Kirby declined last night to discuss the secrets of Mrs. Langton's toilette. She said she was surprised that the matter had become public.

Back of the tale of the somber tights and the gay kimona is a story of a wrecked home; of two beautiful little children neglected and finally borne away by their heart-broken father.

Part of the evidence is furnished by Mrs. Kirby. A private detective added to it.

Mrs. Langton came to California late last fall with her two children. She bore letters of high recommendation to Mrs. Kirby. She and her family were welcomed into the boarding house.

A little later begins the story of the calls of Horton; of late night visits to Westlake Park in his company; of the little daughter and son left behind, sobbing for their mother.

"Every time Mrs. Langton would go downtown," say Mrs. Kirby in the deposition, "she would wear black tights and make herself particularly beautiful."

One day, according to the testimony of the keeper of the boarding house, she went to Mrs. Langton's room and found her posing in the tights and the pink kimona.

There are other stories of buggy rides, theaters and visits to the beaches, Mrs. Langton and Horton always together; the little children in their temporary home, weeping.

Asked how she knew these things, Mrs. Kirby, in her deposition, said: "I watched her. I spent a good deal of my time watching these people."

"SPAT" AT THE OPERA.

Mrs. Kirby's daughter, Beulah Mabe, testified that Horton took Mrs. Langton to the opera one night and that they had a "spat" because of Horton's suspicions that his companion was flirting with a man in a box. Horton is said to have become angry and to have taken Mrs. Langton from the place.

Mrs. Langton is said to have remarked to Mrs. Kirby that she merely was looking at the dress worn by a woman in the box, adding:

"Mr. Horton needn't think he is so much; I have had a clergyman at my feet in St. Louis."

Mrs. Langton remained at the Kirby house for more than two months. She was invited to leave on December 15. She went to a house on Grattan street.

A relative of her husband came to Los Angeles about that time and took the children back home with him.

Then Mrs. Langton is said to have gone to Pasadena.

It is reported from St. Louis that Mrs. Langton's attorneys have stated that she will not contest the suit for divorce if the husband will modify the complaint.

SEIZE SHIPMENTS.

SEATTLE, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Shipments brought to Muckiltee by two of the Dollar liners, flying the British flag, have been confiscated by customs officers for violation of the customs laws and fines have been imposed on the boats.

The Bessie Dollar, a British bottom, brought 172 barrels of oil from San Francisco to the Muckiltee Lumber Company. The vessel is not permitted under Federal coastwise laws to carry cargo between domestic ports, and after the seizure a $200 fine was imposed.

The Hazel Dollar brought a tailshaft from Glasgow for the M. S. Dollar and deposited it at Muckiltee. It was not placed in bond and when the customs officers learned of it the shaft was seized and a $500 fine hurled after the departed vessel.

ARCANUM MEETS.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—The Grand Council of California, Royal Arcanum, assembled in annual convention in this city today, at the first meeting held in San Francisco since the order was instituted.

The Los Angeles degree team exemplified the ritualistic work upon a class of thirty initiates, before 400 representatives of the Grand Council of California and the Supreme Council and visiting members.

The reports of Grand Regent Robert F. Jones of Santa Monica and of other grand officers show that the jurisdiction has now 2000 members.

A report from the Supreme Council shows that the order has added $1,000,000 to its emergency fund, and its net assets over all liabilities are nearly $4,000,000.

ISLAND FLOOD SUBSIDES.

STOCKTON, April 2.—The flood situation in the island section surrounding Stockton is steadily improving, there having been an eighteen-inch fall in the rivers.

Roberts Island, one of the oldest reclamations in the county, withstood the flood, as did, also, the Wright tract, Sargent Barnhart tract, Rough and Ready Island, Union Island, and the Jones and Orwood tracts, belonging to the Rindge Land and Navigation Company.

One of the largest tracts of the Rindge Company, which was in process of reclamation, was partly flooded, but the break is stopped and the pumps are removing the water so that this tract, consisting of nearly 8000 acres will be in cultivation this year.

UNION DISSOLVES.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—A. H. Stevens, superintendent of the western division of the railway mail service, today received a communication from a committee of the Brotherhood of Railway Postal Clerks stating that the San Francisco chapter of the Brotherhood had been dissolved. This brotherhood was organized by Hugh Shaug of Los Angeles, who was dismissed from the service, it is stated, for the part he took in it.

LAW HURTS JAPS.

EL PASO (Tex.) April 2.—The new immigration law went into effect yesterday, and as a result 500 Japanese laborers are in Juarez in straitened circumstances, it is said. Several are being detained in jail here, pending deportation via San Francisco. The Japanese are not to be turned into Mexico but are to be ordered back to Japan.

ADDRESSES FIRST VOTERS.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Judge Peter S. Grosscup of Chicago, addressed a meeting of "first voters" at Cooper Union tonight. The meeting was under the auspices of the people's institute which was attended by a large number of men.

DEATH LIST GROWS.

FORT WORTH (Tex.) April 2.—Eight additional bodies were found today under the débris of the two freight trains wrecked at Bethel Switch, near here yesterday on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad, making fourteen men killed in the wreck.

One of the Weak Points.

One controlling economic reason for opposing public ownership is that every individual in society prospers just in proportion as industry gets the best there is in human capability; on the other hand, government control and direction never gets, and in the nature of things never can get, all there is, or the best there is, in human capability.

Now the government may compete with private enterprise in getting capable men, but it has not thus far shown anything of the capacity of a private enterprise to assign the right man always to the right place. The agency which in private enterprise succeeds so generally in eventually landing in the right place the right man is not simply good intention, nor mere intelligence, but the intelligence and intention which constantly make the enterprise in hand—which make it the one affair in life, constantly thought of and planned for an intelligence and intention, too, which are themselves as nearly as possible permanent. That kind of seeking out and watchfulness few government departments possess. The men in charge of government departments may be intelligent and well-intentioned, but they are in today and out tomorrow. The thing under them is not their child. They never, as a matter of fact, get their hands and their mind fully into the work.

Nor will civil service change this. Civil service examinations may secure capable men, but no civil examination can assign the right man to the right place, can pick out of the thousand capable men just the kind of capability that is fitted to this place and just the kind that is fitted to that. Indeed, between government control and private control, the difference in that respect is almost the exact difference between what we call true organization and what is the merest aggregation; for in private enterprise each man has come by a process of attrition to the place he is best fitted to fill, while in government employment each man is dropped into his place irrespective of special fitness, and under civil service is riveted there.—[Hon. Peter S. Grosscup in the American Magazine.

GAMBLERS GO A-RAIL RIDING.

Tarred and Feathered, Are Run Out of Town.

Farmer Gets Buncoed, and Sharps Are Trapped.

Victims Warned of Hanging If They Return.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GALVESTON (Tex.) April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Ten gamblers who sought refuge in Del Rio were tarred and feathered and run out of Val Verde county.

Two days ago three of the gamblers buncoed a wealthy ranchman out $300. The victim informed his friends, and they planned a private game of poker to which the ten gamblers were invited.

The game was in full progress last night, when citizens, who were onto the scheme, broke into the room in the rear of the saloon, and took charge of the ten sports.

The citizens were greatly wrought up over the invasion of the gamblers, and some of the cowboys suggested hanging the men, but it was finally decided to brand them and ride them out of the county. The pitch and feathers were administered, on the outskirts of the town, and the men were made to ride rails suspended on the shoulders of citizens.

At the county line, the victims were dismissed with a warning that if they returned to the county they would be strung up. Early this morning the gamblers boarded a freight train for the west, with New Mexico as their destination.

HERMANN CASE DRAGS ON.

HIS SUCCESSOR TESTIFIES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The defense in the Hermann trial called W. A. Richards, former Commissioner of the General Land Office, to testify today. Richards said that in January, 1903, he was told by his messenger that the chief messenger and assistant were tearing up Hermann's letter books in the corridors. This testimony was objected to by the prosecution, and the court remarked that he did not see how the fact of publicity regarding the destruction of the letter books would affect the character of the act. United States Attorney Baker said that the government would argue to the jury that the defendant destroyed his letter books openly and notoriously.

Richards produced memoranda which was made at the time he passed the twelve Puter claims to patent. In this connection Baker remarked that the government would argue to the jury that Richards acted in the dark regarding these claims, that he was put in possession by Binger Hermann of only part of the papers regarding them.

POOLROOMS RAIDED.

BIG PROFITS DISCOVERED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, April 2.—The poolroom situation in New York is attracting attention, following two important raids made by the District Attorney's office. One of the places raided was in lower Broadway, and the other at No. 112 Fulton street. Both apparently were distributing information for a chain of poolrooms, and important books and papers regarding the illegal business, together with a list of names of patrons, some prominent in social and business life, were seized.

Dist.-Atty. Jerome has had his assistants examine the seized documents and today he makes public some of the surprising things they found. The books show that five men in the Fulton-street poolroom made a profit of over $20,000 monthly for many months. The profits for a year are placed at $250,000, indicating what little chance a majority of bettors have. These immense profits, it is stated, were made with a capital of $10,000.

CRIME BRIEFS.

Gun Victim Dies.

CHICAGO, April 2.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Racine says: Jacob C. Best, son of the millionaire wholesale liquor dealer of Milwaukee, who was shot in the abdomen during a quarrel in a saloon here last week, died early today. J. N. Dillon, in whose saloon Best was shot, is in jail, and though Dillon denies the deed, a dying statement of Best, together with the statements of men who were in the saloon at the time of the shooting, charge Dillon with the shooting.

Banker Is Sentenced.

WARSAW (Mo.) April 2.—Maj. H. W. Salmon, convicted of illegal banking, was today refused a new trial and sentenced to three years in the penitentiary. An appeal will be taken to the State Supreme Court.

Young Fiends Arrested.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Three boys, whose ages range from 12 to 14 years, were arrested today, charged with setting fire to the clothing of Michael Lacoco, a 17-year-old boy, while the latter lay asleep in a hallway. The boys gave the names of Lester Hall, Oscar Leonard and James White. According to the story of one of the boys, they wanted to see some fun. They first attempted to light Lacoco's clothing with a match, but they were unsuccessful. They went to a drug store and secured a bottle of alcohol, the contents of which they poured over the sleeping boy's clothing. As the flames enveloped his body Lacoco was awakened, and after a futile attempt to extinguish the flames, he rushed into the street, where he fell exhausted. He was taken to a hospital, where his condition is said to be serious.

Arrested as Bad Check Passer.

SACRAMENTO, April 2.—A. Annabel, alias J. N. Dixon, wanted in Santa Barbara county for issuing bogus checks against the Lompoc Valley Bank, was arrested in this city today upon the request of Sheriff Stewart of Santa Barbara. The prisoner has been spending money in a lavish manner in this city.

Promoter Ends His Life.

OMAHA (Neb.) April 2.—A. B. Jaquith, 42 years old, one of the promoters of the Omaha Grain Exchange, shot and killed himself at his home this morning. He is believed to have been despondent over financial reverses.

Dyspepsia

Is Caused by Germs

When the germs of Catarrh or other germs, attack the stomach lining, too little gastric juice will flow. The result is indigestion. And the trouble never can end until the germs are destroyed. Drugs which merely create artificial digestion have but a brief effect.

Liquozone is now used for Dyspepsia, almost the world over, because it kills germs. It is not like other germicides, which are poisons when taken internally; but a harmless germicide which acts as a tonic. It is derived solely from gas. Yet all disease germs perish at its touch, because they are of vegetable origin.

Millions of people know from experience the power of Liquozone. It does for stomach troubles what nothing else may do. Its effects are so certain and so immediate that we paid $100,000 for the rights to this invention.

50c Bottle Free

We ask you to try this product at our expense. Don't treat Dyspepsia in trifling, ineffective ways. Simply send us this ad. with your name and address. We will then mail you an order on your local druggist for a 50c bottle, and will pay the druggists ourselves for it. In justice to yourself, learn what Liquozone means to you, for you incur no obligation whatever. Address The Liquozone Company, Dept. 500, Chicago.

WOMAN IS ELECTED.

Catherine Waugh McCulloch, the first woman ever elected to the office of Justice of the Peace in the United States, defeated her opponent in the Evanston campaign today by a majority of 812 votes, a larger majority than any other candidate in the election received.

William S. Moore, a mere man, with aspirations to sit upon the bench of justice, was overwhelmingly snowed under by the woman lawyer and suffragist.

MOTHER IS FOILED.

When Ethel Lashbrook, No. 507 Wells street, was declared winner in a recent newspaper prize beauty contest, her mother declared that the possession of such charms entitled her to a wealthy husband and promptly set about to realize her ambitions in her daughter's behalf. Fearing that the wealthy suitor was about to be produced, Ethel eloped with George Joetz and both were soon arrested. Judge Fake today listened to the bride's story and dismissed the abduction charge, remarking: "True love is better than riches."

ROTTEN CARS ADD HORROR

Espee Scored by Coroner Jury at Colton.

Call Foreman and Switchman Criminally Negligent.

Another Name on Long List of Wreck Victims.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COLTON, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] This afternoon the Coroner's jury, after the inquest upon the body of H. F. Walthers, who was killed in the recent wreck on the Southern Pacific Railroad at this point, reported as follows:

"We, the Coroner's jury, find that L. R. Alvord and J. G. Gruesmeyer are equally guilty of criminal negligence of their duties and are largely to blame for the wreck that occurred in the Southern Pacific yards at Colton, March 23, 1907. We further exonerate W. Wharms, engineer and W. J. Morrison, fireman, and W. K. Davis of the switching crew.

"We further find that Clarence Warmington is guilty of negligence in running train No. 9 at too great a speed inside yard limits. We exonerate V. Clapp, fireman of No. 9, of all blame in connection with the wreck.

"We censure the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for hauling passengers in old, frail, weakly-constructed cars, as said cars in wreck seem to be. We recommend the painting of all danger signals and the same to be kept in good condition for the purpose of helping the railroad employés to see the signals.

Upon the return of the verdict by the Coroner's jury, Swith Foreman Alvord and Switchman Gruesmeyer surrendered to Coroner Van Wie. No formal charge has been lodged against them, and none will be. The matter now rests with the District Attorney and it is not thought that a vigorous prosecution will follow. Both of the accused are at liberty.

COLTON, April 2.—The inquest was resumed at 9 o'clock this morning in the City Hall. Coroner Van Wie read to the jurors the depositions of Engineer Warmington and Fireman Clapp of the Overland, which were taken by him at the hospital at Los Angeles where the two injured men are under treatment. Owing to their serious condition their examinations were brief.

Engineer Warmington, in reply to questions, stated that his train was going at between thirty and thirty-five miles an hour; that he did not see the signal to stop until he was within ten car lengths of the switch; that he applied the emergency brakes. Expee Scored by Coroner's Jury at Colton.

Call Foreman and Switchman Criminally Negligent.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COLTON, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] This afternoon the Coroner's jury, after the inquest upon the body of H. F. Walthers, who was killed in the recent wreck on the Southern Pacific Railroad at this point, reported as follows:

"We, the Coroner's jury, find that L. R. Alvord and J. G. Gruesmeyer are equally guilty of criminal negligence of their duties and are largely to blame for the wreck that occurred in the Southern Pacific yards at Colton, March 28, 1907. We further exonerate W. Wharme, engineer and W. J. Morrison, fireman, and W. K. Davis of the switching crew.

"We further find that Clarence Warmington is guilty of negligence in running train No. 9 at too great a speed inside yard limits. We exonerate V. Clapp, fireman of No. 9, of all blame in connection with the wreck.

"We censure the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for hauling passengers in old, frail, weakly-constructed cars, as said cars in wreck seem to be. We recommend the painting of all danger signals and the same to be kept in good condition for the purpose of helping the railroad employés to see the signals.

Upon the return of the verdict by the Coroner's jury, with Foreman Alvord and Switchman Gruesmeyer surrendered to Coroner Van Wie. No formal charge has been lodged against them, and none will be. The matter now rests with the District Attorney and it is not thought that a vigorous prosecution will follow. Both of the accused are at liberty.

COLTON, April 2.—The inquest was opened at 9 o'clock this morning in the City Hall. Coroner Van Wie read to the jurors the depositions of Engineer Warmington and Fireman Clapp of the Overland, which were taken by him at the hospital at Los Angeles, where the two injured men are under treatment. Owing to their serious condition their examinations were brief.

Engineer Warmington, in reply to questions, stated that his train was going at between thirty and thirty-five miles an hour; that he did not see the signal to stop until he was within ten car lengths of the switch; that he applied the emergency brakes. He further explained that yard limits are to govern the movements of switch engines, and that he paid no notice to them.

He believed his train was under control, as he could have stopped it within a reasonable distance. He stated that he could have made the curve into the Armour siding, where the wreck occurred, had he been going at between eight and 10 miles an hour, but as the curve is particularly sharp a greater speed would derail any train as heavy as his.

SWITCH TARGET HIDDEN.

Fireman Clapp's deposition corroborated that of the engineer, with the exception of the rate of speed at which the Overland was traveling. The fireman believed that it was not going faster than twenty or twenty-five miles an hour. Both stated that the switch target was obscured from view by a railroad shanty.

There was a violent contradiction in the testimony of General Trainmaster J. H. Dodds and Switch Foreman Alford. The latter gave the jury to understand that it was the rule of the company for switch engines to work on the main line when passenger trains were due. This Dodd contradicted, and Alford then stated that he (Alford) had last Wednesday been given a verbal order to take his switch engine to the cement siding. When an Overland bound east was due in two minutes, and that he and his engineer had refused to obey the order, further, that the very morning of the accident the yard master had given orders which took the switch crew upon the main line the very minute an Overland was about to pull out from the depot.

Both General Yard Master Dodd, Local Yard Master McIntyre, and Operator Pickley contradicted the switch foreman further by declaring that it was the duty of the latter to call at the yard office for orders during the day, and that when a train was overdue he should not have gone on the main line at all.

SYSTEM LACKING.

The result of the inquiry was to show that from the general trainmaster's department down to the foreman of the switching crew an amazing lack of system prevails. This feature was freely commented on by the jury, and in their questions they plainly indicated the nature of their ideas on this point.

It was stated during the inquest that an examination of the emigrant coaches showed that they were actually rotting away, and that they were unsafe for public conveyance. Their condition is declared to have been largely responsible for the shocking death rate.

There are still nine Italian bodies at the morgue, no instructions from the Italian consul at Los Angeles having been received as to their disposition.

The wreck was burned last night, the fire lighting up the entire valley. Several day coaches were saved, have been blocked up on the track, and will be hauled with the engine to Los Angeles. If any more bodies are buried under the débris, they are concealed beneath the earth which is piled up for a number of feet.

The Interstate Commerce Commissioners are interesting themselves in this case.

Interstate Commerce Commissioners Hawley and Winter attended the first day's session of the inquest and took extensive notes of the testimony.

ANOTHER WRECK VICTIM.

OSCAR NELSON PASSES AWAY.

Another name was added to the long list of victims of the Colton railroad wreck yesterday when Oscar Nelson succumbed to internal injuries. Mr. Nelson was taken to No. 509 Pico street in this city after the wreck. His condition became more serious Monday night and he died yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. The funeral services will be held at the undertaking parlors at Eleventh street and Grand avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

DEPRIVES WIFE OF HER BED.

THEN ORDERS HER, SHE SAYS, OUT OF THE HOUSE.

Alleged Drunken Man Makes Trouble in Two Families, Gets Forcibly Ejected from Premises, Arrested and Arraigned in Police Court—Better-Half Tries to Shield Him.

George E. Dolan appeared in the Police Court yesterday on a charge of disturbing the peace. He furnished the required bond and the case will be heard on the 17th inst. Dolan has led a busier existence the past few days than during any other time since he came to Los Angeles, according to the complaint. On Saturday he drank whisky, on Sunday, it is said, he beat his wife; Monday he was ordered out of his own house, and yesterday he was taken into the Police Court. These are the facts, according to information secured yesterday.

The Dolans were married three years ago in Boston, where Mrs. Dolan, a slender young woman, fair of feature and mild in manner, is well connected. Less than a year ago they came to Los Angeles and the husband sought work at his trade. He is an electrician.

The Dolans became acquainted with another couple, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Haugh. Haugh is a real estate man with offices in the Copp building. Just a month ago the families began keeping house in the same house, renting the property at No. 415 West Twenty-second street. For a time all went well. The trouble came when Dolan got drunk and insulting, according to the other members of the household.

There isn't a better man in the world than my husband, except when he drinks," said Mrs. Dolan, seeking to shield her husband as she was questioned about the beatings the others told of her having received.

"He didn't strike me. I was only bruised by his pushing me out of bed. We have had reverses; he was not able to get work and things went wrong. I wanted him not to drink whisky, and Sunday night he ordered me out of the house, which I thought too much."

After the families had retired to their separate apartments that night Dolan continued to find fault, and it was then that he is alleged to have dragged her from her bed. Then, in his drunken state, he went to Haugh's rooms, and was at once forcibly ejected. The next morning he was ordered from the house by Haugh and his wife, and told not to come back. He was told to leave town and that they would care for Mrs. Dolan, who had their respect and sympathy.

But he didn't stay away. During the day he came back, but was not allowed to see his wife. Late that night his ring brought no response, and he broke the door in. Haugh put him out and called the police.

Mrs. Dolan said last night that her husband's conduct had so disgraced her that she can never live with him again. For the present she will stay with her friends, the Haughs, who have offered her a home. Mrs. Dolan says she will not sue for a divorce, for the present, at least. They all intend to offer testimony against the electrician when the case comes to trial.

LOOKING FOR OLD RYE BURIED BEFORE CIVIL WAR.

Supposed to Be at Fort Mohave. Post Abandoned and Burned, but Liquor Carefully Cached—New Dam on Silver Creek Swept Away. Sheep Bring High Prices.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) April 1.—At old Fort Mohave, on the Colorado River's eastern bank, above Needles, is a treasure that is to be sought for diligently by a party that is now being gathered. The treasure is nothing less than three barrels of fine Monongahela rye whisky. It was buried in 1861, at the outbreak of the Civil War, by Peter R. Brady, then a clerk in the government service, and later one of Arizona's most honored citizens. The post was to be abandoned and upon Brady fell the task of saving the valuables that could not be transported. He fired the buildings of the post and under the ashes of the commissary buried the whisky, with other liquors, and the post library. He covered the whole carefully with ashes, hiding the cache against possible unearthing by Indians. An old map has been found which gives the location of the buildings destroyed, and the buried nectar is to be brought to light forthwith.

The summer school of the Flagstaff Normal will begin this year on July 8 and close on August 29.

Saturday, floods on Silver Creek swept away the newly-completed dam twelve miles above Snowflake. This was relied upon by the farmers of the valley for the coming summer's irrigation.

Dr. J. Walter Fewkes, the noted ethnologist, who has been spending the winter in excavations at Casa Grande, Pinal county, is now investigating ancient ruins in the vicinity of Flagstaff, where he will make his base for several weeks, prior to his return to Washington.

A few years ago sheep were selling in Northern Arizona as low as 50 cents a head. A few days ago, H. W. McCullough sold a band of 2000 sheep to Flagstaff wool growers for $6.50 a head.

The great mill of the Saginaw and Ministee Lumber Company at Williams is to be started again this week, after several months of idleness. Extensive improvements have been made in the plant.

William Farrow has been granted in the local District Court a divorce from Mary Ann Farrow, now a resident of Los Angeles. The couple were married in Phoenix in June, 1905, but the woman left for the Coast two days after the ceremony, and since has refused to return.

An unknown man, aged about 25, died Saturday as he was being taken to the City Jail, apparently stupefied from intoxication. He was dressed as a miner, but his identity cannot be established.

BEGIN LAGUNA DAM.

LEVEE ALSO PROGRESSING.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

YUMA (Ariz.) April 1.—Six hundred men are employed by the Reclamation Service on the beginnings of the Laguna dam across the Colorado, above Yuma. Nearly all this force is to be dropped about June 1, when the summer floods will be due. The work that has been done thus far has been upon the ends of the dam, leading down to the river channel, which is 1000 feet wide. This fall, when the river has reached a relatively low stage, work will be commenced upon the construction of the dam across the channel, the water being diverted through sluiceways built for the purpose.

An additional force of about 200 men and as many horses is now working upon a levee, on the California side of the river, designed to reclaim 17,000 acres, largely for the benefit of the Yuma Indians. This force is to be doubled very soon in order to insure the construction of the levee by the time of the freshet. The lower levees at the Imperial heading have nearly reached completion and the railroad engineers believe that their work will stand a raise of the river to even a depth of thirty feet.

INDIAN UNIONITES BEATEN.

The noble red man resident around Yuma has had almost too much demand for his services during the past couple of years in connection with the work at the Laguna dam and at the Imperial heading. There was a time, not long ago, when he was pleased to labor from sun-up to sunset for $1 a day. Now he comes under the protection of the law forbidding more than eight hours' work upon governmental projects and he draws $1.65 for each shift. Most of the Indians refuse to work on Sunday; in this the pagans cheerfully joining with the Christians, through laziness, if not piety. The Yumas have regarded the work on the new levee through their reservation lands as peculiarly their own, and have resented the employment of Papagos or Cocopahs. Inoculated by modern ideas, the Yumas struck against the importation of "scab" Indian labor. They also struck for a raise of wages to $1.75 a day. The only answer of the Reclamation Service representatives was to bring in more "scabs." Then the Yumas surrendered and they are back at work again at the old wages.

NEW ICE PLANT.

Of decided importance to the fruit shippers of Southern California is the icehouse lately completed in Yuma by the Armour Company. The building is the largest structure in Yuma, with capacity for many thousands of tons of ice, which is coming from California factories at the rate of five carloads a day. The loading platform, nearly 600 feet long, has been designed for the icing of fourteen carloads at a time, the tops of the cars being lower than the platform level.

MRS. SAGE HELPS CONVICT.

Lee Miller, a convict in the Arizona Penitentiary, lately received as a gift from Mrs. Russell Sage of New York a full set of civil engineering instruments, to be used by him in carrying on a course in engineering in an eastern correspondence school. Miller has two years yet to serve, counting in all good conduct credits. In 1897 he was an inmate of the Yavapai County Jail at Prescott, charged with forgery, and participated in a jail break, led by Parker, a notorious train robber. As an incident to the escape, Lee Norris, a Courthouse clerk was killed. For this crime Parker was hanged, and his accomplices sentenced to life terms in the penitentiary. Upon the recommendation of the prison officials, Gov. Murphy, four years ago, commuted Miller's sentence to end in 1909.

OIL AT THOUSAND FEET.

McNee Company Strikes It at That Depth—Other News of the Great Industry.

The McNee Oil Company, an unincorporated association of Los Angeles and San Luis Obispo people, has struck oil at 1035 feet in the Arroyo Grande district within some 200 feet of the Tiber wells. It is too soon to tell how much the find will amount to, but it is safe to consider the well as within the proven belt from the start.

"There are but five persons interested at present, viz., W. W. Neuer, Robert N. Bulla and Thomas Hughes of Los Angeles, J. W. Squires of Arroyo Grande and H. H. Carpenter of San Luis Obispo. The company is named after the owner of the land on which the well is drilled.

A report received from Arroyo Grande a few days since gives the following status of each well and company formed as it was a week ago: Tiber, three wells finished; Associated, one well drilling, 2700 feet deep; Oak Park, one, 2700; Logan, 3650; Capital, 2200; California Newlove, 1600; Perpetual, 2500; La Grande, (C. V. Hall & Son,) 1300; Mohawk Crude, La Point and Southern, one rig each; Summit, North Star, Home Mutual, Swiss-American and Arroyo Grande, timber on land for first rig; Lopez Cañon, See Cañon, Tally Ho, Continental, Price Cañon and Edna, organized; Hoorihan Land, Irish Hills and Carruthers Land, organising. W. M. Graham, (California Oil Fields, Ltd.'s manager) has just secured the Dorn ranch. The Newlove, referred to as a close corporation, has just secured land near the Edna. In the Huasna district there are five rigs just erected by new companies besides the one that has been drilling for some time on the New Huasna Oil Company's land. The companies the depth of whose wells is given above, have one hole each.

UNION'S SHALLOW STRIKE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

FULLERTON, April 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The news has just leaked out that the Union Oil Company made the oil strike in the new field near the city limits northwest of town at a depth of only 1250 feet, instead of 1800 feet, as was first given out.

All of the drillers who have visited that territory stated that they believed that if the strike was made at all the hole would have to be drilled to a depth of at least 3000 feet. The company has decided to pull the casing from the hole, put down much larger casing and will continue the well to a much greater depth, feeling satisfied that they will strike a gusher sooner or later if present indications count for anything.

Lumber for Derricks.

A consignment of half a million feet of lumber for derricks is due to be received in the Santa Maria field this week or next. Another consignment of the same extent was received by the Union only five weeks ago and smaller lots are coming in all the time.

BUSINESS WOMEN ELECT.

The California Business Woman's Association held its annual meeting last evening and elected the following officers: Mrs. Pearl A. Spaulding, president; Mrs. Claudia H. White, first vice-president; Mrs. Leland Norton, second vice-president; Mrs. O. H. Burbridge, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Mabel Bireley, recording secretary; Mrs. Clementine Ashley, treasurer. The installation will take place the first Tuesday in May.

CRIPPLED FOR LIFE.

Alleged Thief Trying to Escape from Policeman Falls Under Car.

Frank McCloud, while trying to escape from Patrolman Neelon, yesterday afternoon, fell under a Pasadena car and his right hand was cut off. His arm was amputated below the elbow by Police Surgeon Quint. McCloud was under the influence of liquor at the time of his arrest.

According to the story of the patrolman, McCloud and J. Pellseer had been drinking. McCloud offered to sell a watch for $2.50, and when a $10 bill was offered in payment he snatched the money and ran. Neelon gave chase.

Seeing a Pasadena car approaching the intersection of Aliso and Alameda streets, McCloud tried to jump on the step. Neelon grabbed for the man. McCloud slipped and fell under the car. His hand was horribly crushed.

"It was my fault that his hand was cut off," said Neelon, yesterday. "He tried to get away from me. I had my rubber boots on, and just as I reached for him he slipped and I fell against him. He was thrown under the car. I kept him from being killed at the risk of my life."

The patrolman's hands are bruised from contact with the car wheels. Neelon has been on the police force only a few months.

Pellseer was placed under arrest and is in the City Jail.

JILTED WIDOW.

And Then Used Her Money to Marry Another Woman—in Prison.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

PARIS, March 16.—Though tradition teaches man to beware of widows, the rule has worked backwards in the case of Mme. Toudeau, who invested a small fortune in a bachelor suitor only to have him run away and marry a pretty young girl on the proceeds.

The way it came about was this. Gilbert Leblond, an enterprising foreign engineer, turned up in Paris a year ago this spring, and, as becomes that expansive season of the year, found himself in a marrying mood. He looked about for a suitable better half and chanced upon Mme. Toudeau, a wealthy widow, the sister of a Spanish field officer. Accordingly he laid violent siege to her heart, and soon became her accepted suitor. Then the couple laid extensive plans for a luxurious home. The widow was to furnish funds while the engineer would see to all the work, and when the home was finished, he should lead her to it triumphantly. Appropriations for the future mansion were liberally made by the unsuspecting widow until they reached the snug little sum of $50,000. All at once there was a "slump" in the love market in which Mme. Toudeau had invested a good portion of her fortune. The engineer's affections dropped several points and he soon disappeared altogether. Later he had the courtesy to inform the widow by post that pressing business had obliged him to abandon his plan of marrying her.

However, content Mme. Toudeau might be to lose her prospective husband, she keenly regretted the loss of her money and determined to recover as much of it as possible. A lawsuit was instituted and it disclosed the fact that the engineer had married a very fair and pretty little girl—ever so much younger than the widow—and that the bridal couple actually had the audacity to be living in the house which had been bought with the jilted widow's money.

Restitution of the $50,000, a fine of $200 and imprisonment for four years was the court's sentence for such gross trifling with a widow's affection and funds.

THREE BOYS HAD ECZEMA OF HEAD

One Mother's Trials—Little Ones Treated at Dispensary for Three Months—Did Not Seem to Improve—Suffered Five Months.

ALL WERE PERFECTLY CURED BY CUTICURA

"My three children had eczema for five months. A little sore would appear on the head and seemed very itchy, increasing day after day. The baby had had it about a week when the second boy took the disease and a few sores developed, then the third boy took it. For the first three months I took them to the N— Dispensary, and they told me that the children had ringworm, but they did not seem to improve. Then I heard of the Cuticura Remedies, and I thought I would write you about my case, and when I got the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment I bathed the children's heads with warm water and Cuticura Soap and then applied the Cuticura Ointment. In a few weeks they had improved, and when their heads were well you could see nothing of the sores. I should be very glad to let others know about the great Cuticura Remedies. At the meeting of the Harvesters, at the home of Francis Murphy yesterday, Mrs. Frank Coulter was elected secretary. This is the women's branch of the Murphy Association, which does much good work among the families of the pledge-signers, and of which Mrs. Murphy is president.

Missionary Delayed.

Railroad troubles prevented the arrival in this city of Rev. Philip Delaporte in time to fill the dates announced for him at Peniel Hall. He arrived last night, and will speak today at noon and also tonight. He is a missionary in Micronesia, on a lone island in the Pacific Ocean.

Baraca Boys Lecture.

A lecture will be delivered tomorrow evening in Choral Hall, Temple Auditorium, under the auspices of the Baraca City Union, for the benefit of the charity fund. The lecturer is Hon. Frank C. Collier, who will take for his subject "The Trial of Jesus Christ from a Lawyer's Viewpoint."

Where Is Garrett?

Relatives of Edward A. Garrett, formerly of Catford, London, Eng., are anxious to hear from him. In August, 1906, he wrote from Redlands, and the letter was postmarked Long Beach. Since that date nothing has been heard of him. British Vice-Consul Mortimer has been asked to look him up.

Rivets His Finger.

Neil Berry, aged 18, of No. 209 South Fremont avenue, was the victim of a peculiar accident yesterday afternoon. While operating a riveting machine at the Los Angeles Saddlery Finding Company, Berry thrust his hand beneath the punch and a rivet was firmly imbedded in the end of his finger. The rivet was removed at the Receiving Hospital.

Lee Lung Arrested.

Lee Lung was taken to Stockton last night to answer to the charge of forgery. According to a Stockton officer who arrived here yesterday, Lung forged the name of J. Vail to two checks for $60 each. At that time Lung was a servant employed by the Vails. Soon after his arrival in Los Angeles, Lung was betrayed to the police by a local merchant Chinaman. He was arrested.

Invading Texan Fields.

The Bailey Ornamental Iron Company reports that it has secured the $7,000 contract to supply all the ornamental ironwork on the eight-story fire-proof hotel, being built by Hunt & West at Dallas, Tex. The building will be completed by July 1. The iron company is a local concern. It has had to enlarge its plant to accommodate the great rush orders it is obtaining throughout the Southwest. They are working sixty men at present, and will engage twenty-five new hands at once.

To Close Poolroom.

Persons residing in the vicinity of Twenty-fifth street and Long Beach avenue are determined to close a poolroom there, which is said to be the cause of ruining young boys. Yesterday a "John Doe" warrant for the arrest of the proprietor of the place was issued. Two 14-year-old lads, Fred Hoffman and Earl Kennedy, who have spent the greater part of their time at the poolroom, were arrested yesterday. The police say they have evidence enough to secure the revocation of the poolroom owner's license.

Redondo Pier.

Application has been made at the United States engineer office, 537 Citizens' National Bank Building, by the Pacific Light and Power Company for permission to extend its pier at Redondo, to a total length of 1180 feet. A map showing location of pier will be on exhibition in that office until 11 a.m., next Tuesday. Interested parties are invited to inspect the map and present in writing on or before that date, any objections, based on navigation interests, that they may have to the work proposed.

Lowe Gas Men in Trouble.

Warrants were issued yesterday for the arrest of T. S. C. Lowe, vice-president and general manager of the People's Gas and Coke Company; W. E. Simpson, H. M. Barstow, G. L. Thompson, G. A. Carter and S. Weatherholt, who are also connected with the concern. Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Eddy issued the complaints, which were signed by Justice Frederickson. The men will be brought into the Police Court this morning to show cause why they have refused to submit statements of the amount of business done by the company. It is alleged in the complaint that no statement of the gas output of the concern for the past two months has been made to the Council.

GIRL'S HORRID FATE APPALLS.

Is Kept in Chinese Opium Den for Three Days.

Daughter of Rich Family and Worker in Mission.

Mongolian "Christian" Held for Heinous Crime.

Drugged into insensibility and carried to a Chinese opium den where she was held a prisoner for three days and nights, was the awful experience of a pretty Los Angeles girl. Rescued by the police while still unconscious from the effects of a powerful poison administered to her by her captors, the girl, whose name the officers refuse to disclose, is near death at her home. Wong Bing, an Americanized Chinaman is behind the bars of the City Jail, accused of a serious crime.

Surrounded by friends and attended by competent physicians, everything possible is being done by the parents to save their daughter from death. Four days she has remained in a state of coma and yesterday, for the first time, she opened her eyes and showed signs of returning consciousness. Only a part of her horrible story has been learned. Enough is known, however, of the three days spent in the vile den to bring conviction, it is said, to at least one man.

Although surrounded with every luxury, and possessed of the means to enjoy herself to the full in almost any way she chose, this daughter of a prominent family elected to work among the Chinese in the lowest section of the city. She spent much of her time in the Chinese missions where she helped as a teacher. Her beauty attracted many and her sweet winsomeness charmed. Sinister glances were cast in her direction. Now the police say she was the victim of a plot which had for its aim the accomplishment of the girl's ruin.

FAMILIAR WITH DRUGS.

One of the first to become interested in the young woman was Wong Bing, a dandy, and a typical Chinese lady's man. The fellow dresses well and speaks English fluently. He is employed by his uncle as drug clerk and has access to and is familiar with powerful drugs.

Wong Bing desired to learn. He wanted to become skilled in the ways of polite society. He was anxious to learn the white man's ways. What more natural than that he should desire to be taught by a sweet-faced white girl just budding into young womanhood. Wong is 25 years old. His family is wealthy and he has powerful friends in the Chinese quarter.

JOINS MISSION.

From occasional lessons Wong became a steady, earnest pupil. He learned rapidly and at last became so interested that he joined the Central Baptist Church Mission, and, to all appearances, was a devout Christian.

Trusted by superintendent and teachers, Wong Bing came and went as he pleased. He took part in the Bible lessons and even offered prayer at times. Finally he took up his residence at the little mission and was given a room in the rear.

Everything worked well for Wong Bing. He won his way into the affections of teachers and pupils. He was pointed out as a model Chinese Christian. One night Wong accompanied the young woman home. That was only a few weeks ago. Again, when she was kept late at the mission, Wong was careful that she should reach her home safely.

NIGHT OF MYSTERY.

Last Wednesday night he attended the mission with the young woman and remained through the service. Already it was whispered that Wong was paying too much attention to the girl. On Thursday night he came again with the girl, but no one can remember when the two departed. He did not take her home.

Miss Helen Webber, who is in charge of the mission, remembers that Wong Bing was there with the girl. Miss Webber left the city on Friday morning and did not return until yesterday, when she learned for the first time of Wong's arrest.

What happened in the mission after the teachers and pupils had left that night is known only to the police and to the parents of the outraged girl. This much was learned yesterday. Wong Bing gave the young woman some candy. She was immediately seized with drowsiness, it is said, and soon fell asleep. She knows nothing else until she awakened in her home yesterday.

POLICE HINTS HORRIBLE.

That Wong Bing had several accomplices the police are satisfied. They say they know the girl was subjected to horrible indignities while kept a prisoner in the Chinese den.

The police declare they will proceed against Wong Bing with the evidence they now possess. The parents of the girl, in order to avoid the necessary disgrace, are anxious to avoid all publicity in the matter. There is a possibility the case may not get into court because of the family's reticence.

OBITUARY.

Don Carlos Taft.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Don Carlos Taft, former professor of geology at the University of Illinois, died of apoplexy yesterday at his residence here. Taft was born in Swanzey, N. H., in 1827, and graduated from Amherst College, in 1852. He accepted the chair of geology at the University of Illinois in 1870, and ten years later moved to Hanover, Kan., where he established a bank, of which he was president until 1897, when he came to Chicago.

Mrs. Florence Delmas.

SAN JOSE, April 2.—Mrs. Florence Delmas, wife of Paul Delmas, only son of Attorney D. M. Delmas, died suddenly last night at the attorney's country home near Mountain View.

Mgr. Nocedal.

NEW YORK, April 2.—A special cable dispatch from Madrid to the Prensa of Buenos Ayres, announces the death of Mgr. Nocedal, whose nomination as Archbishop of Valencia aroused so much opposition in political and social circles. He was formerly in the Philippines and went to Spain on the conclusion of the war.

An important step to aid farmers has been decided upon by the Buenos Ayres National Bank. The institution has resolved to accord big credit to farmers in order to avoid compulsory sales. It is stated that no country exports in such haste as Argentine, thus causing disturbances in international markets.

EXPLAINS STOCK FLURRY.

Director of Big German Banking House Says Foreign Investors Expect Continued Prosperity.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, April 2.—Hans Schuster, a director of the Dresden Bank, one of the largest banks in Germany, and the representative of that institution in the negotiations which resulted in the formation last year of a close working alliance between that bank and J. P. Morgan & Co., in an interview published in the Times today, expressed the opinion that political conditions, including the agitation for closer government control of the railroads really have had nothing to do with the decline in prices which have taken place in recent months in the New York stock market.

Expansion in commerce and industry beyond the ability of capital to finance it has been the fundamental cause of the disturbed condition of our market according to Schuster. He made it clear, speaking for foreign investors, that they have no dread, as has been expressed in some quarters here, of closer government control of the railroads, or even of governmental ownership, though he admits distrust has been created abroad by the manner in which the agitation for closer government control has been carried on in this country.

In Schuster's opinion, prices in the stock market have seen their lowest level, though some contraction in trade seems to him inevitable. Probably two years, he thinks, will be needed fully to restore the equilibrium in the relations of trade and capital.

A dispatch received yesterday from the Island of Perim in the Strait of Babel Mandeb (at the entrance to the Red Sea) announced that two Japanese warships passed there Monday morning for Hampton Roads. The warships are believed to be the cruisers Chitose and Tsukuba, which sailed from Yokohama February 28, for Hampton Roads under the command of Vice-Admiral Ijuin, the assistant chief of the General Staff of the Japanese navy.

50c to $2.00 KINDS FOR 25c yard

5000 yards exceedingly fine top laces, and not a yard in the lot worth less than fifty cents. More worth between a dollar and two dollars a yard than under a dollar. Furthermore, they are all desireable. All of the newer, better class; the kind you'll most need the next few weeks for waist and gown and hat trimming. Besides the edges there are a few bands and insertions in some of the prettiest designs imaginable; also some few Arabian colors, but mostly all the popular White.

In yesterday's papers we gave full particulars. As there are but 5000 yards in the whole lot it behooves those interested to be here on time. Store opens at 8:30.

Allover Embrordery Waists for $2.00

Want to call your attention to a new white waist we are going to put on sale today at two dollars a piece. We doubt if you've ever seen its equal for $2.50 or even $2.75. We never have.

The waist is made entirely of allover embroidery—front, back, sleeves and all—and a nice fine quality at that. Neatly finished with fine tucks and Val. lace; short sleeves, open back.

The above may give an idea of the general style and the materials employed, but to fully appreciate the painstaking, homelike sewing and finishing and the perfect fitting features, you must see the waist yourself. Compare it with the best you've seen. All sizes in several different styles, each $2.00.

GOLD FLOOD TO BE HERE.

Nevada Business Man Says It Will Pour In.

Declares Los Angeles Has Wonders Coming.

Bragdon of Goldfield Sees Wealth's Trend.

"The wealth that poured into San Francisco from the Comstock will be matched by the wealth that will pour into Los Angeles from the mines of Southern Nevada. All that the men of wealth in the Bullfrog district await is railroad connection between Los Angeles and Goldfield, and this will be a fact in the next three weeks. Then San Francisco and Salt Lake will be forgotten, and there will be but one objective point for the men who seek a rest from the rigors of the desert, and that will be Los Angeles."

Thus spake H. T. Bragdon, president of the Goldfield Stock Exchange, and president of the Montezuma Club of Goldfield, who is a guest at the Alexandria.

Mr. Bragdon says that Los Angeles people do not begin to realize the extent of the wealth that will come here when there is railroad connection. He says the days of the Comstock, when almost untold wealth poured into San Francisco, will be equaled during the next year or so in this city.

"Los Angeles is destined to become a great mining center," he continued. "The people in this beautiful city do not seem to realize that it is inevitable. The cause of this seeming passiveness to a golden opportunity which San Francisco and Salt Lake are straining every nerve to secure is the fact that this city is now advancing so rapidly that the gentle Angeleño has hard work keeping pace with it. The real estate of this beautiful city and environs has advanced so rapidly in price that it alone has caused a tremendous rush of business. But the prosperity that is to come here is so far greater and abounding that it cannot now be recognized fully. When the millions of gold from Nevada are turned hither and the mine-owner millionaires purchase their homes in this city and continue their mining operations in Southern Nevada, a new and greater prosperity will burst upon you."

HARD-HEADED SENSE.

Mr. Bragdon is not a day dreamer, but is a man of hard-headed sense. He has been in the West since the early sixties and has mined in California, Cripple Creek, Montana, British Columbia, Arizona and finally Nevada. He watched the sudden impetus given to the Golden Gate city during the Comstock days, and says that a great city backed by a great mining district is one of the happiest combinations known.

He is usually a taciturn man, but when he thinks of the near future, when it will be possible for the gold miner to be whisked from the scalding plains in less than twenty hours to the cooling shades here, or from the wintry blasts of the desert to the warm sunshine of this city, he says that he just simply has to talk, and it is always to the point.

Mr. Bragdon points out the fact that during the next three weeks the Brock road—the Goldfield and Bullfrog—will be completed from Goldfield to Rhyolite, where it will connect the Las Vegas and Tonopah Railroad, and sleeping cars will run without change between Goldfield and Los Angeles. This will afford a twenty-four-hour service, against a thirty-six-hour service by way of Reno. This is but the beginning, however, and the "Borax" Smith road is boring its way from its junction with the Santa Fé at Ludlow to Rhyolite, while the Las Vegas and Tonopah is struggling along with its work between Rhyolite and Goldfield.

It is believed that when "Borax" Smith gets his road completed to Rhyolite, instead of building independently to Goldfield he will form a juncture with the Brock road, and thus make two independent lines between Goldfield and Los Angeles.

These are the subjects that make Bragdon enthuse. He says that with the improvement of the roadbeds of the railways it will be possible to make the run between Goldfield and Los Angeles in twenty hours against thirty hours to San Francisco.

Bragdon has always been a lover of San Francisco, but says that when a mining man who has spent several months on the desert desires to go to some city he is looking for recreation and there is a certain depressing feeling connected with the ruins of the north that is not desirable, and he turns naturally to the sunlit skies of the south.

NOW AND THEN.

"Every day two solid trains of Pullmans depart from Goldfield loaded to their capacity with passengers bound for San Francisco. When the roads to Los Angeles are completed I firmly believe that 70 per cent. of this business will immediately swing to this city. All that is needed is the completion of the railroads, and this is fast becoming a fact," he said. "In my opinion it will not be long until there is a powerful mining exchange established in Los Angeles which will deal entirely with Nevada mining stocks. When this is accomplished the money that will flow into this city from mining men from Nevada will so far outstrip that now received from tourist visitors that the latter will be almost forgotten. This wealth from Nevada has originated on the Pacific Coast and it will oe spent here in improvements and investments. The men from Nevada are western in spirit and belief, and their interest is entirely centered in the upbuilding of the West."

As substantiating the statements of Bragdon that Nevada wealth will seek an investment in Los Angeles, it is pointed out that during the last week or so three of the best known millionaires of Nevada have purchased magnificent homes here and will live in this city while transacting their mining business in Nevada. G. O. Hayes of the famous Hayes-Monnett mine closed a deal a few days ago for a handsome home on West Adams street, and his partner, M. J. Monnett, has purchased a palatial residence on Orange Grove avenue, Pasadena. Albert Myers of the Mohawk mining property is now talking "buy" with a local real estate firm for two acres in Long Beach, where he will erect a handsome home. These are but a few of the hundreds of Nevada men who, having acquired considerable wealth, have selected upon Los Angeles as their home and headquarters.

Thousands of tons of freight composed principally of machinery and mining supplies are held in this city pending the final completion of an all-rail route into Goldfield and the surrounding mining districts.

H. T. BRAGDON OF GOLDFIELD.

"The wealth that poured into San Francisco from the Comstock will be matched by the wealth that will pour into Los Angeles from Southern Nevada," he says.

MAYOR'S LANCE IS LEVELED.

WILL HELP TEACHERS TO GET BETTER SALARIES.

Promises to Use His Influence With Council to Secure Full Appropriation Allowed by Charter for Schools—Over Hundred and Twenty Thousand More Might Legally Be Voted.

"Harper to the rescue!" may be the campaign cry of the movement on foot in Los Angeles to raise the salaries of the public school teachers.

It is possible for the city to make an additional appropriation of $120,000 for school purposes, under the provisions of the city charter, and the Mayor has promised to use his influence to secure this sum. The maximum amount that may be devoted to the school budget, as stated in the charter, is 20 cents on every $100; 14 cents on the $100 were voted to its last year, and no year has the appropriation exceeded 15 cents on the hundred.

When the fact of a possible increase in the appropriation for schools was called to the Mayor's attention yesterday by a Times reporter, he was surprised to learn that such is the case, and readily promised his support in persuading the City Council to vote the full amount.

"Our teachers should be paid more liberally," said the Mayor, "not for the reason that their incomes are inadequate, but for the plain business reason that they earn more, and are legally entitled to it."

The Mayor is a business man himself. "Let's see," he said, "the city's assessed valuation is $203,000,000. An additional 6 cents on every $100 would be about $120,000. Why, that's a pretty fair sum. It would pay several salaries, don't you think so?"

"How many teachers are there?" he asked. "One thousand, you say? Well, that would make about an average of $12 a month more to each, or enable us to pay them for the two summer months. It would certainly be a help, and I will take the matter up with the Councilmen immediately."

In speaking of the threatened unionizing of the public school teachers in the country, Mayor Harper expressed himself warmly. "The poor salaries are at the bottom of all the trouble," said he, "and the best way to keep such a movement out of Los Angeles is to make the teachers feel that they are receiving a fair return for their labor."

The Mayor is somewhat acquainted with the school situation. He has five children to send to school, and several relatives who are teaching here, so he has been able to see both sides of the question.

His children, too, have been through the kindergarten, and he has had an insight into the exhausting work of giving loving, individual attention to each tiny person just out of the nursery. He is aware that the salary for this work is only from $46 to $66 a month. It is a well-known fact that no kindergartner in Los Angeles can support herself on her salary unless she lives at home.

The kindergarten offers no future except matrimony. The kindergarten teachers marry so fast that the training schools cannot keep the vacancies filled.

SWEET BELLS SWEETER NOW.

Brides-to-Be Need Not Go for Marriage Licenses.

New Law in Effect Today Lifts a Heavy Load.

Horrid Queries About Age No Longer Bother.

After a two years' trial it has been decided that there's no use trying to get a woman to tell her true age when she's about to be married.

Under a law enacted by the Legislature of 1905 they could lead a blushing bride-to-be up to the marriage license bureau, but they couldn't make her tell her age.

They rang out the old law last night; they're ringing in the new today.

Beginning this morning, either party to a mariage ceremony may go alone to the County Clerk's office and obtain the license. For many months they have had to go in pairs, each to swear that his or her age was just what it was represented to be.

This news will come too late for a good many who will make application at the Courthouse today for legal authority to be united in the holy bonds. And more's the pity, for many a heartache might have been saved and many a millinery and dressmaking bill reduced.

LICENSE GOWN, TOO.

It got so that she had to have not only a wedding gown, and a reception gown, and a going-away gown, and a traveling suit, and a breakfast dress and a dinner dress, with hats to match, but likewise a going-to-the-marriage-license-clerk outfit.

As he has done bravely in the past, so the prospective groom henceforth may do—go alone with his two dollars and get the license.

Whoever proposed it, or why, the Legislature of two years ago tinkered the old law so that both parties would have to appear before the license clerk and, under oath, subscribe to statements as to their ages, their color, their identity, their full names, residence, and all that.

It provoked violent protest from the start. Shapely little feet stamped on the floor of many a boudoir as modistes finished the last lap of the trousseau; French heels were kicked off in frenzy at he idea of going to the horrid Courthouse and telling all those provoking things to strange men, maybe to be printed in the newspapers.

WILLIS THE DELIVERER.

Senator Willis of Redlands, author of the amended law that goes into effect today, declared to his fellow legislators that the old law was discouraging matrimony. Statistics do not bear him out, but there is no record of the couples who might have got married but didn't because of the provisions of the old statute.

Willis made another plea to secure the passage of his bill. He said the young women of San Bernardino county were wearing callouses on their feet, tramping in over the hot desert sands to the clerk's office.

With an area of something like 50,000 square miles, and the county seat away off at one side, San Bernardino county had few charms for loving eyes that gazed longingly over the tortuous marriage-license trail.

Willis said that the old law was promoting celibacy and depopulating the country, or tending that way. With which few brief remarks, the Legislature changed the law.

NO OTHER CHANGES.

No other provisions of the marriage license law have been changed. No license may be granted when either party is an imbecile or insane, nor who, at the time the application for license is made, is under the influence of intoxicating liquor or narcotic drug.

No license may be issued for the marriage of a white person with a negro, mulatto or Mongolian.

"Cupid" Watson, who is seventy years old and who was married on the sly only last Saturday, said yesterday that he believed the amended law was a good one.

With Capt. Shea and some of his other able helpers, Watson, as marriage license clerk, has witnessed many a stormy scene in his office when he has demanded the true age of woman applicants for licenses. He has been blamed for the rigors of a law that is said by some of his office mates to have worried him not a little when he issued his own license and was obliged to demand that his prospective bride swear that her age was just what she said.

As Watson was sly enough to apply to himself for the issuance of his own license when no others of the office force were around, it is not known just what she, that now is Mrs. Watson, said to him when he asked her if she was telling the truth about her age.

But that was his official duty. No doubt he seen it and done it.

HAD REMARKABLE CAREER.

Man Who Witnessed Capture of John Brown at Harper's Ferry—Funeral Services Today.

Funeral services over the body of W. F. Slater, who died at the age of 90 years, on Monday, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock, in the chapel of the Overholtzer-Mills Company, Grand avenue and Pico street. The services will be under the auspices of the Odd Fellows, and the sermon will be by Rev. Will A. Knighten. Tomorrow the body will be shipped to Urbana, O., for burial.

Both the father and mother of the deceased are buried at Urbana, and the former passed even the great age of his son, having died at 95.

W. F. Slater was born in Hartford, Ct., but went to Urbana, O., with his father when a child. He returned to Connecticut when 12 years of age, and went to work on a river steamboat. At the age og 16 he went into the bookbinder trade in Boston. In 1837 he walked from Baltimore to Washington, during the administration of President Van Buren. When a child of 6, he tells of having stood in line, among other school children, to receive a greeting from Gen. LaFayette.

He followed book-binding in Indiana and Ohio until 1852, when he became a conductor on the Columbus, Piqua and Indiana Railroad. He stayed with the road until he became its superintendent, and ended his railroad career as superintendent of the old I. B. and W., in 1869.

In 1859 he had gone on a visit to Washington, and heard the official order given to Col. Robert E. Lee to go to Harper's Ferry to quell some sort of a disturbance, and, being a passenger on the train, was himself a witness of the breaking-down of the doors of the old engine-house and of the capture of John Brown.

He was a prominent Odd Fellow, and filled for a number of years offices in the Ohio Grand Lodge, having been Grand Master In 1862, and Grand Patriarch of the Encampment branch in 1867.

Following a trip to Europe, he came to California in 1880, and after spending a winter here, returned to Chicago. Again in 1888 he came back to California, living in this city and Oakland for eleven years. In 1899 he returned to Ohio and became an inmate of the Odd Fellows' Home at Springfield. At the time of his death he was visiting one of his daughters in this city.

CAN'T LIONIZE ADE.

But Sigma Chi Fraternity Finally Persuades Author and Playwright to Dine With Them.

One more attempt has failed to persuade George Ade, the author and playwright, to become a lion.

They have tried to make him walk the gang-plank of home talent literary and musical entertainments and he has balked.

Short-story writers have invited him out to dine and listen to their masterpieces. He has denied himself.

Press clubs, college clubs and women's clubs have hailed him with acclaim; have sent sugary appeals to him to be with them, just for a night, but he sticks to his hotel in Pasadena.

Even the call of his college fraternity has failed to move him very far.

Members of the Sigma Chi, which he joined at De Pauw University, made preparations to give a big "feed" in his honor; him at the head of the table in a hard-boiled shirt and an open faced vest.

Not for the author of "Artie" and the "Fables in Slang."

"I'll go," he finally assured the invitation committee after they had told him that about 100 members had been bidden to the dinner, "if you'll just let me slip in at the side of the table and take my place with the rest of the boys."

And so the dinner to Ade, with Ade left out at his own urgent request, will be held at the Bristol next Saturday evening. A big attendance of Sigma Chis is expected.

WOMAN MAKES ARREST.

Dragged Through Mire of Street She Succeeds in Handing Peddler to Police.

Mrs. Anna Horn of No. 207 East Fifth street has qualified as a woman policeman. By the capture of R. Burns on South Main street yesterday morning, Mrs. Horn demonstrated her ability to make arrests. Several hundred persons watched the woman capture the big peddler and hold him until the police arrived.

Mrs. Horn keeps a fruit stand on East Fifth street. Yesterday she purchased a sack of walnuts from Burns and paid him with a check on the Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank for $8. When she opened the sack she found the walnuts were half rotten. Mrs. Horn raced to the bank to stop payment on the check.

Hatless and breathless she arrived in time to see Burns climbing into his wagon outside the bank building. He had cashed the check. She called to him to stop. He whipped up his horse. Mrs. Horn gave chase and caught the wagon. For half a block she clung to the man's arm until he was forced to bring the horse to a full stop. Burns was arrested.

FIGHTING FOR TWO DOLLARS.

Will Test New Fee Charged in Township Court.

Precedent? If Established? Adds to Expense.

Litigation Costs More Now Than Ever.

One little fee was charged by Justice Albert Lee Stephens in the Township Court yesterday which may have more far-reaching effects than the simple payment of the $2 asked for and refused.

Township justices are now under salary from the county and the fees which they formerly pocketed now go to the county treasury. This eliminates the fee of $3 paid for preliminary examinations in criminal cases, but the civil cases are still charged for under the old scale of $2 for filing the papers and from $1.50 to $2.50 for serving them. The latter goes to the constables of the court, who are still dependent upon the fee system for expenses.

But yesterday Justice Stephens, in addition to the original $2 for filing, charged Attorney Henry H. Roser an extra $2 for entering judgment in default.

JUSTICE A. L. STEPHENS.

This, say lawyers in this city, has never been done before. Mr. Roser refused to pay the fee.

"You are the first one to be charged this fee and you can test it in the higher court if you don't like to pay it," declared Clerk Sidney Reeves, when the demand was made.

WILL TEST DEMAND.

"I certainly will test it," answered Roser. 'I do not believe there is any authority under the law for charging this fee."

Attorney Roser will begin proceedings early this morning for a writ of mandate in the Superior Court to compel Justice Stephens to enter default judgment without payment of this extra fee.

Attorneys, not only in Los Angeles, but in all parts of the State, are interested in the outcome of this case, for if the fee is upheld by the higher court it means added expense in all township courts if the justices desire to charge this fee, and lawyers assert that it is hard enough now to collect from clients the court expenses in both the township and superior courts.

In a great many cases, say attorneys practicing in the lower courts, poor clients often submit to loss and injustice rather than go into court for redress simply because of the expense attached to litigation in petty cases, where even if judgment is rendered for the plaintiff they are losers after all expenses are paid. Especially is this the case in the higher court.

ADDED COURT EXPENSES.

Besides this extra fee of $2 for entering judgment it is asserted that hereafter fees will be charged for swearing to papers or attesting signatures to affidavits, or for any other papers executed after trial at the rate of fifty cents for the first signature and twenty-five cents for the second.

This will be still another added expense to litigation.

In the test case at bar the original suit is entitled Mitchell vs. Taylor and is to recover on a note for $65. The only work in this default case was the entering of the record of filing, the taking of the default and now the entering of judgment by the clerk of the court.

It is this last that the fight will be made upon, on the ground that the act of 1893, entitled, "An act to establish the fees of county, township and other officers," etc., makes $2 the total fee for defaults.

It is also asserted that a new rule is to be made for the payment of a fee of $3 for the filing of a demurrer in any case. But this extra fee, it was stated by Clerk Reeves yesterday, was probably in the Superior Court only, yet attorneys are under the impression that in the township courts also this demurrer fee will be charged.

HIGH JURY CHARGES.

In the Superior Court if a litigant seeks to have his case heard by a jury he has to deposit along with his calendar fee of $2, the sum of $40 for the first day's trial by jury for jury fees, and at the time of the trial for every day of trial the litigants must deposit $24 more. As it is the plaintiff, who generally presses for trial, has to disburse this amount of money to have a jury decide whether he is entitled to a verdict.

In railroad damage suits, where oftentimes the plaintiff is a poor person, this rule of the court has in more than one instance prevented a case being heard by a jury.

With the establishment of the two extra township courts for this district by the late unlamented Legislature the Supervisors of Los Angeles county are in a quandary. They have to find and pay for the quarters of all the justice courts.

Temporary homes have been found for Justices Summerfield and Selph across New High street from the Courthouse tunnel at a rate of $80 a month. But this scattering of the township

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Street Superintendent Edwards decided yesterday upon a campaign for clean streets in which property owners will be impressed to service. He will demand the repair of all broken sidewalks and curbs in the downtown district before the Shriners arrive.

Mayor Harper and Police Commissioner Woodill yesterday declared that they will henceforth consider the district beyond the Third-street tunnel a "closed" section so far as liquor licenses are concerned.

The City Council has adopted plans of the City Engineer for an immense sewer district in the southwestern part of the city.

Bids on street paving received by the Board of Public Works show a stiff increase in figures by all bidders.

An injunction suit was filed yesterday in connection with the purposed division of $100,000 among the trustees of the Los Angeles Holiness Band, to restrain the members from cashing the checks issued to them.

The divorce suit of Furness Taylor against Florence Taylor was submitted yesterday and taken under advisement by Judge James.

Mrs. Cornelia Carlson, one of the contestants in the Dotter will case, testified yesterday regarding the alleged unkindness of her sister, Idella.

Sidney Hendricks, declaring she was driven to crime and infamy by her husband, yesterday was sentenced to two years in State's prison for burglary.

AT THE CITY HALL.

CAMPAIGN FOR CLEAN STREETS.

PROPERTY OWNERS MUST MEND BROKEN SIDEWALKS.

Street Superintendent Will Send Out Inspectors Today to Serve Notices to Repair—Contractors to Be Checked in Encroachment on Highways.

Street Superintendent Edwards begins today a new effort to place the streets of the business district in good shape for the use of the hosts of visitors who will be with us during the Shriners' conclave and La Fiesta.

The street department has an immense burden to bear, and Superintendent Edwards will begin today to seek the aid of property owners. He will send out a corps of inspectors of sidewalks, and wherever there is found defective sidewalks or curbing, in the business district, notice will be served on the property owners or agents to at once place the same in repair.

Not all the holes are in the streets' roadways, by any means. There are numerous places in the business district where the sidewalks have long needed attention, and the Street Superintendent believes that the property owners will gladly cooperate with him in this effort to improve the general appearance of the most-used thoroughfares before the arrival of the thousands of visitors.

The two new street flushers recently purchased by the city have been set up and they were given a satisfactory try-out Saturday night. They will be kept going on the downtown paved section, and much is expected of them. Then the city has purchased several of the large-type road scrapers, which will be kept going on the graded streets. The city now has eight of these four-horse scrapers and ten of the two-horse machines, which it will keep in constant use.

Within a few days the excavations on Spring street and on East First street will have been completed, and then these paved surfaces will be included in the district to be machine-flushed.

Another move which is to be taken up this week by Street Superintendent Edwards, and which will do much toward clearing up the business streets, is that of checking the encroachments of builders and contractors on the highways.

The city ordinances allow builders to use during the time of construction of their buildings one-half of the sidewalk space, and not more than one-fourth of the roadway between curbs; and there is a provision that no material shall extend to within four feet of the tracks of any car line.

Builders heretofore have misconstrued these provisions to mean that they may spread out their materials to within three feet of the car tracks, regardless of the width of the street. Street Superintendent Edwards said yesterday that his observations in the past few days had shown him that contractors were "fudging" from two and a half to four feet on sections of the street to which they have no right. Every one of these offenders will be served with notice during the present week that their materials must be moved within bounds at once.

Still another radical change is to be effected in this line. Heretofore extensions of permits for the piling of building materials in the streets have been made by clerks of the Building Superintendent's office without question, upon demand of the contractors. From now onward every such extension request must go before the Board of Public Works, and abuses of the privileges afforded will result in a prompt order that the street be cleared of material.

"Our building laws are remarkably liberal to the contractors," said Edwards yesterday, "and they certainly should not undertake to overstep the limits. In Chicago, I understand, the ordinance requires all building materials to be kept off the streets, at least within certain districts. We are considering a change in this regard here. The builders give no rental for the use of the streets, and yet they occupy large portions of them for many weeks at a time. I believe there could be a radical change in this regard that would help to keep the streets cleaner and more in keeping with the spirit of the city."

POLICE COMMISSION.

ITS BUSINESS BUDGET.

The Police Commission yesterday granted to S. L. Humphrey a restaurant liquor license for No. 122 North Main street. Humphrey runs a saloon in the adjoining room.

The saloon license of Charles E. Bernard at No. 341 North Main street was transferred to Dan J. Oswald; and there was a transfer of the saloon license of Harry Jacoby, granted to Styger & Zitzelsberger, for No. 106 Court street.

L. J. Economus was given a pool room permit for Nos. 416-418 North Main street. C. O. Goodpastor withdrew his application for a pool room permit for No. 803 West Jefferson street. The University Improvement Association had filed a strong protest against granting this permit.

There were numerous applications for sales stables, in accordance with the recently passed city ordinance, and it developed that in some cases the present provisions of the ordinance would work a hardship on old-established concerns. The law provides that no sales stable shall be maintained within 200 feet of any church.

The Police Commission considered that this is too stringent, and it passed a resolution requesting the City Council to amend the ordinance so that the limit can be cut down to 150 feet.

Employment agency permits were granted to G. D. Douglas, No. 316 South Broadway; Moser & Barbachano, No. 206 South Los Angeles street, and M. Hayashila, No. 604½ West Sixth street.

Percy H. Greer was granted an auctioneer's permit for the Hollenbeck Hotel.

Los Angeles-Pacific Accidents.

The semi-monthly report of accidents filed by M. J. Finkenstein, general claim agent for the Los Angeles-Pacific Railway, shows that between March 1 and 15 there were ten accidents on the lines of this company.

Higgins Makes Protest.

Thomas Higgins has filed with the City Clerk a protest against the proposed widening of Eighth street, between Main street and Central avenue. He claims that the proposed widening would cause the street line to run directly through a three-story brick building which is his property.

Carillo Street Improvement.

Property owners on Carillo street have filed a petition asking for the improvement of that street between Bellevue avenue and Kensington Road under the bond provisions of the Vrooman act.

Street Paving Bids.

The Board of Public Works has received bids on the paving of Cinnabar street, from Second to Third streets; Ninth street, from Broadway to Figueroa street, and Union avenue, from Washington street to a point 184 feet south of Twenty-third street. The lowest figures on the Cinnabar street proposition were submitted by the Barber Asphalt Company, 33 cents per square foot for paving; 39 cents per lineal foot for cement curb; 43 1-10 cents per square foot for gutter and 15 cents per square foot sidewalk. The Barber company also submits the lowest figures on the Ninth street work, its offer being 21 8-10 cents per square foot for paving. The Western Paving Company is lowest bidder on the Union avenue job, it offering to do the paving for 21 cents per square foot.

Special Officers.

The Police Commission yesterday appointed as special police officers the seven night watchmen employed by the Pacific Electric Company in its yards. Louis Gabal was appointed a special policeman for Eastlake Park, and the permit of Fred Stellmacher as special police for the park merry-go-round was revoked.

"Closed District," Says Mayor.

H. C. Witmer, president of the Crown Hills District Improvement Association, filed a protest with the Police Commission, yesterday, against the wholesale liquor establishment on Third street, west of the Third-street tunnel. The communication was filed, pending the action of the City Council on the subject; but Commissioner Woodill and Mayor Harper both took occasion to declare that so far as they were concerned this district should hereafter be considered a closed one for wholesale liquor permits.

Says Gates to Harper.

That was a graceful act of L. C. Gates, late candidate for Mayor, in sending to Mayor Harper a message of congratulation on the success of his administration. There is absolutely no significance, say Mayor Harper's friends, in the fact that the letter is dated April 1. Here it is:

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 1, 1907.
Hon. A. C. Harper, City Hall, City.

My Dear Friend: There was a time when I believed I could be as good or better Mayor than yourself. Happily I am able to say, and say it with heartfelt earnestness, that my faith in myself in that regard is very sadly shaken. By this I mean to congratulate you upon the sane, manly and courageous manner in which you are discharging the tasks of your office. I thank you for this service both as a friend and a citizen. Most truly yours,
L. C. GATES.

New Paving Projects.

The City Council has adopted ordinances of intention to pave Tenth street, from Broadway to Figueroa street, and Ninth street, between Figueroa street and Union avenue.

By Private Contract.

Permission has been granted by the City Council to property owners to improve by private contract King street, between Wilshire boulevard and San Marino street; Seventh and Eighth streets, between Irola and Harvard boulevard.

Big Sewer District.

The City Council has adopted the plans of City Engineer Hamlin for an extensive sewer district in the University section. This plan includes the construction of sewers in portions of Budlong avenue, Jefferson street, Normandie avenue, Kenwood street, Raymond avenue, Twenty-seventh, Twenty-eighth, Twenty-ninth and Thirtieth streets, Thirtieth Place, Walton street, Romeo Place, Dana street, Kansas avenue and Thirty-first street.

Bids on Sewer Construction.

The Board of Public Works has opened bids on the proposed sewers for Ellendale avenue and other streets and a sewer on Mignonette street, from Beaudry avenue to Boylston street. The lowest bidder on the Ellendale-avenue proposition is B. F. Ford, who proposes to do the work for $23,608. R. McDowell is the lowest bidder on the Mignonette-street sewer. His bid is $741. Awards will be made the latter part of this week. W. A. Frick proposes to construct the sewer on Twenty-ninth street, from Arlington to Western avenue, for $2500, which is the lowest bid received on this work.

Rock for Outfall Sewer.

William F. Bryant has proposed to the Board of Public Works that he will furnish for use in the construction of the outfall sewer crushed rock at the rate of $2 per cubic yard; screened gravel for $1.95 per cubic yard, and unscreened gravel for $2.05 per cubic yard.

LICENSE PLUMS FALL.

Supervisors' Tree Shakes for Saloons, Wineries, Restaurants and Druggists—Shorb Denied.

Many saloon, winery, restaurant and druggist liquor licenses were considered by the Board of Supervisors yesterday. Eight applications for restaurant licenses in Shorb precinct, which went "dry" at the last election, were denied, one of them "without prejudice."

The question of the incorporation of Watts was continued till Thursday.

The following liquor licenses were granted: First Supervisoral District, wineries, Peter Espian, near Pomona; San Gabriel Vineyard Company, San Gabriel; L. Bettramo, Burbank; E. A. Fischer, Burbank, Restaurants, Santa Catalina Island Company, Avalon. All the foregoing are new licenses, while the following are renewals: Wineries, Etienne Bros., Lamanda; Sierra Madre Vintage Company, Lamanda; Richard Krebs, Azusa; A. J. Stienke, Azusa; Golden State Fruit Company, Dolgeville; J. S. Baker, East Whittier; G. Piuma, El Monte; Mountain Wine Company, Lamanda; druggist, F. G. Posstmo, Dolgeville.

Fourth Supervisor District: Wineries, R. Poggi, Wilmington; D. Fea, Ballona; F. Partinico, Ballona; B. J. Huguera, Ballona; C. Beltramo, Ballona; Alex Lelong, Ballona; B. Casserini, Ballona. Restauarnts, Pacific Railways Amusement Company, Alamitos.

Fifth Supervisor District: Wineries, West Glendale Wine Company, West Glendale; L. Scherb, La Crescenta; Carl Moretto, San Fernando; B. Mora, Burbank; G. Gai, Glendale. Restaurants, B. Spilker, San Fernando road, Harry A. Webb, San Fernando road; C. B. Freeman, El Cino rancho; Mrs. C. A. Sowl, Glendale; Pacific Electric Railway Company, Alpine Tavern; Ed Halbriter, Cahuenga Pass, Druggist, W. A. Lovering, Burbank.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

TRUSTEES' ACT CALLED FRAUD.

MRS. HUPP OF HOLINESS BAND FILES COMPLAINT.

Asks Court to Restrain Her Fellow-Directors from Appropriating Ten Thousand Apiece "for Lord's Service"—Singular Resolution Part of Legal Papers.

Mrs. R. A. Hupp, who last Monday refused to accept $10,000 to be used by her as the Lord might direct, yesterday filed a complaint in the office of the County Clerk asking an injunction to restrain her fellow-directors in the Los Angeles Holiness Band from carrying out their strange plan.

The complaint states that at a meeting of the directors, called to consider what should be done with $100,000 which had come into their possession through the sale of some property bought at a small price many years ago, the following remarkable resolution was passed:

"Resolved, that we, the members of the Los Angeles Holiness Band set apart $10,000, gold coin of the United States, to each of the trustees of the Los Angeles Holiness Band, namely, Brother Normandy, Sister Hupp, Brother Hamilton, Brother C. H. Lane, Sister Potts, Sister Normandy and Sister Zumwalt, to be used by them as the Lord may direct in spreading His gospel and in benevolent purposes. Each of said trustees shall be responsible to his Heavenly Father for the use of said $10,000. In the event of the said trustees, or either of them, refusing to accept the said $10,000 to be used as before stated, the said $10,000 set apart for them shall remain in the general fund of the Los Angeles Holiness Band and become a part of the general fund of the said Los Angeles Holiness Band. The president of the Los Angeles Holiness Band of the trustees is hereby authorized by this resolution to draw a check on the funds of the Los Angeles Holiness Band for the said $10,000 for each of the said trustees who will accept said check to be used by them as our Heavenly Father may direct."

The resolution, moved by J. Hamilton, was passed by vote of the directors, constituting a majority of the entire membership of the once numerous band. "Sister Hupp," however, wished that any one handling any of the fund should be responsible not only to the Lord, but also to the corporation. The other brothers and sisters accepted the checks assigned to them. Mrs. Hupp then notified various banks in which F. E. Normandy as treasurer of the band, had deposited the money, not to honor the checks, and asked her son, George A. Hupp, an attorney, to prepare the application for injunction which yesterday was filed for hearing in the Superior Court.

"Their action in voting themselves $10,000," recites the complaint, "is a fraud upon said corporation, putting it beyond the power of the corporation to demand any accounting of the use to which the money is put."

The defendants named in the complaint are F. E. Normandy, Henrietta Normandy, R. A. Potts, James Hamilton, C. Lane and V. P. A. Zumwalt.

ADMITS SHE'S BURGLAR.

MRS. HENDRICKS SENTENCED.

"I never did wrong before I was married," declared Mrs. Sydney Hendricks, tearfully, in the criminal department of the Superior Court yesterday morning, after her plea for probation had been denied, and the severity of the sentence for the burglary to which she had confessed was being considered.

The arresting officers, who had found the young woman in a house of ill-fame, were in court to testify against her. Detective Hawley told of statements she had made in regard to her husband having placed her in the house where they found her, and directing her to steal the jewelry and clothing from the rooms of two waitresses, who had been friends of hers while she was a waitress and still unmarried. He had confronted her with the man she accused of driving her to infamy and crime, and what she said then had been taken by Hawley as a retraction of the charges she had made against him. The husband had been released, while the young woman was haled into court to be sentenced to State's prison.

At one point in the detective's recital the prisoner caught at his arm and cried out sharply: "No, no; that is not true." The detective paid no attention to her, but went on with his statement.

"I did not do all he told me to," cried the young prisoner, when the detective had finished. "He gave me some keys and wanted me to go through other rooms, and I carried two black eyes because I wouldn't do it."

Judge Smith spoke briefly and sternly, and sentenced the girl to two years in the State prison at San Quentin. She broke down then, and stumbled from the courtroom blindly, weeping.

TAYLOR CASE ENDED.

COURT CONSIDERING IT.

After four days of melodramatic testimony, the Taylor divorce case yesterday was taken under advisement by Judge James. Meanwhile both parents of the child, over whom the real fight has been waged, will have the privilege of having the child with them, alternately.

The action for divorce was brought by Furness Taylor against Florence Taylor, the latter having left her husband and gone to the home of her mother.

BUSY DIVORCE MILL.

TWO COUPLES SEPARATED.

Mrs. Louise Chandler yesterday was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from Henry S. Chandler on the ground of non-support. They were married in this city in 1904. Soon after the birth of their child the husband left, and returned only once, in 1906, when the baby was dying. The only money he gave Mrs. Chandler on that occasion, as she testified yesterday, was $5.

Genette A. Peake was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from Adoniram J. Peake on the ground of desertion and failure to provide. Mrs. Peake has supported herself and her two children by keeping a store in Azusa since her husband left her, two years ago.

DOTTER WILL CASE.

CONTESTANT TESTIFIES.

Mrs. Cornelia Carlson testified yesterday in the trial of the Dotter will case before Judge Rives. Her testimony conveyed the impression that the alleged favored daughter, Idella Dotter, had exercised a strong influence over Elizabeth Dotter, the mother.

"When I was alone in the room with mother, which was seldom," stated the witness, "she would talk to me freely, but when Idella was in the room mother would scarcely say a word.

"After they moved to Santa Monica it was several days before I could find where they were. I had received no notification of their intention to go anywhere.

"Whenever I visited mother after that, in Santa Monica, Idella was careful usually to remain in the room where we were, though she would not speak to me. Idella was very unpleasant whenever I went to visit mother. She never had a smile or word for me."

Further testimony by Mrs. Carlson related to the disappearance of a deed which Mrs. Dotter was said to have drawn in favor of her husband some months before his death. "Idella said it got burnt up with some other papers," declared the witness.

"Who had charge of selling the furniture stock?" was asked.

"George did," Mrs. Carlson answered.

It is claimed that George Dotter, the oldest of the four children, benefited largely by Mrs. Dotter's gifts, together with Idella, during the alleged decadence of Mrs. Dotter's mental faculties.

THE INFERIOR COURTS.

WITH TWO WIVES HE'S INNOCENT.

CHARGE OF BIGAMY DISMISSED IN POLICE COURT.

Herman Ammon Thinks First Helpmate Dead When He Secures Another—Alleged Murderer Bound Over to Higher Tribunal—Druggist Fined for Selling Liquor Without License.

Although Herman Ammon of No. 1723 West Thirty-eighth street has two wives, a charge of bigamy preferred against him by wife No. 1 was dismissed yesterday by Justice Chambers. Ammon was arrested on Saturday on complaint of his first wife, who had traveled from Chicago in order to prosecute her husband. She was the only witness called yesterday.

A marriage certificate, issued in 1887, to Ammon and his first wife was offered in evidence. Mrs. Ammon admitted that she had journeyed to Los Angeles for the purpose of causing her husband trouble; that she has known very little about him since he has been in Los Angeles; that she arrived here on Thursday and had not seen him until he was brought into court.

Mrs. Ammon No. 1 is a little woman who seems to have had plenty of trouble. She shows the marks of care on her face. She stared angrily at her husband as she passed him in the prisoner's dock, and continued to glare at him during intervals in her testimony.

Letters offered in evidence were from grown sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ammon. These letters stated that wife No. 1 was dead. Ammon says that he had believed his first wife was dead and that he was free to marry again.

To Be Tried for Murder.

Francisco Estrada, who is accused of the murder of José Garcia on March 18, was yesterday held to answer in the Superior Court on a charge of murder, without bail. Estrada's preliminary examination occupied all day. Deputy District-Attorney McCormick conducted the case for the people in Justice Rose's court. Testimony was introduced showing that Estrada had shot Garcia after the latter had started to run away from the scene of the quarrel. The shooting occurred on North Main street in the presence of many witnesses. A pistol, which Estrada is said to have purchased a short time before the killing, was admitted in evidence.

Drug Man Sentenced.

S. S. Rogers, proprietor of the Mission Drug Company, pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of selling liquor without a license. He was fined $50 by Justice Frederickson and paid the fine.

Alleged Parasites.

Fourteen men, who are said to live by the earnings of fallen women, were arraigned yesterday morning before Justice Frederickson and charged with vagrancy. Attorney Jud Rush has been retained to defend them. They will have a hearing on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. The men are out on bail. They will fight the charge against them, as word has been passed out that straight sentences will be imposed, without the alternative of a fine.

Negro and Knife.

Elijah H. Traylor, colored, was held to answer to the Superior Court yesterday on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. It is alleged that Traylor, during an altercation with George F. Harris of No. 1223 East Ninth street, cut the latter with a butcher knife. Harris was in court yesterday swathed in bandages. Both men are employed by the Hauser Packing Company.

Milk Sellers Fined.

H. Crew and V. Mostahinich, in Justice Chambers's court yesterday, were convicted of selling milk which is below the standard required by law. Each was fined $5. The arrests of the two men is in line with a rigid policy which is being followed by the authorities with regard to the enforcement of health ordinances.

TWO OPTIONS GIVEN.

Trouble Follows Alleged Double Real Estate Deal and Owner Is Arrested.

Charged with having sold the same parcels of land to different parties, M. A. Johnson, said to be the proprietor of a lodging-house on South Hill street, was arrested late Monday evening by Constable De La Monte and yesterday held in $1500 bail for examination by Justice A. L. Stephens in the Township Court.

According to the complainant, C. L. Byam, Johnson gave an option on lots Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 31 of block B of the city's lands at Humboldt street and Avenue 19, occupied by the big factory of the Southwestern Glass Manufacturing Company, to the Barr-Harrington Realty Company. This was on October 5 last. On November 12, 1906, Johnson is alleged to have given another option on the same property to Mrs. Carrie Champion.

Johnson could not be found last evening, but to an officer of the court he stated that the whole trouble is due to a mistake which could be easily explained in connection with the signing of certain papers and that this will be shown upon examination.

IS CRIMINALLY LIABLE.

Autoist Must Answer for the Death of Victim Fatally Injured by His Machine.

E. C. Stein of No. 258 East Twenty-ninth street must answer for the death of John B. Goyard, fatally injured by an automobile driven by Stein. A Coroner's jury has held Stein to be criminally liable for the death of the aged man. No warrant has yet been issued for the arrest of the chauffeur.

Stein's machine struck Goyard and knocked him to the pavement at the intersection of Main and Arcadia streets. This was on Tuesday, March 26. Immediately following the accident the passenger in Stein's machine jumped and escaped and his name has not been learned. Although witnesses of the accident called to the man he only ran the faster.

Goyard was taken to the Receiving Hospital in Stein's auto and was later removed to the French Hospital, where he died the following day. Stein was arrested at the time of the accident but was later released.

UNION LEAGUE ELECTS.

Sherman Pease New President of Popular Club and Miles Gregory Remains Its Secretary.

Sherman Pease was elected president and W. N. Hamaker vice-president of the Union League at the annual election of officers yesterday. For the third time, Miles S. Gregory was chosen as secretary and Thomas Hughes was reelected treasurer.

Under the efficient management of Secretary Gregory, the league has grown wonderfully; its monthly dinners have become a feature of downtown club life, and the handsome quarters on West Second street have grown so in popularity that more room is needed to accommodate the membership, which long ago reached the 600 limit. Many are on the waiting list of the club.

MINING COMPANY ELECTION.

The directorate of the Eagle-Ibex Mining Company elected as president George Furtsch; vice-president, Fred Baker; secretary and treasurer, Ralph M. Watson; general superintendent, J. V. Roby, Jr. This company now has its office in the Grant building.

SAN GABRIEL UNAVAILABLE.

City Cannot Obtain Water from That Source.

Farms Would Be Destroyed by Diverting It.

Scheme Shown Delusive in Engineers' Reports.

Ignorance of the hydrography of Southern California probably accounts for the recrudescence at this time of numerous impracticable schemes for augmenting the water supply of the city of Los Angeles from sources nearer to the city than Owens Valley. Many of the older residents probably have forgotten, if they ever noted, the efforts of the Water Board to discover available sources of supply and the conclusions reached, while newcomers are necessarily unacquainted with the subject and are easily deceived concerning the possibility of conserving the flood waters which they see flowing in all the arroyos and cañons this year.

The San Gabriel River has been a raging torrent this winter, and the idea of storing its flood waters seems plausible to those who do not know the character of the stream or have only superficial acquaintance with the general subject of water supply and irrigation in Southern California.

The impracticability of the proposed San Gabriel project is made plain in the report of hydraulic engineers Mulholland, Lippincott and Parker, who were requested by the Water Board in March, 1905, to investigate the whole subject of city water supply and to examine all available sources south of the Tehachepi Mountains. Following is the report:

FLOW OF THE SAN GABRIEL.

Like the Los Angeles River, the San Gabriel discharges from its mountain cañon near Azusa onto extensive gravel beds above El Monte. The San Gabriel has also a well-sustained summer flow at the mouth of its mountain cañon, which is diverted for agricultural purposes, along the foothills. Perhaps 33 per cent. of the water which is used for irrigating sinks into the ground to augment underground supplies, the remainder being lost by evaporation from the surface of the soil and in plant growth. As in the case of the Los Angeles River, the winter floods which are discharged from the mountain cañons are rapidly absorbed as they proceed on their way over the loose gravel beds which extend from the Azusa to El Monte. Probably two-thirds of the total annual discharge from the high mountains sinks into the gravel beds above El Monte. The ground waters thus formed move toward the lower narrows on a grade approximating the surface, the depth to water being greatest near the mountains.

The San Gabriel Valley is almost cibsed by a secondary range of foothills forming a narrows between El Monte and Whittier. The contraction of the valley interrupts the underground flow and checks it so that it appears as a surface stream of marked constancy much resembling the Los Angeles River.

There is focussed into these Narrows the underground waters and run-off from the following areas:

High mountain, including San Gabriel proper	222.60
Adjoining basins	98.80	320.80
Foothills		60.42
Valley		185.51
Total		566.73

The high mountains are mostly granite, covered with brush and in the high altitudes with timber. These higher districts are all included in the San Gabriel forest reserve. The foothill ranges consist of sedimentary rocks unoccupied and bare of forest cover. The valley formed by the deposits brought down from the mountains is highly developed agricultural land, occupied not alone by farmers but by many towns which are scattered throughout the territory.

The average discharge of the San Gabriel for the ten years from 1896 to 1905, inclusive, was 62.46 second feet, or 3173 miners' inches. The total stream flow from the entire mountain area was 91.71 second feet. Of the discharge from the mountain area of San Gabriel River an unknown portion will pass through the Narrows and be permanently lost during the flood discharges of wet years. This amount, however, is not believed to be very great during cycles of low precipitation because of the absorbent character of the gravel beds between Azusa and the Narrows, over which the flood waters must pass for a distance of about fifteen miles. For the purpose of an estimate it may be assumed that fully two-thirds of the stream flow from the mountains is regulated through the gravels and delivered at the Narrows. The average two-thirds of the total mountain run-off is 44,285 acre feet per year or 61.1 second feet.

IRRIGATION USES.

The total summer flow of the upper San Gabriel River at the mouth of the cañon is diverted by canals and used for irrigation purposes in the vicinity of Azusa and Covina. The land in the vicinity of El Monte, just above the Narrows, is largely planted to alfalfa, vegetables and walnuts, which require extensive irrigation. Water is pumped from 49 wells in this locality, and the estimated combined output is 3666 miners' inches, or 62 second feet, which is extracted during the irrigation season, or say, for one-half the year.

It is impossible to say what the volume of water is which may be extracted from this district, but it is large. This location is peculiarly favored both because of the large water supply annually delivered thereto, the great area of absorbent river gravels and the advantageous topographical features.

The drainage lines between the mouth of the mountain cañon and the Southern Pacific Railroad are dry during the summer season. The water begins appearing at the surface near the main line of the Southern Pacific Railroad and in the two storm channels of the San Gabriel River. One pumping plant located a mile north of the Southern Pacific Railroad has five cased wells sunk side by side twenty-five feet apart. From these five wells throughout the summer of 1884 there was pumped about 500 miner's inches. Numerous other wells occur in this district where from thirty to sixty miner's inches are pumped, as desired. South of the Southern Pacific Railroad the water rises to the surface and the land is so moist that drainage ditches have been built around many of the fields. Land can be bought on the north side of the railroad track in this water-bearing district for from $100 to $150 an acre. In the most favorable location for water development the cost is from three to four times that

It is impossible to say what the volume of water is which may be extracted from this district, but it is large. This location is peculiarly favored both because of the large water supply annually delivered thereto, the great area of absorbent river gravels and the advantageous topographical features.

The drainage lines between the mouth of the mountain cañon and the Southern Pacific Railroad are dry during the summer season. The water reaches appearing at the surface near the main line of the Southern Pacific Railroad and in the two storm channels of the San Gabriel River. One pumping plant located a mile north of the Southern Pacific Railroad has five cased wells sunk side by side twenty-five feet apart. From these five wells throughout the summer of 1906 there was pumped about 500 miners inches. Numerous other wells occur in this district where from thirty to sixty miner's inches are pumped, as desired. South of the Southern Pacific Railroad the water rises to the surface and the land is so moist that drainage ditches have been built around many of the fields. Land can be bought on the north side of the railroad track in this water-bearing district for from $100 to $150 an acre. In the most favorable location for water development the cost is from three to four times that amount. A serious objection to this source of supply is its low elevation.

LEGAL OBSTACLES.

The estimated output of pumping plants above the Narrows is 3096 miner's inches.

This pumped water is largely used for the irrigation of lands in the San Gabriel Valley intermittently during the irrigation season. To obtain an adequate domestic supply for Los Angeles from this source the city should buy large areas in this basin or compete with the owners of these pumping plants. It would be difficult to avoid litigation in any event.

It is doubtful if the courts would sustain the right of the city to extract this underground water in large quantities coupled with its conveyance outside the drainage basin. The California Supreme Court decision in the case of Katz vs. Walkenshaw states, "The common law rule that percolating water belongs unqualifiedly to the owner of the soil and that he has the right to extract and sell it is not applicable to the conditions existing in a large part of the State where artificial irrigation is essential to agriculture and artesian wells in percolating belts are necessarily used for that purpose." Under the decision in this case the rights of the land owners are paramount to those who subsequently take the water to distant localities. The subsequent appropriator may take any unused surplus.

RIPARIAN RIGHTS.

The ranchers in the territory in the lower San Gabriel Valley between the narrows and the cities of Whittier and Downey claim the riparian rights to all water flowing in the Narrows and divert the total summer flow of the river into numerous ditches and canals which convey the water to their orchards and alfalfa fields. Some of these diversions are over thirty years old.

The area irrigated from the lower San Gabriel Narrows is 17,523 acres.

The owners of these water rights would probably contest any large extraction and distant removal of water from the gravels above the points where the river rises, and have organized an association to oppose it. If the city attempted this diversion it would be placing itself in the position of those diverters of water in the San Fernando Valley whom she has so vigorously fought in the courts for the past ten years. It would be untenable for the city to blow both hot and cold on this question.

INJURY TO FRUIT GROWERS.

It has been estimated that in 1925 the cities of Los Angeles, Pasadena and Hollywood will require 59.7 second feet in addition to the amount obtained from the Los Angeles River and Arroyo Seco. To obtain this from the lower San Gabriel River many rights at the Narrows would have to be condemned, as the minimum surface supply available from this source is only slightly in excess of these future estimated requirements. This might mean that the combined area of 17,500 acres dependent upon irrigating water obtained from the river at the Narrows would have to be condemned or damages paid thereon. The present value of this improved land is from $400 an acre for alfalfa land to $600 and $700 an acre for orange and walnut groves, depending upon the size and condition of the trees. The value of this land at an average of $500 an acre, which is considered to be a fair estimate, is $8,750,000. In producing this injury to these suburban neighborhoods the city would engender bitter strife and destroy trade.

COST OF PROJECT.

In the following preliminary estimate the cost is considered of diverting the water at the San Gabriel Narrows at an elevation of 200 feet, carrying it in a gravity concrete conduit to a point southeast of Los Angeles at an elevation of 182 feet, where a pumping plant would be installed to raise the water to a reservoir at an elevation of 428 feet, which would command the distributing system in the lower two-thirds of the city. A concrete conduit is estimated upon to carry 60 second feet at a grade of three feet per mile, for a distance of six miles. Triple expansion engines and high duty pumps are considered, three units with a capacity equal to the total amount of water required to be pumped and one auxiliary reserve unit to be used in case of a breakdown of a main engine or pump, boilers of sufficient capacity to furnish steam for all four units, thus allowing one set of boilers to be held in reserve, are all included. The most economical size of pressure pipe from the pumping plant to a reservoir of an elevation to give sufficient pressure to the distributing pples of the city is fifty-four inches in diameter and the length of this line would be 2.9 miles. The estimate is approximate only, and is made for the purpose of comparison. Distances and elevations are taken from the topographical maps of the Geological Survey. The estimate including the condemnation of the lands mentioned above, is $10,000,000, and the cost of delivering a thousand gallons, including operation and maintenance, is 3.6 cents.

The policy of a great and prosperous city should be to foster and develop its tributary commercial districts if possible. It should avoid their injury as a last resort. Only by a clear proof of greater public necessity and as a last extreme could the city ever hope to be able to enforce such condemnation as would here be required.

NEW STAMPS COMING.

Watch for the Fine Jamestown Commemorative Series, Which Will Appear About May 1.

Three denominations of special stamps to commemorate the Jamestown Exposition are in the government postage presses now. They will be on sale from April 26 to November 30, but the act creating them provides that they shall not be sold before the first date or after the latter.

The new stamps will be rectangular in shape, 49-64 by 1 3-64 inches in size, and of 1-cent, 2-cent, and 5-cent denominations.

The 1-cent stamp will contain, in a semi-circular frame, the portrait of Capt. John Smith, taken from an old engraving. In the upper corners will be medallions in relief in oval frames of Pocahontas and Powhatan; in the lower corners shields with the numeral 1; upon a scroll surrounding the portrait and conforming to the semi-circle, the legend, "Founding of Jamestown, 1607:" on the base, Capt. Smith's name, with the years of his birth and death—1580-1631; in the semi-circle above the head, the words, United States of America; across the extreme top and bottom in white letters in black panels, the words, "Commemorative Series, 1907," and "Postage, One Cent."

This description shows the care and attention to detail which has been bestowed upon the series.

The feature of the next denomination will be a picture of the landing of the adventurers at Jamestown in 1607. On one side of this will be a tobacco plant, on the other, a stalk of Indian corn.

The 5-cent stamp will contain an oval frame portrait of Pocahontas.

This series of stamps will not be issued in book form, neither will there be any special issue of stamped envelopes, newspaper wrappers, postal cards, special delivery or due stamps.

Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

[INCORPORATED BY THE STATE OF NEW YORK. STOCK COMPANY]

JOHN R. HEGEMAN, President

ANOTHER VALUABLE CONCESSION

to Industrial policy-holders. The Company announces that every person insured in the Metropoltian under a Whole Life Industrial policy who is now 75 years of age or over IS RELIEVED OF FURTHER PAYMENT OF WEEKLY PREMIUMS, and a similar concession will be made to all persons now insured under Whole Life policies who will reach age 75 during 1907, as soon as they arrive at that age.

This concession takes effect as of January 1, 1907, and all premiums paid in advance of that date on any policy such AS WE REFER TO WILL BE RETURNED TO THE POLICY-HOLDER. This action of the Company in granting is without precedent in the insurance business, and we believe the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company is the only Company that has granted such a concession. This will cost in increase of reserve and in remission of premiums this year.

OVER ONE MILLION DOLLARS

To appreciate the generous treatment accorded to its policy-holders by the Metropolitan Life, it must be remembered that already during THIS YEAR it has announced and is paying OVER TWO MILLIONS OF DOLLARS in voluntary contributions to Industrial policy-holders, over and above all obligations expressed or implied in their policies, by a cash dividend upon all Whole Life Industrial policies over five years old, by mortuary dividends (that is, voluntary additions to the face of the policies when they become claims) applicable to all death claims incurred during the year where policies at the date of death have been in force over five years, and by paying as endowments Whole Life policies on which premiums have been paid for 15 years when insured reaches age 80.

This makes a total of OVER THREE MILLIONS THIS YEAR allowed to Industrial policy-holders, over and above the contract obligations, and OVER THIRTEEN MILLIONS during the past twelve years.

If this announcement of a free policy affects any reader of this advertisement, and if his case has not yet been attended to, we ask him to speak to the agent who collects his premiums and the agent will attend to forwarding the policy to the Home Office, TO BE EXCHANGED, WITHOUT EXPENSE, FOR A FREE POLICY FOR THE FULL AMOUNT CALLED FOR BY THE POLICY SURRENDERED.

INCREASE IN BENEFITS

New Tables with large increases of benefits in Industrial policies have been adopted. The payment of premiums on all new Industrial Life policies will cease at age 75. Reductions have been made in the premiums charged for most of the forms of Ordinary policies.

Pen Points

Hearst was too nasty even for Chicago.

It appears that Mayor Dunne has been done to a turn.

Chicago has voted, and Hearst is again outside of the mudworks.

The smell of the battle has cleared away and Chicago rises victorious from the muck.

The returns indicate that Chicago has elected a Republican Mayor on a Democratic platform.

There are a great many red mouths that are not doing any shouting in Chicago this morning.

There is a suspicion that Oklahoma merely passed a lot of bylaws instead of framing a constitution.

If Chicago and San Francisco can reform there is no longer an excuse for Pittsburgh to hold out.

Dunne was afraid that Bryan would hoodoo him, but he couldn't have done any more than Hearst has done.

Dunne will lay it to Roosevelt. The President never hesitates to butt in where it will do the most good.

The cause of municipal ownership must have the crawfish beaten a good many laps backward by this time.

New York has a Rainy Day Club. If it moved to Portland or Seattle it could hold meetings all the time.

In the light of subsequent events it seems that Russell Sage put all his good intentions in his wife's name.

There is a railroad in Pennsylvania that has never killed a passenger. It opened for traffic about two weeks ago.

Perhaps union labor showed what it could do in San Francisco just in time to warn Chicago from doing likewise.

Having invented so many really useful things, perhaps Edison should be forgiven for inventing the phonograph.

Times have surely changed. Even the small boy now wears good clothes on week days and makes no kick about it.

The open switch is always a possibility. What somebody should do is to invent a way to abolish switches altogether.

We notice that the eastern baseball schedule wisely reserves the right to call off games on days when there are snowstorms.

The English language is elastic; but when speaking of actors of rank it must not be thought that the reference is to rank actors.

What California now desires to emphasize is the fact that a man may be a native son and still fall far short of being a favorite son.

People who come home late from automobile parties should not insist on making loud noises. The noise that the automobile makes is enough.

The fact that a man's hair turns gray five years sooner than a woman's explains the situation about as well as anything else that we can call to mind.

A Texas man has predicted the end of the world for August. In certain parts of Texas the inhabitants will probably welcome anything about that time of year.

George Fred Williams of Massachusetts says nothing can prevent the election of Bryan in 1908. It will all depend on what office Bryan wants to be elected to.

Booker Washington makes the claim that there is not a graduate of Tuskegee in jail. There is no other college, white, black, red or yellow that can say as much.

Mrs. Leslie Carter's leading man has resigned. A man can stand having red hair stuffed in his mouth and putting his neck up for a strangle hold just so long and no longer.

The faces of the people of London are changing, being now described as "peevish and jumpy." It is perhaps unnecessary to say that the get-rich-quick epidemic has struck London.

Twelve thousand immigrants arrived at the port of New York in one day recently. The American is being pushed west. It will soon be that English will be the least spoken of any language on the other side of the Alleghenies.

We trust that the description of Gov. Hughes as "a quiet, cold man" is incorrect. That kind of a man could never stand a ghost of a chance to be elected President of the United States after the country has had Theodore Roosevelt. Besides, Mr. Fairbanks has a corner on the cold business.

TRUE AND FALSE REFORMERS.

Reformation has been the principal business in life of human kind since the day that Cain killed his brother Abel, or since the simian germ dropped his caudal appendage and raised his brow of manhood to the heavenly sun.

This age-long task of reform is as new this morning as it was at any time since the human spirit conceived the radical difference between right and wrong. At every moment of his life every individual's path leads either to rectitude and peace or a life of unrighteousness and contention. Each age is but the aggregation in its elements of the lives of the different individuals of each age in the elements of their lives. The racial reformation is only the aggregate of individual reformation.

Every reformation must be individual to reform at all. The work must begin on the inside, in the heart and mind and soul of each person before that person can do any work of value on the outside world in teaching reforms to his fellow-men.

We need not go back to the past. There is no necessity of calling up historical personages. We may even leave out of consideration the one perfect man who ever trod this earth and who because He had wrought perfect reformation in His own heart therefore became the most potent reformer of all the ages. Because His life was sinless and yet devoted to the reformation of His fellow-men, even to the extent of sacrificing His life for them, therefore His reformation is deathless. His spirit is more powerful in the world nineteen hundred years after He was put to death than the day after He was buried.

We have a distinguished exemplar of the reformer in the person of the President of the United States. His efforts at reformation are effective and will be as lasting as this country shall be, because he is in earnest. Roosevelt wrought reforms in his own character before he undertook to reform his neighbors and countrymen. He learned to eschew the tortuous paths of the subservient politician and sought to establish righteousness in all branches of government with which he was connected before he thought of raising an index finger to point the way to his fellow-politicians.

Now in contrast to the true reformer the world has never been without the imitators, the false prophets. Of all the nations upon the earth today, the one needing reformation most is "holy Russia." The very abomination of corruption reigns unrestrained in all the ramifications of the government of Russia, from the Czar to the policeman in the smallest Russian village. This corruption is not only political. It is social and moral as well. There are undoubtedly patriotic hearts beating in anguish all over Russia, struggling, praying, hoping, for an amelioration of conditions in government, in business, in social life and in the commonest humanities.

The hopelessness of Russia's predicament appears as we consider the character of her leading reformers. The most despicable of the list is Maxim Gorky. The man is not only unfit to be a leader in the work of reformation, he is unfit to be tolerated as the furthest follower in the line of march of the men engaged in any effort at reformation. The man's private life reeks. Just a step above him, or perhaps side by side with him, is Father Gapon. There may at one time have been some germ of earnestness in the mind of this fantastic priest. If there ever was, it fled from his breast long years ago. To be conspicuous rather than to be beneficial was probably the inspiring sentiment in this priest's soul. When the earnest but ignorant and helpless mob, whose minds he had fired with seditious speeches, rose to shake off the shackles which bound them, at the crack of Cossack rifles and the slash of Cossack swords which caused the streets of Russian cities to run with the blood of their victims, this reformer, instead of being found in the midst of his disciples, with the cross upon his shoulder and ready to be crucified upon it, was far away in safety, living in luxury among the beautiful hills of Switzerland.

Then we have Count Leo Tolstoi. Here is a man free from the personal corruption of life which marks Gorky, but for all reformation purposes a man no more effective than either of the other two. The trouble with Tolstoi is that he is a mere sentimentalist. There is nothing in his heart or mind or soul but mere pretense. The same love for the spectacular which was the moving cause in Gapon's work is at the bottom of Tolstoi's efforts. More conservative than the priest, more timid than the debauched Gorky, a mere literary dilettante, Tolstoi manages to keep within the uncertain limits of Russia's ever-variable laws and out of the hands of the Russian police. He lives in the midst of corruption and injustice over which he sheds crocodile tears, safe from molestation because known to be utterly harmless.

GREAT DEMAND FOR MONEY.

In less than ninety days of the current year, there have been floated on the New York market industrial bonds amounting to almost $300,000,000. Eliminating $29,000,000, which was taken in Paris on behalf of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, it leaves in round numbers $260,000,000 subscribed in the home market. The whole of this sum of money was not taken by American capitalists. Considerable foreign money went to make up the whole.

This money all went into short-time bonds. Most of them run only three years, a few only two, and none of them longer than ten. They were taken in sums ranging from $2,000,000 up to $60,000,000.

There were twenty-seven transactions in these sales of eighty days. In twenty-three instances the rate of interest was 5 per cent., in two instances 6 per cent., in two 4, and in one 4½. In the case of the loan to the New Haven railroad, made in France, the rate was 4 per cent., but by the time the French government scales off its taxes, it will cost almost 4½.

In London the discount rate of the Bank of England remains the same as that fixed several weeks ago, 5 per cent. The rate in the German bank has been raised recently to 7 per cent. Paris is the cheapest money market in the world. It has been but little affected by the high rates of discount ruling in London and Berlin, but even in Paris the general stringency in money circles has caused the Bank of France very recently to advance the discount rate to 3½, a rise of ½ of 1 per cent. The notable thing about this is that it is the first change made in seven years. On May 24, 1900, the rate was reduced from 3½ per cent. to 3 per cent., on February 1 of that same year the rate having been raised from 2 to 3½. The usual rate in Paris has been 2 to 2½.

In our own market there is no perceptible change in interest rates. The notable thing is the small number of mortgages going on record and the small aggregate amount of money loaned day by day. One of the largest loans made during the recent weeks went on record Monday of this week. It was for $100,000 on central business property. The loan was made for three years and the rate of interest was 9 per cent. gross, or 6 per cent. net. The loan was made by a San Francisco savings bank. A year ago today that money could have been had from the same institution at 4½ per cent.

THE CLAIMS OF UNORGANIZED WORKERS.

There is only one way to maintain industrial peace. Labor and money, employer and employé, are partners in the industrial world. Each is necessary to the other, and the best understanding should exist between them. Each should recognize the rights of the other, and each should strive for the interests of the other. Employés should render their best service at all times, and give it without stint. Employers should take willing cognizance of faithful service loyally given and reward it becomingly.

It is just as great a mistake for an employer to ignore the interests of his employés, to try to get the most and best out of them for the least wages, reluctantly paid, as for the employés to wrest from their employers the highest wages and to give in return the least services. A just and reasonable course would not eliminate strikes, for men are unreasonable at times, but it would undoubtedly lessen the number of strikes, if employers always gave due consideration to the rights and interests of the men.

While under labor union unreason and injustice the troubles which lead to strikes are usually created, there are times when employers do not take due cognizance of faithful services loyally performed. The railroad industry furnishes a case in point. Well managed railroads have many less strikes than those where the complaints of the men are neither forestalled nor even given proper consideration when they come up. With faults enough to lay to its account in times past, it is an interesting fact that our own Southern Pacific railroad has generally given much consideration to the interests of its employés that there never has been a serious strike on the system, with the exception of the sympathetic strike in the Debs rebellion.

There is a great class of railroad employés who are typical of willing, loyal, efficient workmen, who set an excellent example to all employés. They are the very antithesis of the followers of walking delegates and of Belial, whose voice is always for war. Whoever heard of a strike among railroad clerks? They work as long hours as any other large body of toilers. They work beyond regular hours, and they work almost every Sunday in the year. Pay for overtime is unknown among them.

These are selected as an illustration not because they are singular in the industrial world. There are other large bodies of faithful workers whose hours never close until the last stroke of work is done. They are uncomplaining, steady, willing workers, whose fealty to their employers is worthy of all praise.

There should be grateful and appreciative recognition given to such men. It is only asking for simple justice to claim for such workmen as these the consideration they deserve. Among them merit only counts. There is no union boss to set the pace of the slowest as the pace of the whole body. There is no walking delegate to clamor that the laziest and most careless be paid the same wages as the most industrious and efficient. The employers do not entirely lose sight of these. Promotions are made, with advance in pay, on merit.

Whereas a horizontal rise in wages all through the industrial world has been given to all the various organizations of labor unions, in many instances no such general advance has been given to these quiet, loyal, unorganized men. The cost of living has risen greatly, so that about a 25 per cent. increase in wages and salaries would only put these men on the same level they occupied ten years ago. Their case should have prompt and grateful consideration.

FAKE WATER PROJECTS.

In the annual report of the Board of Water Commissioners of Los Angeles, dated November 30, 1904, appeared this paragraph, which is as pertinent today as it was at that time.

"The many recent communications to the press offering suggestions and advice about the water supply, while undoubtedly well meant, are manifestly the contributions of people who are wholly unfamiliar with the hydrography of this part of the State. For instance, the advice so frequently tendered to go to the mountains implies lack of knowledge of the fact so well known to all old residents that every mountain stream of the slightest importance within a radius of a hundred miles of this city has been appropriated long ago and that as the drouth is prolonged those streams are among the first to dry up, compelling the ranchers who have rights in them to resort to pumping from the detritus of the valleys to keep their orchards from perishing."

Engineers of the Water Board, geologists and hydrographers of the United States Geological Survey, hydraulic engineers employed by water and power companies and experts generally have made exhaustive investigations of all possible sources of water supply in this region and found none of them adequate to the needs of the city. Experts have examined and turned down the Tejunga scheme, San Gabriel River, plans for pumping the underground waters of the coastal plain, Santa Ana River, Triumfo and Malibu creeks, Mojave River and Kern River, and all have agreed that Owens River is the only available supply that meets the requirements of the city.

The conclusion of engineers especially commissioned to study and report on the water situation in 1905 was:

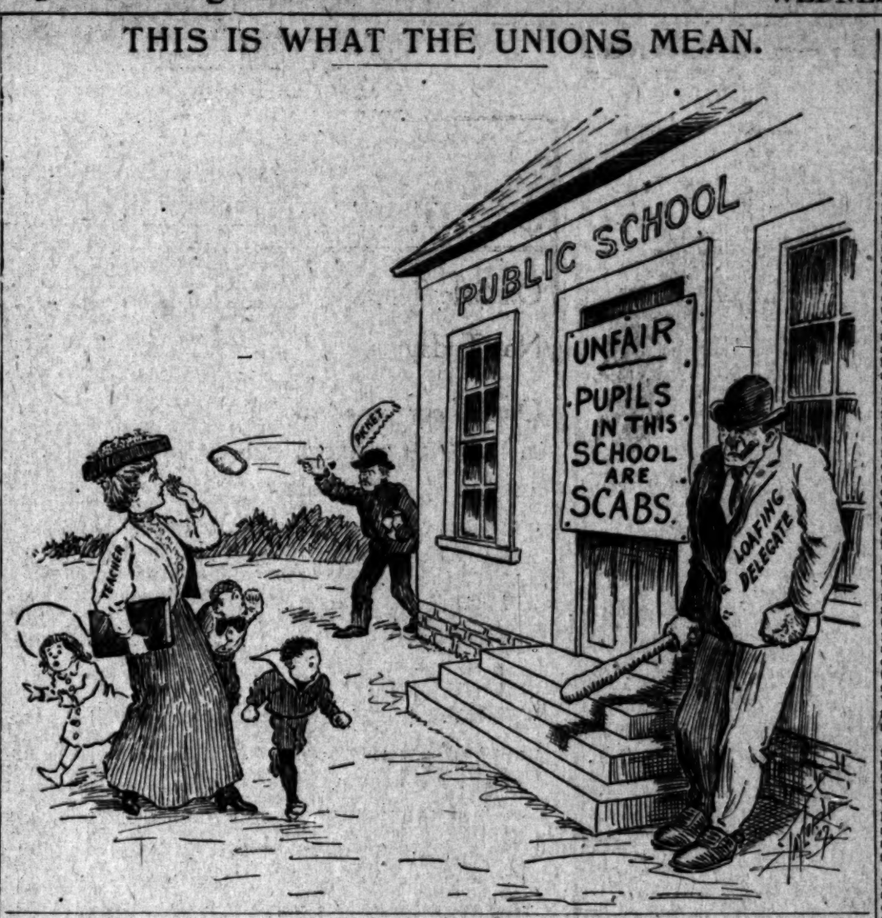
"That it would not be wise economy for the city of Los Angeles to endeavor to obtain its additional water from the gravel beds of Southern California, these underground waters are already overappropriated and failing. The city could not obtain additional water therefrom without the expensive condemnation of highly developed horticultural districts, including many towns and villages. This manifestly should be avoided except as a last resort. It is not feasible to obtain an adequate supply from any of the streams of Southern California to broadly solve the water problem confronting Los Angeles."

The only excuse for repeated presentation of impracticable schemes as substitutes for the Owens River project is ignorance of the results of expert investigation. The explanation of some attempts to revive these schemes is the civic treachery of persons who would sacrifice the city to their own selfish interests. The power corporations have threatened to discredit the city and prevent the sale of its bonds, unless the city will give them control of the power developed by the Owens River aqueduct, and they are instigating attacks upon the aqueduct project under the guise of promotion of substitute schemes.

After having had the goods found on him in "The Call of the Wild," it is now charged that Jack London also stole his story "Before Adam." Well, isn't the fellow a Socialist? And do not the Socialists contend that what belongs to one belongs to all?

This is the season of the year when a Vermont man living away from there thinks of maple sugar time and gets lonesome.

THIS IS WHAT THE UNIONS MEAN.



LOW WAGES AND HIGH PRICES IN FRANCE.

BY WALTER J. BALLARD.

When American workmen are told that they are getting very much higher wages than are paid for similar work in foreign countries, they frequently answer, "But living is so much cheaper over there." Such is not by any means the case.

The city of Nantes, France, is one of average prosperity in that country. Here are the wage rates as furnished to Consul Goldschmidt of that city, by the secretary of the Nantes Labor Exchange, and published in Daily Consular and Trade Reports, No. 2304:

	Per day of ten hours.
Blacksmiths	$1.10 to $1.45
Bookbinders	1.00 to 1.20
Carpenters, house work	.95 to 1.00
Desk laborers	1.15
Coopers	.90 to 1.00
Electricians	1.00 to 1.40
Factory laborers	.75 to .80
Lithographic printers	1.40 to 1.60
Locksmiths	.90 to 1.10
Machine tenders (labor saving)	.90 to 1.01
Masons and marble workers	.90 to 1.00
Molders	1.00 to 1.30
Paper-hangers (idle four months each year)	1.00
Painters	.90 to 1.00
Pattern-makers	1.10 to 1.30
Plumbers	1.00 to 1.30
Shoemakers	.70 to 1.00
Slaters and roofers	1.10 to 1.30
Tanners and curriers	.70 to 1.00
Typesetters	1.30 to 1.80
Wagonsmiths	1.20 to 1.60
Wheelwrights	.90 to 1.00
	Per week.
Bakers	$4.00 to $4.40
	Per month.
Draftsmen, industrial	$30 to $50
Engineers, stationary	28 to 32
Engineers, locomotive	36 to 60
Railway firemen	24 to 30
Trackmen	18 to 24

In nearly all these trades an apprenticeship without pay for two years must be served. Domestic labor brings from $15 to $30 (very rarely) a month. In the rural districts it is 25 to 40 per cent. less. Seamstresses, after two years without pay, get from 15 to 20 cents a day.

Here are the prices of foodstuffs in Nantes:

	Per one-half kilogram (1 1-16 lbs.) American cents.
Beef for soup	12 to 16
Sirloin	30
Veal	20 to 24
Pork	15 to 20
Horse meat for soup (the only cheap meat)	6
Lard	16
Butter	25 to 30
Sausage	24
Cheese, common	24
Coffee	35 to 50
Sugar	5½ to 9
Tea	60 to 80
Prunes, dried	25
Potatoes	1½
Rice	7 to 15
Salt	3 to 6
Eggs (dozen)	18 to 40
Poultry, each	60 to 84
Kerosene	6 to 8
Soap, common laundry	8
Coal, per ton	$10 to $15
Wood, per cord	$7.50 to $15

On most articles of food there is an "octroi"—that is, the municipality collects a tax on entering the city limits. Consequently country residents can live a little cheaper than city residents, plus long-distance car fares. But the mass (fully 95 per cent.) of the working people live within the city limits, much more so, in fact, than do the American working people. A working family pays $50 to $60 a year for a three-room apartment, without the usual American conveniences. Running water is not always found in the houses, and when found must be paid for by the tenant. In modern houses the cost of rooms is greater.

The average cost of clothing, says the Consul, is not far, if any, below American prices.

Many things are considered necessities to the workingman in the United States which would be luxuries to the workingman of France or of any other country in Europe. "Everything in the line of necessities for living in Europe comes high," says the well-posted Consul. "The only commodity that is really cheap here is labor."

In the face of these facts of wages and prices in France (which each man can compare with what he gets and what he pays) the American worker should thank his stars that he is living in a country where his labor is protected against the cheap labor of Europe.

PEOPLE OF THE COAST.

John Considine of Seattle has been made business manager of the San Carlo Opera Company.

John D. Mackenzie of San José has received the appointment of State Labor Commissioner to succeed W. V. Stafford. Mackenzie has previously served the State four years as Harbor Commissioner.

Judge Morrow of San Francisco of the United States Circuit Court, has sailed for Europe with his wife, where he will take treatment for sclerosis of the optic nerve, caused by hard work following the big fire.

J. C. Edward Noetzline, a prominent Paris banker, who is inspecting the Harriman lines on the Coast, is a horticulturist of no mean ability, and recently improved an opportunity to visit Mr. Burbank at Santa Rosa, whom he considers one of the State's great assets.

William R. Wheeler of San Francisco, who has been appointed the third civilian member of the Immigration Commission by the President, has taken a conspicuous interest in matters affecting industrial affairs of the Pacific Coast, and is an expert on traffic questions.

Miss Claire Seawell and her twin brother, Floyd Seawell, formerly of Santa Rosa, are to participate in a double wedding at their present home near Payette, Idaho, Wednesday, April 10. Miss Seawell will be united to a Mr. Clayton from North Carolina. Her brother, Floyd, is to marry a popular Santa Rosa girl, Miss Elsie Hicks.

HOROSCOPE FOR THIS DAY.

Wednesday, April 3, 1907.

"A day replete with trivial reactions."

The ninety-third day of the year. Moon is at the full; age 20 days. Jupiter is evening star. Venus is star of the morning.

This is a most contrary day, indicating troubles in domestic as well as business affairs. Vexatious and annoyances are the order of the day, and one will stand in great need of self-control. Surprises of a mortifying nature will come through letters.

Those whose birth date it is will find the day one of extreme anxiety and filled with unpleasant occurrences, which, though insignificant in import, will serve to harass and render them unfit to give proper attention to other business.

Those having been born in the afternoon should take no chances with their personal safety on this day. Danger threatens them.

Those born today will be very quick in anger, headstrong and furious and lacking in ability. It will be impossible to manage them and they will be heedless of advice. They will spend both money and vitality fast and foolishly. They will not meet with personal success in business, but will attain wealth and social position through fortunate marriage.

Contracts That Dwarf Panama.

At a time when the construction of the isthmian canal is engaging so much public interest, the magnitude of the undertaking is apt to overshadow in the popular mind—nationally, if not indeed locally—the importance of improvements in transportation facilities almost as great in conception and certainly more difficult in execution, which are now proceeding with very little proportion of advance advertisement and ostentation. A summary of the work now in progress in and about New York City alone is as follows:

Pennsylvania tunnels and terminals	$100,000,000
Hudson company's tunnels, subways and terminal	100,000,000
New York Central terminals and electrification	80,000,000
Battery tunnels and subway extension	5,000,000
N. Y. A. L. tunnels	4,000,000
Subway extension and pipe galleries, East Side	40,000,000
Subway extension and pipe galleries, West Side	50,000,000
Subway bridge loop	15,000,000
Manhattan bridge	20,000,000
Williamsburg bridge	15,000,000
Blackwell's Island bridge	15,000,000
Smaller bridges	1,000,000
Total	$440,000,000
New water supply	162,000,000
Grand total	$611,000,000
Estimated cost of Panama Canal	$120,000,000

The fact that all this extensive and important work is going on untainted by any breath of scandal in direction or execution, unheralded by any Presidential messages to Congress, little discussed by even the local press and unadvertised by its promoters, is striking by comparison with the amount of attention given to the national construction of an isthmian canal. The quiet and efficient construction of all these great improvements by public contract is an interesting commentary on the controversy aroused by the action of the government with reference to Panama contractors.—[E. J. Munby, in the Engineering Magazine for April.

As superintendent of the model department of the patent office in Washington Richard C. Gill has under his care more than 800,000 models. Until recently one who wished a patent had to send a small model of his invention. This collection has no special arrangement or system, but Mr. Gill can tell without looking at any of them when each was sent in, its special feature, and the name of the inventor.

Only Ninety Days.

LOS ANGELES, April 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In your issue of yesterday's issue you published the sentence imposed upon Martinez, and it has filled my soul with consternation. That a man guilty of ruining young girls and consigning them into the depths of misery and degradation, and given only ninety days in jail! Is that the value which California puts upon womanhood? Is it our Southland, a father or brother taking the punishment of such a revolting crime into his own hands, and sending a bullet through the offender and thereby, an unwritten law that the avenger is right and shall go unmolested, and a California judge mean that the man destroying a number of girls and who needs no greater punishment than ninety days in jail, and after that he may be released to continue his infamous ways. Even this trivial punishment the criminal in this instance will escape, as his attorney has carried the case to a higher court. One can only shudder at the way the case will appear before the highest tribunal of all, where all crimes are laid bare, and every man receive reward or punishment for deeds done in the flesh.

Would Martinez have received heavier sentence if he had murdered the girls? His heinous crime is worse much worse than murder—the most atrocious under the sun. Better a thousand times to have the pure young thing sent by violence, but pure and spotless, to heaven, than to be dragged to such degradation. Rome thought the old Roman father, who slew with his own hand his innocent Virginia rather than have her fall into the possession of the tyrant, and we may every father always think!

Will the men of California be content with such ruling? Are they too busy going their several ways of making a living or accumulating riches to notice the danger to womanhood? Will the women of California sit silently by, knowing that such deeds are being done, and enter no protest and lift no voice or hand to save our girls?

God pity us all, and rouse us to a full sense of such atrocities and a sense of our individual duties to put down the crime and insist that these things shall not be.

The business requireth haste. Another story of awful wrong and crime came yesterday from Pasadena—two victims two young girls, scarcely out of childhood.

With the fairest land under the sun, oh, endeavor to make your men and women as fair in the sight of God, and have such sins punished, hunted down and wiped out forever.

IDOLIZE PRESIDENT'S WIFE.

Senora Zelaya Wins Devotion of Nicaraguan Army by Service at Head of Red Cross.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A. M.]

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Senora Zelaya, wife of President Zelaya of Nicaragua, has made herself the idol of the Nicaraguan army by her active service at the head of the Red Cross in recent battles between the Honduranans and Nicaraguans, according to James Deitrich, a mining engineer with interests in Honduras and Nicaragua, who called at the State Department today to discuss the Central American troubles.

"Senora Zelaya rode more than 12 miles on muleback to reach the scene of the military operations," said Deitrich, "and she personally assisted in caring for the sick and wounded of both the Honduran and Nicaraguan armies. Her popularity is now without precedent, and she is greeted as a second Florence Nightingale."

The retirement of Secretaries Shaw and Hitchcock from the Cabinet leaves only Secretary Wilson as a member of the original Cabinet when President Roosevelt took office. He is in the position of the silver plate on the umbrella presented to the little teacher who proudly exhibited the umbrella as a token of affection from her pupils, though it had had six new coverings, three new frames and five new sticks, the silver plate alone remaining of the original tribute.

Congregation Divided Concerning the Pastorate of Dr. Stephen A. Northrop Over the Large Church. Second Day of Bethlehem Hustle for $50,000.

It having become noised about that Dr. Stephen A. Northrop would resign the pastorate of the First Baptist Church of this city, that gentleman was asked about it yesterday.

"Well, I don't know," he said. "There is a splendid lot of people here who are loyal to me, and maybe two or three who are not—you know how it is.

"I'm in the midst of a sort of a storm center here, and I'm just trying to keep down anything like a disturbance. The church has practically been blacklisted by the community, but I knew nothing about this condition when I came here. In spite of this I have taken in 147 members during the year. I have been here, and thirty-two others are just waiting to see what happens. Two bands of members have gone out from this church at different times, before I came here, aggregating 200 members, and yet we now have a membership of 600. It is a splendid congregation, and I have no notion of resigning right away, but there is nothing I care to say. They are all good people here, but—well, you probably know the field."

Some years ago the officials of the church held a meeting and discussed the question of the suitability of Dr. Northrop to the field in which he is working. Every member is said to have spoken in the highest terms of Dr. Northrop as a man and a preacher, but a portion of them contended that he is not the man for this particular congregation. Finally a resolution was presented expressing it as the sentiment of the official board that he should tender his resignation to the congregation. This was adopted by a vote of seven to four, there being seven members of the board.

When presented to Dr. Northrop he asked that the matter be suspended for a time, and to this the board agreed, and there the matter rests.

President Freeman of the board of trustees said yesterday that he is one of those dissatisfied with the pastorate of Dr. Northrop, and that his resignation would probably be accepted within a few weeks.

Prof. Melville Dozier confirmed the statement that no one rail[illegible] the slightest question concerning the character of Dr. Northrop or the doctrine preached by him, but that seven of the official members feel that he does not fill the field.

It is a case analagous with that of Dr. Berry and the Highland Park Presbyterian Church. Some of the people didn't like the preacher, yet they had nothing against him.

The outcome will be watched with great interest, owing to the past history of the First Baptist Church, which had its first eruption when Rev. Joseph Smale refused to resign, when requested to do so by a strong minority of the membership. This resulted in a large number leaving the church and forming Temple Baptist Church, since grown great, and over which Dr. Robert J. Burdette is now the happy pastor.

Some time later Smale concluded to go and evolve a new independent church, formed after his own notions. Another batch of members left with him, and are now organized as the New Testament Church.

When Dr. Northrop left a flourishing church in Kansas City and accepted the pastorate made vacant by the resignation of Smale, all the woes of the First Baptist Church were supposed to have come to an end, but it is possible that when the resignation of Dr. Northrop is presented, a majority may vote against its acceptance, and then what?

BETHLEHEM FUND.

SECOND DAY'S CANVASS.

The second day of the campaign of Thos. W. Bartlett for raising a fund of $50,000 for the purchase of additional property and extending the work of Bethlehem Institution, of which he is superintendent, closed yesterday. The totals for the day show $1785, bringing the grand total up to $3487.50.

Mr. Bartlett states that the work of canvassing will be pushed with renewed vigor each day, and he expects to succeed in his undertaking, though money is not coming in large subscriptions.

The class of students in sociology, who have been putting in several strenuous weeks, under the direction of Mr. Bartlett, will wind up with a banquet at Bethlehem Institution, at Innes and Ducommun streets, tomorrow evening. It is expected that President Gates of Pomona, and President Keyser of Occidental, and a large number of the alumni from both institutions of learning, will be present.

MUSIC AND THE STAGE.

A mid-week musical offering will be a vesper organ recital at Christ Church this afternoon, at 4 o'clock, with Rounds Smith, organist of the First Congregational Church of Redlands, who will present an excellent programme.

Mrs. Carolyn von Benson, soprano, will be the assisting soloist.

The "Parsifal" production at the Auditorium this week will be followed next Monday night by Sardou's "Fedora," the only drama written by this playwrighman upon Russian life. "Fedora," unlike the rest of the Sardou dramas by Sardou, has a contemporary interest, as its plot is based upon today's political embroilments.

SUGAR MAGNATES ANSWER.

NEW YORK, April 2.—The answer of the American Sugar Refining Company and Henry O. Havemeyer and Wm. E. Parsons to the suit brought against them by George H. Earl, as receiver for the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company, to recover $30,000,000 for conspiracy under the anti-trust law, has been filed in the United States Circuit Court. The answer is a general denial to each and every charge made by the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company. After making a general denial the defendants allege that none of the acts mentioned in the complaints comes under the anti-trust law and even if this were true, they say, now barred by the statute of limitations. The complaint alleged that as a result of conspiracy on the part of the defendant the big plant of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company in Philadelphia although completed only three years ago has not been operated.

"A Little Wine for the Stomach's Sake"

With the advent of SPRING and its attendant lassitude, otherwise known as Spring fever, good wines—either claret or white—should be a part of the menu of every family.

Do you know that the microbe of typhoid fever is killed by pure wine in fifteen minutes, and cholera germs in five minutes? —that tuberculosis germs, which are vivid in water, are destroyed by a mixture of one-third wine to two-thirds water?

We are cranks on the subject of purity and quality—this applies in our WINE DEPARTMENT as well as our other lines. We are not the only people who sell pure goods, but when you buy wine here, you have the assurance that it is backed by our name and our reputation. We feel that you can safely trust yourselves in our hands. ASK FOR OUR WINE CATALOGUE.

Pen Points

Hearst was too nasty even for Chicago.

It appears that Mayor Dunne has been done to a turn.

Chicago has voted, and Hearst is again outside of the mudworks.

The smell of the battle has cleared away and Chicago rises victorious from the muck.

The returns indicate that Chicago has elected a Republican Mayor on a Democratic platform.

There are a great many red mouths that are not doing any shouting in Chicago this morning.

There is a suspicion that Oklahoma merely passed a lot of bylaws instead of framing a constitution.

If Chicago and San Francisco can reform there is no longer an excuse for Pittsburgh to hold out.

Dunne was afraid that Bryan would hoodoo him, but he couldn't have done any more than Hearst has done.

Dunne will lay it to Roosevelt. The President never hesitates to butt in where it will do the most good.

The cause of municipal ownership must have the crawfish beaten a good many laps backward by this time.

New York has a Rainy Day Club. If it moved to Portland or Seattle it could hold meetings all the time.

In the light of subsequent events it seems that Russell Sage put all his good intentions in his wife's name.

There is a railroad in Pennsylvania that has never killed a passenger. It opened for traffic about two weeks ago.

Perhaps union labor showed what it could do in San Francisco just in time to warn Chicago from doing likewise.

Having invented so many really useful things, perhaps Edison should be forgiven for inventing the phonograph.

Times have surely changed. Even the small boy now wears good clothes on week days and makes no kick about it.

The open switch is always a possibility. What somebody should do is to invent a way to abolish switches altogether.

We notice that the eastern baseball schedule wisely reserves the right to call off games on days when there are snowstorms.

The English language is elastic; but when speaking of actors of rank it must not be thought that the reference is to rank actors.

What California now desires to emphasize is the fact that a man may be a native son and still fall far short of being a favorite son.

People who come home late from automobile parties should not insist on making loud noises. The noise that the automobile makes is enough.

The fact that a man's hair turns gray five years sooner than a woman's explains the situation about as well as anything else that we can call to mind.

The first steel sleeping car has been built. No assurance is given, however, that it will be able to stay on the track when the rest of the train goes off.

A Texas man has predicted the end of the world for August. In certain parts of Texas the inhabitants will probably welcome anything about that time of year.

George Fred Williams of Massachusetts says nothing can prevent the election of Bryan in 1908. It will all depend on what office Bryan wants to be elected to.

Booker Washington makes the claim that there is not a graduate of Tuskegee in jail. There is no other college, white, black, red or yellow that can say as much.

Mrs. Leslie Carter's leading man has resigned. A man can stand having red hair stuffed in his mouth and putting his neck up for a strangle hold just so long and no longer.

The faces of the people of London are changing, being now described as "peevish and jumpy." It is perhaps unnecessary to say that the get-rich-quick epidemic has struck London.

Twelve thousand immigrants arrived at the port of New York in one day recently. The American is being pushed west. It will soon be that English will be the least spoken of any language on the other side of the Alleghenies.

We trust that the description of Gov. Hughes as "a quiet, cold man" is incorrect. That kind of a man could never stand a ghost of a chance to be elected President of the United States after the country has had Theodore Roosevelt. Besides, Mr. Fairbanks has a corner on the cold business.

TRUE AND FALSE REFORMERS.

Reformation has been the principal business in life of human kind since the day that Cain killed his brother Abel, or since the simian germ dropped his caudal appendage and raised his brow of manhood to the heavenly sun.

This age-long task of reform is as new this morning as it was at any time since the human spirit conceived the radical difference between right and wrong. At every moment of his life every individual's path leads either to rectitude and peace or a life of unrighteousness and contention. Each age is but the aggregation in its elements of the lives of the different individuals of each age in the elements of their lives. The racial reformation is only the aggregate of individual reformation.

Every reformation must be individual to reform at all. The work must begin on the inside, in the heart and mind and soul of each person before that person can do any work of value on the outside world in teaching reforms to his fellow-men.

We need not go back to the past. There is no necessity of calling up historical personages. We may even leave out of consideration the one perfect man who ever trod this earth and who because He had wrought perfect reformation in His own heart therefore became the most potent reformer of all the ages. Because His life was sinless and yet devoted to the reformation of His fellow-men, even to the extent of sacrificing His life for them, therefore His reformation is deathless. His spirit is more powerful in the world nineteen hundred years after He was put to death than the day after He was buried.

We have a distinguished exemplar of the reformer in the person of the President of the United States. His efforts at reformation are effective and will be as lasting as this country shall be, because he is in earnest. Roosevelt wrought reforms in his own character before he undertook to reform his neighbors and countrymen. He learned to eschew the tortuous paths of the subservient politician and sought to establish righteousness in all branches of government with which he was connected before he thought of raising an index finger to point the way to his fellow-politicians.

Now in contrast to the true reformer the world has never been without the imitators, the false prophets. Of all the nations upon the earth today, the one needing reformation most is "holy Russia." The very abomination of corruption reigns unrestrained in all the ramifications of the government of Russia, from the Czar to the policeman in the smallest Russian village. This corruption is not only political. It is social and moral as well. There are undoubtedly patriotic hearts beating in anguish all over Russia, struggling, praying, hoping, for an amelioration of conditions in government, in business, in social life and in the commonest humanities.

The hopelessness of Russia's predicament appears as we consider the character of her leading reformers. The most despicable of the list is Maxim Gorky. The man is not only unfit to be a leader in the work of reformation, he is unfit to be tolerated as the furthest follower in the line of march of the men engaged in any effort at reformation. The man's private life reeks. Just a step above him, or perhaps side by side with him, is Father Gapon. There may at one time have been some germ of earnestness in the mind of this fantastic priest. If there ever was, it fled from his breast long years ago. To be conspicuous rather than to be beneficial was probably the inspiring sentiment in this priest's soul. When the earnest but ignorant and helpless mob, whose minds he had fired with seditious speeches, rose to shake off the shackles which bound them, at the crack of Cossack rifles and the slash of Cossack swords which caused the streets of Russian cities to run with the blood of their victims, this reformer, instead of being found in the midst of his disciples, with the cross upon his shoulder and ready to be crucified upon it, was far away in safety, living in luxury among the beautiful hills of Switzerland.

Then we have Count Leo Tolstoi. Here is a man free from the personal corruption of life which marks Gorky, but for all reformation purposes a man no more effective than either of the other two. The trouble with Tolstoi is that he is a mere sentimentalist. There is nothing in his heart or mind or soul but mere pretense. The same love for the spectacular which was the moving cause in Gapon's work is at the bottom of Tolstoi's efforts. More conservative than the priest, more timid than the debauched Gorky, a mere literary dilettante, Tolstoi manages to keep within the uncertain limits of Russia's ever-variable laws and out of the hands of the Russian police. He lives in the midst of corruption and injustice over which he sheds crocodile tears, safe from molestation because known to be utterly harmless.

GREAT DEMAND FOR MONEY.

In less than ninety days of the current year, there have been floated on the New York market industrial bonds amounting to almost $300,000,000. Eliminating $29,000,000, which was taken in Paris on behalf of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, it leaves in round numbers $260,000,000 subscribed in the home market. The whole of this sum of money was not taken by American capitalists. Considerable foreign money went to make up the whole.

This money all went into short-time bonds. Most of them run only three years, a few only two, and none of them longer than ten. They were taken in sums ranging from $2,000,000 up to $60,000,000.

There were twenty-seven transactions in these sales of eighty days. In twenty-three instances the rate of interest was 5 per cent., in two instances 6 per cent., in two 4, and in one 4½. In the case of the loan to the New Haven railroad, made in France, the rate was 4 per cent., but by the time the French government scales off its taxes, it will cost almost 4½.

In London the discount rate of the Bank of England remains the same as that fixed several weeks ago, 5 per cent. The rate in the German bank has been raised recently to 7 per cent. Paris is the cheapest money market in the world. It has been but little affected by the high rates of discount ruling in London and Berlin, but even in Paris the general stringency in money circles has caused the Bank of France very recently to advance the discount rate to 3½, a rise of ½ of 1 per cent. The notable thing about this is that it is the first change made in seven years. On May 24, 1900, the rate was reduced from 3½ per cent. to 3 per cent., on February 1 of that same year the rate having been raised from 3 to 3½. The usual rate in Paris has been 2 to 2½.

In our own market there is no perceptible change in interest rates. The notable thing is the small number of mortgages going on record and the small aggregate amount of money loaned day by day. One of the largest loans made during the recent weeks went on record Monday of this week. It was for $100,000 on central business property. The loan was made for three years and the rate of interest was 9 per cent. gross, or 6 per cent. net. The loan was made by a San Francisco savings bank. A year ago today that money could have been had from the same institution at 4½ per cent.

THE CLAIMS OF UNORGANIZED WORKERS.

There is only one way to maintain industrial peace. Labor and money, employer and employé, are partners in the industrial world. Each is necessary to the other, and the best understanding should exist between them. Each should recognize the rights of the other, and each should strive for the interests of the other. Employes should render their best service at all times, and give it without stint. Employers should take willing cognizance of faithful service loyally given and reward it becomingly.

It is just as great a mistake for an employer to ignore the interests of his employés, to try to get the most and best out of them for the least wages, reluctantly paid, as for the employés to wrest from their employers the highest wages and to give in return the least services. A just and reasonable course would not eliminate strikes, for men are unreasonable at times, but it would undoubtedly lessen the number of strikes, if employers always gave due consideration to the rights and interests of the men.

While under labor union unreason and injustice the troubles which lead to strikes are usually created, there are times when employers do not take due cognizance of faithful services loyally performed. The railroad industry furnishes a case in point. Well managed railroads have many less strikes than those where the complaints of the men are neither forestalled nor even given proper consideration when they come up. With faults enough to lay to its account in times past, it is an interesting fact that our own Southern Pacific railroad has generally given such consideration to the interests of its employés that there never has been a serious strike on the system, with the exception of the sympathetic strike in the Debs rebellion.

There is a great class of railroad employés who are typical of willing, loyal, efficient workmen, who set an excellent example to all employés. They are the very antithesis of the followers of walking delegates and of Belial, whose voice is always for war. Whoever heard of a strike among railroad clerks? They work as long hours as any other large body of toilers. They work beyond regular hours, and they work almost every Sunday in the year. Pay for overtime is unknown among them.

These are selected as an illustration not because they are singular in the industrial world. There are other large bodies of faithful workers whose hours never close until the last stroke of work is done. They are uncomplaining, steady, willing workers, whose fealty to their employers is worthy of all praise.

There should be grateful and appreciative recognition given to such men. It is only asking for simple justice to claim for such workmen as these the consideration they deserve. Among them merit only counts. There is no union boss to set the pace of the slowest as the pace of the whole body. There is no walking delegate to clamor that the laziest and most careless be paid the same wages as the most industrious and efficient. The employers do not entirely lose sight of these. Promotions are made, with advance in pay, on merit.

Whereas a horizontal rise in wages all through the industrial world has been given to all the various organizations of labor unions, in many instances no such general advance has been given to these quiet, loyal, unorganized men. The cost of living has risen greatly, so that about a 25 per cent. increase in wages and salaries would only put these men on the same level they occupied ten years ago. Their case should have prompt and grateful consideration.

FAKE WATER PROJECTS.

In the annual report of the Board of Water Commissioners of Los Angeles, dated November 30, 1904, appeared this paragraph, which is as pertinent today as it was at that time.

"The many recent communications to the press offering suggestions and advice about the water supply, while undoubtedly well meant, are manifestly the contributions of people who are wholly unfamiliar with the hydrography of this part of the State. For instance, the advice so frequently tendered to go to the mountains implies lack of knowledge of the fact so well known to all old residents that every mountain stream of the slightest importance within a radius of a hundred miles of this city has been appropriated long ago and that as the drouth is prolonged those streams are among the first to dry up, compelling the ranchers who have rights in them to resort to pumping from the detritus of the valleys to keep their orchards from perishing."

Engineers of the Water Board, geologists and hydrographers of the United States Geological Survey, hydraulic engineers employed by water and power companies and experts generally have made exhaustive investigations of all possible sources of water supply in this region and found none of them adequate to the needs of the city. Experts have examined and turned down the Tejunga scheme, San Gabriel River, plans for pumping the underground waters of the coastal plain, Santa Ana River, Triumfo and Malibu creeks, Mojave River and Kern River, and all have agreed that Owens River is the only available supply that meets the requirements of the city.

The conclusion of engineers especially commissioned to study and report on the water situation in 1905 was:

"That it would not be wise economy for the city of Los Angeles to endeavor to obtain its additional water from the gravel beds of Southern California, these underground waters are already overappropriated and failing. The city could not obtain additional water therefrom without the expensive condemnation of highly developed horticultural districts, including many towns and villages. This manifestly should be avoided except as a last resort. It is not feasible to obtain an adequate supply from any of the streams of Southern California to broadly solve the water problem confronting Los Angeles."

The only excuse for repeated presentation of impracticable schemes as substitutes for the Owens River project is ignorance of the results of expert investigation. The explanation of some attempts to revive these schemes is the civic treachery of persons who would sacrifice the city to their own selfish interests. The power corporations have threatened to discredit the city and prevent the sale of its bonds, unless the city will give them control of the power developed by the Owens River aqueduct, and they are instigating attacks upon the aqueduct project under the guise of promotion of substitute schemes.

After having had the goods found on him in "The Call of the Wild," it is now charged that Jack London also stole his story "Before Adam." Well, isn't the fellow a Socialist? And do not the Socialists contend that what belongs to one belongs to all?

This is the season of the year when a Vermont man living away from there thinks of maple sugar time and gets lonesome.

THIS IS WHAT THE UNIONS MEAN.

BY WALTER J. BALLARD.

When American workmen are told that they are getting very much higher wages than are paid for similar work in foreign countries, they frequently answer, "But living is so much cheaper over there." Such is not by any means the case.

The city of Nantes, France, is one of average prosperity in that country. Here are the wage rates as furnished to Consul Goldschmidt of that city, by the secretary of the Nantes Labor Exchange, and published in Daily Consular and Trade Reports, No. 2304:

	Per day of ten hours.
Bookbinders	1.00 to 1.20
Carpenters, house work	.95 to 1.00
Dock laborers	1.10
Coopers	.80 to 1.00
Electricians	1.00 to 1.40
Factory laborers	.75 to .90
Lithographic printers	1.40 to 1.60
Locksmiths	.90 to 1.40
Machine tenders (labor saving)	.80 to 1.03
Masons and marble workers	.90 to 1.00
Molders	1.00 to 1.30
Paper-hangers (idle four months each year)	1.40
Painters	.80 to 1.00
Pattern-makers	1.10 to 1.20
Plasterers	1.00 to 1.20
Shoemakers	.70 to 1.00
Slaters and roofers	1.10 to 1.40
Tanners and curriers	.80 to 1.00
Typesetters	1.30 to 1.80
Wagonsmiths	.70 to 1.00
Wheelwrights	.80 to 1.00
	Per week.
Bakers	$5.00 to $6.40
	Per month.
Draftsmen, industrial	$30 to $40
Engineers, stationary	20 to 22
Engineers, locomotive	20 to 24
Railway firemen	24 to 24
Trackmen	18 to 24

In nearly all these trades an apprenticeship without pay for two years must be served. Domestic labor brings from $15 to $30 (very rarely) a month. In the rural districts it is 25 to 50 per cent. less. Seamstresses, after two years without pay, get from 15 to 20 cents a day.

Here are the prices of foodstuffs in Nantes:

	Per one-half kilogram (1 1-16 lbs.) American cents.
Strioln	30
Veal	26 to 34
Pork	15 to 20
Horse meat, for soup (the only cheap meat)	6
Lard	36
Sausage	24
Cheese, common	24
Sugar	1½ to 3
Tea	60 to 80
Prunes, dried	25
Potatoes	1½
Salt	2 to 4
Eggs (dozen)	16 to 20
Poultry, each	60 to 84
Kerosene	6 to 8
Soap, common laundry	20
Wood, per cord	$7.50 to $9

On most articles of food there is an octroi—that is, the municipality collects a tax on entering the city limits. Consequently country residents can live a little cheaper than city residents, plus long-distance car fares. But the mass (fully 95 per cent.) of the working people live within the city limits, much more so, in fact, than do the American working people. A working family pays $50 to $60 a year for a three-room apartment, without the usual American conveniences. Running water is not always found in the houses, and when found must be paid for by the tenant. In modern houses the cost of rooms is greater.

The average cost of clothing, says the Consul, is not far, if any, below American prices.

Many things are considered necessities to the workingman in the United States which would be luxuries to the workingman of France or of any other country in Europe. "Everything in the line of necessities for living in Europe comes high," says the well-posted Consul. "The only commodity that is really cheap here is labor."

In the face of these facts of wages and prices in France (which each man can compare with what he gets and what he pays) the American worker should thank his stars that he is living in a country where his labor is protected against the cheap labor of Europe.

PEOPLE OF THE COAST.

John Considine of Seattle has been made business manager of the San Carlo Opera Company.

John D. Mackenzie of San José has received the appointment of State Labor Commissioner to succeed W. V. Stafford. Mackenzie has previously served the State four years as Harbor Commissioner.

Judge Morrow of San Francisco of the United States Circuit Court, has sailed for Europe with his wife, where he will take treatment for sclerosis of the optic nerve, caused by hard work following the big fire.

J. C. Edward Noetzline, a prominent Paris banker, who is inspecting the Harriman lines on the Coast, is a horticulturist of no mean ability, and recently improved an opportunity to visit Mr. Burbank at Santa Rosa, whom he considers one of the State's great assets.

William R. Wheeler of San Francisco, who has been appointed the third civilian member of the Immigration Commission by the President, has taken a conspicuous interest in matters affecting industrial affairs of the Pacific Coast, and is an expert on traffic questions.

Miss Claire Seawell and her twin brother, Floyd Seawell, formerly of Santa Rosa, are to participate in a double wedding at their present home near Payette, Idaho, Wednesday, April 10. Miss Seawell will be united to a Mr. Clayton from North Carolina. Her brother, Floyd, is to marry a popular Santa Rosa girl, Miss Elsie Hicks.

HOROSCOPE FOR THIS DAY.

Wednesday, April 3, 1907.

"A day replete with trivial reactions."

The ninety-third day of the year. Moon is at the full; age 20 days. Jupiter is evening star. Venus is star of the morning.

This is a most contrary day, indicating troubles in domestic as well as business affairs. Vexations and annoyances are the order of the day, and one will stand in great need of self-control. Surprises of a mortifying nature will come through letters.

Those whose birth date it is will find the day one of extreme anxiety and filled with unpleasant occurrences, which, though insignificant in import, will serve to harass and render them unfit to give proper attention to other business.

Those having been born in the afternoon should take no chances with their personal safety on this day. Danger threatens them.

Those born today will be very quick in anger, headstrong and furious and lacking in ability. It will be impossible to manage them and they will be heedless of advice. They will spend both money and vitality fast and foolishly. They will not meet with personal success in business, but will attain wealth and social position through fortunate marriage.

Contracts That Dwarf Panama.

At a time when the construction of the isthmian canal is engaging so much public interest, the magnitude of the undertaking is apt to overshadow in the popular mind—nationally, if not indeed locally—the importance of improvements in transportation facilities almost as great in conception and certainly more difficult in execution, which are now proceeding with very little proportion of advance advertisement and ostentation. A summary of the work now in progress in and about New York City alone is as follows:

Pennsylvania tunnels and terminals	$100,000,000
Hudson company's tunnels, subways and terminal	100,000,000
New York Central terminals and electrification	80,000,000
Battery tunnels and subway extension	9,000,000
N. Y. A. & L. tunnels	4,000,000
Subway extension and pipe galleries, East Side	40,000,000
Subway extension and pipe galleries, West Side	60,000,000
Manhattan bridge	20,000,000
Williamsburg bridge	15,000,000
Blackwell's Island bridge	15,000,000
Smaller bridges	1,000,000
Total	$449,000,000
New water supply	162,000,000
Grand total	$611,000,000
Estimated cost of Panama Canal	$150,000,000

The fact that all this extensive and important work is going on untainted by any breath of scandal in direction or execution, unheralded by any Presidential messages to Congress, little discussed by even the local press and unadvertised by its promoters, is striking by comparison with the amount of attention given to the national construction of an isthmian canal. The quiet and efficient construction of all these great improvements by public contract is an interesting commentary on the controversy aroused by the action of the government with reference to Panama contractors—[E. J. Munby, in the Engineering Magazine for April.

As superintendent of the model department of the patent office in Washington Richard C. Gill has under his care more than 800,000 models. Until recently one who wished a patent had to send a small model of his invention. This collection has no special arrangement or system, but Mr. Gill can tell without looking at any of them when each was sent in, its special feature, and the name of the inventor.

Only Ninety Days.

LOS ANGELES, April 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In your issue of today's issue you published the sentence imposed upon Martinez, and it filled my soul with consternation. Think of a guilty of ruining young girls and consigning them into the depths of misery and degradation, and given ninety days in jail! Is that the value which California puts upon womanhood? Is our Southland, a father or brother taking the punishment of such a revolting crime into his own hands, and with a bullet through the offender and not an unwritten law that the act is right and shall go unmolested? Has a California judge mean that one guilty of destroying a number of girls and who needs no greater punishment than ninety days in jail, and after that may be released to continue his infamous ways. Even this trivial punishment the criminal in this instance will escape, as his attorney has carried the case to a higher court. One can only shudder at the way the case will appear before the highest tribunal of all, where all crimes are laid bare and every man receive reward or punishment for deeds done in the flesh.

Would Martinez have received a heavier sentence if he had murdered the girls? His heinous crime is worse much worse than murder—the most atrocious under the sun. Better a thousand times to have the young girls, young thing sent by violence, but pure and spotless, to heaven, than to be dragged to such degradation. I thought the old Roman father, who slew with his own hand his daughter Virginia rather than have her fall into the possession of the tyrant, and that may every father always think!

Will the men of California be content with such ruling? Are they too busy going their several ways of making a living or accumulating riches to notice the danger to womanhood? Will the women of California sit silently by, knowing that such deeds are being done, and enter no protest and lift no voice or hand to save our girls?

God pity us all, and rouse us to a full sense of such atrocities and a sense of our individual duties to put down the crime and insist that these things shall not be.

The business requireth haste. Another story of awful wrong and crime came yesterday from Pasadena—two victims two young girls, scarcely out of childhood.

With the fairest land under the sun, oh, endeavor to make your men and women as fair in the sight of God. Let have such sins punished, hunted down and wiped out forever.

A SOUTHERN WOMAN.

IDOLIZE PRESIDENT'S WIFE.

Senora Zelaya Wins Devotion of Nicaraguan Army by Service at Head of Red Cross.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Señora Zelaya, wife of President Zelaya of Nicaragua, has made herself the idol of the Nicaraguan army by her self-sacrificing service at the head of the Red Cross in recent battles between the Honduranans and Nicaraguans, according to James Deitrich, a mining engineer with interests in Honduras and Nicaragua, who called at the State Department today to discuss the Central American troubles.

"Señora Zelaya rode more than 100 miles on mulleback to reach the scene of the military operations," said Deitrich, "and she personally assisted in caring for the sick and wounded of both the Honduran and Nicaraguan armies. Her popularity is now without precedent, and she is greeted as a second Florence Nightingale."

The retirement of Secretaries Shaw and Hitchcock from the Cabinet leaves only Secretary Wilson as a member of the original Cabinet when President Roosevelt took office. He is in possession of the silver plate on the umbrella presented to the little teacher who proudly exhibited the umbrella as a token of affection from her pupils, though it had had six new covers, three new frames and five new sticks, the silver plate alone remaining of the original tribute.

Congregation Divided Concerning the Pastorate of Dr. Stephen A. Northrop Over the Large Church. Second Day of Bethlehem Hustle for $50,000.

It having become noised about that Dr. Stephen A. Northrop would resign the pastorate of the First Baptist Church of this city, that gentleman was asked about it yesterday.

"Well, I don't know," he said. "There is a splendid lot of people here who are loyal to me, and maybe two or three who are not—you know how it is.

"I'm in the midst of a sort of a storm center here, and I'm just trying to keep down anything like a disturbance. The church has practically been blacklisted by the community, but I knew nothing about this condition when I came here. In spite of this I have taken in 147 members during the year I have been here, and thirty-two others are just waiting to see what happens. Two bands of members have gone out from this church at different times, before I came here, aggregating 600 members, and yet we now have a membership of 600. It is a splendid congregatoon, and I have no notion of resigning right away, but there is nothing I care to say. They are all good people here, but—well, you probably know the field."

Some years ago the officials of the church held a meeting and discussed the question of the suitability of Dr. Northrop to the field in which he is working. Every member is said to have spoken in the highest terms of Dr. Northrop as a man and a preacher, but a portion of them contended that he is not the man for this particular congregation. Finally a resolution was presented expressing it as the sentiment of the official board that he should tender his resignation to the congregation. This was adopted by a vote of seven to four, there being seven members of the board.

When presented to Dr. Northrop he asked that the matter be suspended for a time, and to this the board agreed, and there the matter rests.

President Freeman of the board of trustees said yesterday that he is one of those dissatisfied with the pastorate of Dr. Northrop, and that his resignation would probably be accepted within a few weeks.

Prof. Melville Dozier confirmed the statement that no one ral the slightest question concerning the character of Dr. Northrop or the doctrine preached by him, but that seven of the official members feel that he does not suit the field.

It is a case analagous with that of Dr. Berry and the Highland Park Presbyterian Church. Some of the people didn't like the preacher, yet they had nothing against him.

The outcome will be watched with great interest, owing to the past history of the First Baptist Church, which had its first eruption when Rev. Joseph Smale refused to resign, when requested to do so by a strong minority of the membership. This resulted in a large number leaving the church and forming Temple Baptist Church, since grown great, and over which Dr. Robert J. Burdette is now the happy pastor.

Some time later Smale concluded to go and evolve a new independent church, formed after his own notions. Another batch of members left with him, and are now organized as the First Testament Church.

When Dr. Northrop left a flourishing church in Kansas City and accepted the pastorate made vacant by the resignation of Smale, all the woes of the First Baptist Church were supposed to have come to an end, but it is possible that when the resignation of Dr. Northrop is presented, a majority may vote against its acceptance, and then what?

BETHLEHEM FUND.

SECOND DAY'S CANVASS.

The second day of the campaign of Asa W. Bartlett for raising a fund of $50,000 for the purchase of additional property and extending the work of Bethlehem Institution, of which he is superintendent, closed yesterday. The totals for the day show $1785, bringing the grand total up to $3487.50.

Mr. Bartlett states that the work of canvassing will be pushed with renewed vigor each day, and he expects to succeed in his undertaking, though the money is not coming in large subscriptions.

The class of students in sociology who have been putting in several strenuous weeks, under the direction of Mr. Bartlett, will wind up with a banquet at Bethlehem Institution, at Barnes and Ducommun streets, tomorrow evening. It is expected that President Gates of Pomona, and President Keyser of Occidental, and a large number of the alumni from both institutions of learning, will be present.

MUSIC AND THE STAGE.

A mid-week musical offering will be given by the vesper organ recital at Christ Church this afternoon, at 4 o'clock. Edith Rounds Smith, organist of the First Congregational Church of Redlands, will present an excellent programme.

Mrs. Carolyn von Benzon, soprano, will be the assisting soloist.

The "Parsifal" production at the Auditorium this week will be followed next Monday night by Sardou's "Fedora," the only drama written by this dramatman upon Russian life. "Fedora," unlike the rest of the Sardodramas by Sardou, has a contemporary interest, as its plot is based upon today's political embroilments.

SUGAR MAGNATES ANSWER.

NEW YORK, April 2.—The answer of the American Sugar Refining Company and Henry O. Havemeyer and Elder E. Parsons to the suit brought against them by George H. Earl, as receiver for the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company, to recover $20,000,000, has been filed in the United States Circuit Court. The answer is a general denial to each and every charge made by the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company. After making a general denial the defendants allege that all of the acts mentioned in the complaints comes under the anti-trust law and even if this were true, they are now barred by the statute of limitations. The complaint alleged that as a result of conspiracy on the part of the defendant the big plant of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company in Philadelphia, although completed for three years ago has not been operated.

The Metropolitan of Bucharest will shortly issue a pastoral letter releasing the peasantry from the oaths they took on enrollment in the insurgent army. This is expected to assist in the work of pacification, many fanatics having sent word that they would not cease plundering until relieved from the oaths.

BOYS TO HAVE MORE PARKS.

New Playground in First Ward Is Beginning.

Will Give Freer Scope for Athletic Sports.

Elaborate Programme of the Park Board.

"Playgrounds are in, and prisons are out, of favor in Los Angeles today," said a member of the Playground Commission yesterday. The city officials have been making some pertinent calculations recently and have found how much more profitable playgrounds are than criminals, hence a new playground just granted to the commission by the City Council.

This new possession is in the First Ward, and consists of six and a quarter acres in the flats near the Downey avenue bridge and the Los Angeles River.

It is a cup-like depression with a green border for the playground proper. When this place has been finished and equipped with the $16,000 for which the commission is to petition the City Council a great shout will go up from the small boy of this city.

He will have a swimming pool where he may have races and a general good time in the water without fear of the stern arm of the law. No more will the prize boy of the settlement class be arrested for taking his teacher's advice about bathing. This ill-fated lad bathed in the only tub he had, one of nature's making, and a blue-coated cop pinched him.

A running track is another delight planned for the new pleasure spot. None of the playgrounds thus far have been large enough for a proper running event, and a cinder track will be welcomed by the boys all over the city. This ground is officially named No. 6. There are really nine owned by the city now, but three are in connection with the public schools and are not called by number.

IT IS GROWING LARGE.

The playground movement is assuming large proportions in Los Angeles. Playground No. 1, at Violet street near Mateo, has now the first recreation hall for playground purposes in the city. This hall is a pretty little bungalow planned by Sumner P. Hunt, unique in its arrangement and designed for a branch public library, with book shelves arranged in artistic fashion, and a hall for social diversions, for shelter in rainy weather and for lectures, stereopticon entertainments and amateur theatricals.

This little bungalow has the distinction of being the first public library building owned by the city. It needs no prophet to predict that it will be the most appreciated of any library in Los Angeles. The children in this neighborhood have not been surfeited with books and other delights of present-day childhood. They have not the car fare to take them to the central station, and the library here, which has for some time been carried on in a little shed, out of its limited supply has loaned as many as ninety-nine books in a single day.

The new recreation building will be formally opened with joyful exercises a week from next Saturday afternoon, when the Mayor will make a short talk, and a match game of baseball will take place for the entertainment of the public.

AT ECHO PARK.

The new playground at Echo Park will be thrown open to the children in May. The commission has been waiting for some time for the grading and draining of this piece of land. It consists of four acres in the Second Ward, and is a part of the southerly extension of Echo Park from Bellevue avenue to Temple street. It is to be a combined park and playground. Fernand Parmentier, one of the new Playground Commissioners, has undertaken the arrangement of this spot, and it is to present a diversified landscape appearance with trees and shrubs which will not interfere with play.

Two necessary buildings, with shower baths and other conveniences, for boys and girls have been erected, and the place will be ready by the middle of May.

Another plan of the Playground Commission has to do with Playground No. 3. This is located in the densely-populated section of the Eighth Ward, at the corner of Holly and St. John streets, 120x200 feet in area. The purchase price of this piece of ground is to be paid by installments amounting to $6943.90. The Cudahy Packing Company and the Maier-Zobelein Brewing Company contributed $1000 of this amount.

Owing to the lack of public funds, the commission hopes to interest private individuals in making a splendid recreation center in the midst of the factories and foundries. They are planning for out-door apparatus for the children, and a large building with gymnasiums, baths, reading-rooms, game-rooms and lecture hall for adults, modeled after the large recreation centers of Boston, Chicago and New York.

MUCH IN THIS ONE.

Baseball and tennis and school gardens are in vogue at the Solano-avenue playground, No. 4. Here Charles B. Raitt, playground superintendent, who has a genius for his unique profession, and Mr. Thurston, teacher of the special truancy school at Solano avenue, are to organize a self-government club among the lads of the neighborhood.

Playground No. 5 is in the Ninth Ward, and has not yet been developed.

The Playground Commission is preparing to ask a large appropriation from the city for the coming year to develop this great work in Los Angeles. Superintendent Raitt, the resident at Violet street, has put the work here on a much cheaper basis than the playground activities in other cities. All apparatus is planned by him and made under his supervision by local carpenters and other workers. All estimates for piping and other equipment are also made by him.

Early in June Mr. Raitt will attend the first convention of playground commissioners. This will be held for the purpose of studying the wonderful recreation centers that have sprung up in the East. President Roosevelt is honorary president of this commission.

REAL ESTATE RECORD.

ANOTHER MODERN BUSINESS BLOCK.

BIG BUILDING TO BE ERECTED ON EIGHTH STREET.

Will Occupy Entire Frontage Between Spring and Broadway—Recently Incorporated Leasehold Company to Improve Its Valuable Holdings.

If present plans are carried out the land fronting on Broadway, Spring and Eighth streets, being the southeast corner of Broadway and Eighth, and the southwest corner of Spring and Eighth, soon will be occupied with either a six or eight-story, class A fireproof building of the latest type, which will cost between $100,000 and $200,000 completed.

The Leasehold Company, recently incorporated, with Lester Robinson as president, Robert D. Wade secretary, and Robert N. Bulla, treasurer, is the name of the company which is promoting the affair, the company having obtained a fifty-year lease on the property, which has a frontage of 60 feet on the two thoroughfares and about 320 feet on Eighth street. The plans are definite, in so far as the building of the structure in the near future is concerned, although the style and size of the building will depend entirely upon the tenant secured.

Associated in the company are such well-known business men and financiers as Carl Leonardt, P. W. Powers, Thomas and Grant Hughes, Harry Jackins, Arthur Kinney, M. A. Gould, and Fred Barman. The matter of the building is in the hands of a Building Committee composed of Carl Leonardt, P. W. Powers, Grant Hughes, Lester Robinson and Fred Barman.

M. B. Merwin & Co., and Robert Marsh & Co. have purchased of Frank L. Forrester for a syndicate of local buyers, a lot at No. 936 South Broadway, 50x90 feet, for $115,000. The property is located on the east side of Broadway about 400 feet south of Ninth street. The property is practically vacant, there being only an old cottage on the premises. This price figures at the rate of $2300 a front foot.

Purchase Olive Street Frontage.

The property on the east side of Olive street, about midway between Seventh and Eighth streets, lot 50x165 feet, is reported to have been sold by Jessie M. Jones to William Wright and associates, for $35,000. The property is in th esame block as the site of the new $350,000 Y.M.C.A. building, now in course of construction on Olive street. Property on Grand avenue in the same block has sold for sums figuring at the rate of $1150 to $1300 a front foot. This property was purchased at $700 a front foot. The deal was made through the agency of the Wright & Callender Company.

—o—

Sells Fine Residences.

Charles G. Andrews has sold to Shirley Ward the property at No. 2130 West Twenty-first street, consisting of a lot having a frontage of 75 feet and a depth of 150 feet, improved with a two-story twelve-room modern house. The reported consideration is $18,500. The sale was made by Mines & Farish.

—o—

Another on Olive Street.

R. A. Fowler has sold to a local investor the property at No. 221 South Olive street, lot 60x165 feet, for the reported consideration of $26,500. The property is on the west side of Olive street, about 300 feet south of Second street. The rate per front foot is $442. The lot is improved with a two-story ten-room house. The deal was engineered by Evans, Morse & Co.

—o—

Other Recent Sales.

Will C. Prather & Co. report the following sales:

For John Leenhouts to Phil H. Bracht, nine-room modern house at No. 376 Bonnie Brae street, lot 50x150, completely furnished, consideration $12,000; a 6-room cottage at No. 1234 West Forty-first street, price $4500. For John D. Wyman to J. M. Crenshaw, lot 50x140 feet, on West Forty-first street; consideration $1000; for A. Lane to A. W. Wright, eight-room house, at No. 3642 South Flower street, price $5000. Through Leo J. Maguire, two lots in block 28 and two lots in block 29 of the Vermont Avenue Square, from the Vermont Avenue Square Land Company to Woolsey Cronkhite; consideration $2500. Lot 12 in block 29 of the Vermont Avenue Square, consideration $650, to Anna J. Smith of Wichita, Kan. Lots 202 and 203 of the Winton & McLeod's No. 5 Figueroa Street tract, consideration $1600, for B. C. McDonald to U. E. Frizelle; property at Nos. 492-494 North Alvarado street, lot improved with four-room cottage and one and one-half-story store building, $2100, for B. C. McDonald to U. E. Frizelle.

THE EXPOSITION AT JAMESTOWN.

Will Be a Good Show and Be Open on Time—Things to Be Seen and Sports to Be Enjoyed.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

NORFOLK (Va.) March 27.—Will the Jamestown Exposition be a good show? Will it be open on time?

These are questions which residents of Tidewater—as Norfolk, Portsmouth, Newport News and Old Point Comfort collectively are known—are asked by every visitor. After a thorough survey of the situation they can fully and frankly be answered.

The Jamestown Exposition will be a good show and it will open on time. The only danger in sight is that it will be too much of a success for these small cities to stand, despite their desperate efforts to prepare for the millions of visitors expected.

April 26 will see the gates of the exposition swing open and all the wheels started when President Roosevelt presses a button. But some of the buildings will not be completed and not all of the exhibits will be placed in those which are ready. The summer months and those of the early fall will be the time when the exposition will be seen at its best.

The exposition managers tell you that 5,000,000 persons will be here between April 26 and December 1. They estimate that each person will visit the exposition grounds on an average two times. The admission is 50 cents, so that would yield a revenue of $8,000,000. That estimate represents substantial success.

Under the leadership of the late Fitzhugh Lee, the people of Tidewater planned to celebrate the ter-centennial of primal English settlement with a $1,000,000 show, largely naval display. Gen. Lee died. The enterprise faltered. The promoters cast around for another inspiring Virginia name, backed up by the required brains and resourcefulness. They made Harry St. George Tucker, former member of Congress, and one of the ablest lawyers in the country, president of the exposition company in place of Gen. Lee. The movement gained strength. Now it will be something more than a $6,000,000 show, and the naval display will be but one of many features.

GREAT NAVAL DISPLAY.

The greatest display of warships ever witnessed in American waters will be that anchored in Hampton Roads the day the exposition is opened. In the Atlantic fleet, commanded by Admiral Evans, there will be sixteen battleships. The flags of at least twelve others powers will flutter over the armored craft of as many different powers.

Only Japan's will be missing of all the great naval nations. The Japanese ships must come all the way from the Far East and they started with the idea that the exposition would open on May 13. That will be the three hundredth anniversary of the landing at Jamestown.

All of a sudden the exposition management decided that the proper time to launch the enterprise was on the anniversary of the day on which the English first set foot on American soil. That was April 26, 1607. The English landed on the first land they saw, which was Cape Henry. A band of hostile Indians swooped down on them and drove the colonists back to their ship. Cruising around the waters of Hampton Roads, they finally steered up a river, which they afterward named the James, in honor of ..... sovereigns, and landing upon what was the peninsula, but is now an island, they founded the first English settlement in America and called it Jamestown, also to compliment their ruler.

To the visiting observer here it looks as though the exposition would be too large for tidewater. Norfolk has a population of 75,000 persons at the outside. Half of them are negroes. Therefore the accommodations for visitors are not much more, ordinarily, than those afforded by a town of 25,000 or 40,000 persons. The whole tidewater region has a population of about 150,000 persons. The proportion of negro continues about one-half.

With sublime faith in the success of the exposition the business public of these cities have prepared for the rush which they expect and hope for. A dozen hotels have gone up in Norfolk. Some of them are palatial. None of them is temporary. To the natural inquiry of what will become of them when the rush of visitors is over the Norfolk business man makes an optimistic answer: "This town will live up to them, sir."

LOCATION.

Geographically the location of the exposition at Sewall's Point is a little remote, so far as communication by land is concerned. It is six miles distant from Norfolk by street car and steam line, and about the same distance by boat. It lies directly across Hampton Roads from Old Point and Newport News, and the ferries from these places will make the trip, it is promised, in between twenty and thirty minutes each.

There is one double track street car line between Norfolk and the exposition grounds, and at present its service is inadequate even for the needs of the 1500 workmen now employed on the grounds. They count themselves lucky if they make the trip to Norfolk in one hour, and doubly fortunate is the man who is able to get a seat. To these daily strap hangers the boast of the street car company that it will handle thousands of passengers comfortably every hour appeals as a joke. Eighty new cars constitute the additional preparation which this street car company has made.

It employs inexperienced boys as conductors for the most part, and is about as unpopular a corporation as can be found anywhere.

The other transit facilities between Norfolk and the exposition consists of the Tidewater Railroad, the new line built from West Virginia to this port. Tidewater is rich in railroads, but the Tidewater Railroad is the only one with a track to the exposition grounds. It is a single track, and with smaller siding and terminal facilities than would seem needed to accommodate the large number of cars now required to convey material to the grounds, and which in the month remaining will be required to transport the exhibits for a hundred buildings.

HOPE IN WATER TRANSPORT.

Water transportation must save the day, and the exposition management is confident that it will. A dozen steamers from New York harbor and elsewhere will be here on opening day and soon after to ply between Norfolk and Newport News and Old Point Comfort and the exposition grounds. These great craft, with their ability to carry 1000 to 1500 passengers at a time, will be a great relief to the meager transit facilities.

The Tidewater Railroad promises to run long trains to the exposition grounds, and after the track is made clear of freight traffic this will work to aid the situation.

Prices of food and lodging, of course, are following the usual exposition tendency. They are going up. There is a keen desire on the part of many residents that prices should not be unreasonably advanced; that visitors should not be "gouged." Whether those who are broad enough to see the wisdom of this course will be able to counteract the natural tendency of many to make as much money as they can from every visitor remains to be seen.

The casual visitor to the ground will have difficulty in accepting the assurance of the officials that the place will be in presentable condition when the opening day arrives. The great double pier, which, sentineled by graceful towers and broad landings, is the chief feature of the water front, as shown in the highly-colored birdseye advertisement, is now a scene of confusion. Piles have been driven as far out as the pier will extend, and a part of the wall is finished.

WHERE SHIPS WILL LAND.

Here it is that President Roosevelt and the admirals and captains of two score warships are to land, scarcely less than a month from now. It looks like a great task to complete, but the contractors have a heavy penalty over their heads if they fail.

The broad, open space immediately before this pier, which in maps of the ground is marked "Raleigh Square," and the adjoining space, which is shown by the same map to be reserved for lagoons and fountains, is now an expanse of plowed ground.

The scrapers turn up, now and then, cannon balls and old muskets, relics of the engagements between Federal warcraft and the Confederate batteries on Sewall's Point. Flanking this open space are the two largest buildings, one for machinery and transportation, the other for manufacturer and fine arts. Colonial in architecture, these buildings are complete save for interior decoration and a good scrubbing, but are destitute of sidewalks and parking.

The central building is the Administration Building, which contains a large auditorium, where the President will speak. It is complete, save for audience chairs and interior decorations. Its wings, which are destined to contain the exhibits of historic art and education, still have the scaffolding within.

The fireproof building adjoining on either side of these two wings and which are to contain valuable documents, paintings and rare historical archives, are far from complete, their concrete skeletons just having been finished. The large building for the State's exhibits is in the same stage as the Manufactures and Transportation Building. The two government buildings, which stand facing the water front and flanking Raleigh Square, are just a trifle behind the Manufactures and Transportation Building, but have been pronounced ready to receive exhibits. The Palace of Commerce is ready to receive its store of exhibits, but the roof has just been put on two large buildings to contain miscellaneous exhibits.

MOST STATE BUILDINGS READY.

The buildings which will be occupied by the various States participating have nearly all been completed. The New York Building is the most backward, except that of Indiana, which has not yet been started.

There is a charming grouping of them on the water front, and although they are not all of the same style of architecture, they run generally to the colonial. Many represent some historical structure. The Virginia Building is a reproduction of the home of Madison. Especial interest attaches to the Georgia Building, because it is a copy of Bulloch Hall, the birthplace and home of President Roosevelt's mother.

Ohio has a replica of Adena, the first stone house built west of the Allegheny Mountains. Peninsylvania has reproduced Independence Hall, Maryland's exhibit will be housed in Carroll Hall, the home of Gov. Carroll, of Maryland, signer of the Declaration of Independence. The Talmadge home, the first colonial mansion built in Connecticut, has been copied for that State's representation. The Massachusetts Building is a replica of the first State House in that commonwealth, and Rhode Island has done the same thing in housing its exhibit. Beauvoir, the Mississippi home of Jefferson Davis, has been reproduced as headquarters for the Daughters of the Confederacy. Other States will follow with handsome buildings, which, however, are not so suggestive of historic memories as the ones mentioned.

Buildings for Porto Rico and Panama are in course of erection, and through the efforts of Señor N. Veloz Goiticoa the funds have been provided for the erection of a handsome structure to house the exhibit of the Bureau of American republics. Santo Domingo will have a large exhibit and Hayti a handsome pavilion in the Pure Foods Building.

Mention of Panama recalls the fact that in front of one of the government buildings there will be reared a realistic model of the Panama Canal, perfect to scale, and showing the operation of the Isthmian waterway in detail, with water, locks and miniature ships. This is an exhibit in which President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft have taken an especially keen interest. It is yet to be put in place.

The man who visits the grounds several days successively is impressed with the rapidity of construction. Where one day stands a pool of water the next will find it filled to a level and nicely graded, ready for the sod. The partially completed building in disorder today is neatly cleaned up tomorrow.

The great steamboat pier, needed for the accommodation not only of the ferries from the tidewater cities, but for the passenger steamers from the north and south, is yet largely to be constructed, but the contractors will be pushed.

Clearly, the best time to see the exposition will not be the spring months. The summer will find it better ordered and the early fall doubtless in the flower of its career. The opening day will probably see a fairly presentable front. The central buildings will be well finished, but there cannot help but be a wealth of ragged edges. A little time for these handicaps to be corrected, and all indications point to a wholly enjoyable attraction.

YACHT AND BALLOON RACING.

Yacht racing and balloon racing will be noteworthy features of the Jamestown Exposition. The latter sport, of which the devotees of this country steadily are increasing, will be given especial attention. The programme arranged will constitute an "Aëronautic Congress" and will be a forerunner to the great contest at St. Louis.

Coal and hydrogen gas will be furnished gratuitously for competing balloons. Albert Francis Zahm is secretary of the Aëronautic Committee, and Gen. James Allen, chief signal officer, U. S. A., is an honorary member. William J. Hammer, Augustus Post, Ernest La Rue Jones, Carl Dienstbach and Charles W. Kohlsaat are other members of the committee. The various sub committees include in their membership practically all the persons identified with ballooning or aërial science in this country. The official programme contains balloon, flying machine and kite competitions for eighteen separate days of the exposition.

The waters of Hampton Roads afford excellent advantages for yacht racing. The exposition company issued a general invitation to the principal yacht clubs of the country, as a result of which a convention of yachtsmen was held at the Hampton Roads Yacht Club, in June, 1906. This led to the appointment of a yacht racing commission, of which J. E. De Mund of Brooklyn, was made President, and James F. Duncan of Norfolk, secretary. The other members are Charles Longstreth, of the Corinthian Yacht Club, Philadelphia; A. E. Jarvis of Toronto; Oliver E. Cromwell representing the Yacht Racing Association of Long Island Sound; Charles P. Tower representing the same association; J. Van B. Meets of Wilmington, N. C.; Myron B. Vorce of Cleveland; U. J. Herrman of Chicago, and Louis M. Clark of Boston. The Regatta Committee consists of Charles P. Tower and Dr. De Mund, and the official measurer is John R. Brophy of Brooklyn. The second and third weeks of September are the dates fixed for the races.

King Edward has offered a cup for competition for sloops of class Q. The President Roosevelt Cup is to be open for competition for sloops of class P and the Sir Thomas Lipton Cup is to be open for competition for sloops of classes H, J and K, sailing in one class. A cup will also be offered for a free for all race without time allowance and also a cup for Chesapeake Bay canoes and one for Chesapeake Bay bug eyes.

A motor boat carnival to last one week has been planned, to consist of reliability trials, long distance races, mile and kilometer speed trials, etc.

Could You See

How Schlitz beer is brewed, you would never buy any other.

You would see plate glass rooms, filled with filtered air, where we cool it.

You would see glass-lined tanks where we age it so long that it cannot cause biliousness.

How we filter it through white wood pulp. How we sterilize every bottle. How cleanliness is carried to extremes.

You would realize better how much purity means if you saw the methods we use, and the amount we spend, to attain it.

EVENTS IN LOCAL SOCIETY.

INTERESTING news to many friends is that of the engagement of Miss Hazel Siegel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Siegel, of No. 717 Westlake avenue, to Albert A. Peters.

Miss Siegel is a beautiful girl, and has been much admired in local society both for her beauty and charm of manner. She has lived here all her life, and has a host of friends who will be interested to learn of her approaching marriage. Mr. Peters is an eastern man, but has lived here the past two years. The wedding will take place in June.

For Mrs. McKay.

In honor of Mrs. A. H. McKay of Mexico, Mrs. Hugh L. MacNeil will entertain with a dinner party tomorrow evening at her home on South Figueroa street.

Guests who have been invited to meet the honorée are Gen. and Mrs. Adna R. Chaffee, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Jarvis Barlow, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Drake, Lieut. and Mrs. Randolph Miner, Mrs. Mary Longstreet, Frank Brown, James Slauson and Mr. Denis.

—o—

Doran-Innes Reception.

Yesterday afternoon one of the smartest functions of the week was a tea at which Mrs. William J. Doran and her mother, Mrs. Daniel Innes, were hostesses, the affair being given at the home of Mrs. Doran, No. 1194 West Twenty-seventh street.

The home was attractively decorated with ferns and jonquils, and the tea table was particularly lovely, spread with a rich cloth of Cluny lace, and holding a great bowl of the nodding yellow blossoms. Yellow candelabra and satin bows added to the charm of the effect.

Assisting the hostesses in receiving were Mmes. Will Innes, Nathaniel Myrick, James Campbell Estill of Memphis, Albert Llewellyn Cheney, E. L. Doran, Charles Prager, Hugh Harrison, John Mott, E. A. Featherstone, Arthur Braly, Fred Johnson, J. A. Jevne, David Murray, Jefferson P. Chandler, Walter Cosby, Glover Willney, David E. Allison, Fred Hines and Ezra T. Stimson and Misses Addie Doran, Elizabeth Doran, Bird Chanslor, Cora Eshman, Bertha Pollard, Pearl Seeley, Irene Grosse of Pasadena and Miss Small of San Francisco.

Musical Tea.

Mrs. Abner L. Ross and her daughter, Mrs. Herbert Leslie Harris, have issued invitations for a musical tea to be given on Tuesday afternoon, April 16, from 3 until 5 o'clock, at No. 1800 Alvarado street.

—o—

Mrs. Harding's Luncheon.

Mrs. H. L. Harding will entertain today with a luncheon in compliment to her daughter, Mrs. William Bayly, Jr.

—o—

Mrs. MacNeil's Musicale.

Mrs. Hugh L. MacNeil of No. 2401 South Figueroa street entertained last evening with a delightful chamber musicale, her beautiful home being decorated with a choice array of sweet blossoms and cool greenery. The great veranda was hung with rich silken flags of all nations, making a brilliant ensemble.

Miss Marion MacNeil assisted her mother in receiving and entertaining her guests. A splendid programme of music was rendered by the following artists: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clifford Lott, pianist and baritone; the Krauss Quartette, composed of Arnold Krauss, first violin; Julius Bierlich, second violin; F. R. Wismer, viola, and Ludwig Opid, violincello.

About one hundred guests enjoyed the handsomely appointed function.

In Home Hundred Years Old.

Miss Ernestine Lopez entertained a few of the young girls of her Spanish class of the Girls' Collegiate School on Monday with a luncheon. The affair was given at her home in San Gabriel, which is about 100 years old. It is a beautiful old Castilian place, surrounded with roses and great shade trees. After luncheon the young women enjoyed themselves with music and then went to the old mission and enjoyed its mysteries. Later they picked the wild flowers in the fields.

Those who enjoyed the luncheon were: Misses Josephine Headley, Marguerette Briggs, Katherine Smith, Helen McKevette, Ave Mayberry, Ruby Miller, Eleanore Siegel, Helen Thare, Señora Lopez and Señorita Ernestina Lopez.

Miss Wolfskill a Bride.

An interesting wedding which took place at Redondo yesterday morning was that of Miss Grace Wolfskill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wolfskill, to Robert W. Cooper of this city. Rev. Forthar performed the ceremony, which was witnessed only by members of the two families. The church was beautifully decorated, as was the home, where a breakfast was served. Miss Ruth Wolfskill was maid of honor and Louis Wolfskill acted as best man. The bride wore a beautiful wedding robe with a veil and carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and bride roses.

Miss Spicer Is Bride.

Miss Venila Spicer and Charles S. Lewis were married yesterday at noon at the Christ Episcopal Church, with Rev. Baker P. Lee officiating. Archibald Sessions gave appropriate wedding music, and Messrs. Tom M. Bridges and A. L. Hamlin were ushers. The bride, who is a daughter of Mrs. W. A. Keepers of No. 1360 Wall street, was attired in a becoming gown of white net and silk, with trimmings of Irish point lace. She carried a shower of bride roses and her veil was caught with orange blossoms. Mrs. J. C. Coleman was matron of honor and was gowned in pale blue silk and carried white carnations.

After the wedding a breakfast was served at the home of the bride and later a reception was held in the evening. Upon their return from a honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will be at home at No. 1360 Wall street.

Prof. Bassett Honored.

Prof. Lee E. Bassett of Stanford University, who gave a recital last week at U.S.C., under the auspices of the Alpha Fraternity, was guest of honor at a banquet given by the fraternity at the Los Angeles Coffee Club, Third and Main streets. It was largely attended by Phi Alpha members, several coming from Pasadena. E. B. Garcia presided, and in addition to the toasts Mr. Bassett recited a number of pleasing selections.

—o—

Joint Birthday Celebration.

The reception given Mrs. O. H. LaGrange yesterday in honor of the anniversary of the birthday of Gen. LaGrange and his son, Hugh LaGrange, was one of the most enjoyable of recent functions at the Soldiers' Home. There was no special color scheme in the floral decorations. The reception room showed chiefly ferns, violets and potted palms; the parlors and dining-room abounded in violets, roses, carnations and Jonquils, while in the corners were massed green and violets.

The home orchestra led by Prof. F. H. Geissenger, discoursed music. The Misses Grace and Katherine Nellis of Los Angeles assisted Mrs. LaGrange in receiving, and Miss Bernice Wilson and Miss Caldwell assisted at the tables.

Many friends at Pasadena and Los Angeles were, because of the threatening weather, deterred from attendance, but in a number of instances sent cheery messages. Despite ominous clouds, the reception room and parlors were constantly filled with those who desired to personally wish the happy objects of the occasion "many returns of the day."

Among the more prominent present were: Lieut.-Gen. Adna R. Chaffee, U.S.A. (retired;) Gen. Beveridge of Hollywood; Maj. E. F. C. Klokke, Los Angeles; Miss Davenport, daughter of Commissioner Davenport of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. and Miss Herndon, Miss Howland and Miss Servoss, Los Angeles; Mrs. Seward Cole and Miss Budge of Hollywood, and many others.

Members' Evening.

Members' evening, which has been delightfully observed at the Y.W.C.A. on the first Thursday of each month, will be the occasion of a charming musical event tomorrow evening, when Miss Louise Nixon Hill will sing ballads and songs of England, Ireland and Scotland, in costume. This is to be the last of the series of members' evenings for this season.

—o—

Newspaperman Will Wed.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Lucretia Prendergast, daughter of Mrs. F. E. Prendergast, and Paul W. Moore, of the Redlands Daily Facts. The news comes as a surprise to their many friends. The prospective bride is accounted one of the most charming young women in Redlands. She is a Wellesley woman and after leaving college with other members of her family spent two years abroad. Mr. Moore is secretary and treasurer of the University Club of Redlands, a member of the vestry of Trinity Church, a member of the Redlands Country Club and several local fraternal organizations. The wedding will probably be solemnized in the early autumn.

—o—

Children's Easter Party.

Miss Myrtle I. Eldred of No. 1205 Fedora street entertained with a children's Easter party in honor of little Miss Dotha Barnum of Inglewood, who with her parents, is the house guest of her aunt, Mrs. Mary B. Enos of King street. The house was beautifully decorated with roses and callas, Reve d'Or and Duchess roses being used in the dining-room.

—o—

Miss Kempson Is Bride.

A charming home wedding was celebrated at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Kempson of Gardena, when their daughter, Essie Bell, became the bride of William T. BeYea. Only immediate relatives were present. The house was beautifully decorated in green and white. The couple stood in an arch of green and white, under the wedding bells, while Rev. W. H. Marks of Pasadena, an old-time friend of the family, pronounced the impressive words which made them husband and wife. The bride was lovely in white silk chiffon over white silk. Mr. and Mrs. BeYea were the recipients of a number of beautiful presents. An elaborate wedding breakfast was served and the happy couple left at once on a brief wedding trip after which they will be at home in Moneta. The bride is a young woman of charming personality. The groom for a long time occupied a responsible position in the Los Angeles postoffice.

Notes and Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McFarland have moved to No. 2217 Juliet street, where Mrs. McFarland will receive on Wednesdays.

Mrs. E. A. Mullen of No. 929 West Twenty-seventh street entertained a number of friends at a dinner party yesterday.

Miss Hazel Siegel, whose engagement to Albert A. Paters is announced today.

RAILROAD RECORD.

FIRST TRAIN IS WELCOMED.

SEARCHLIGHT TURNS OUT TO GREET CIVILIZATION.

Daily Service by Way of Santa Fe With Big Mining Town—Attempt Said to Have Been Made to Wreck Coaches—Varied Railway Information.

The first passenger and freight train has reached Searchlight.

It got into that town Monday just after noon and the inhabitants of this great mining camp could hardly believe that it was not an "April Fool" joke.

But it wasn't, and the population turned out and gave the train, trainmen and passengers a right hearty welcome. The day marks an era in the development of this rich mineral district and the Searchlighters are jubilant.

There were eighteen passengers and for a time they thought the town had turned out in their honor. But no announcement had been made at Searchlight of the arrival of the train and it was not expected that regular traffic would be opened so soon.

Conductor Porterfield reported a dastardly attempt to wreck the train at a switch just beyond Barnwell, where a work train was ditched two weeks ago. The switch had been set in part by some timber and the train held the track at this point by a miracle. An investigation is being made.

Regular service between Los Angeles and Searchlight is now provided for with a transfer at Goffs. The Santa Fé Overland from Los Angeles at 8 p.m., connects at Goffs early next morning with the train for Searchlight. If business warrants it through cars will be put in service between this city and the "Camp Without a Failure."

TUNNEL STILL BURNS.

Trouble is still being experienced by the Santa Fé with the tunnel through the Contra Costa hills on account of the fire which has been burning there for two weeks or more. The Santa Fé is using the tracks of the Southern Pacific to get into Oakland so that there is no delay in traffic.

MRS. VANDERBILT COMING.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Sr., is on the way to Los Angeles in her private car "Wayfarer." She left New York with a party of friends over the New York Central Monday morning, and will reach Los Angeles April 10 and while here will make her headquarters at the Angelus Hotel. April 12, Mrs. Vanderbilt will make a flying trip to the Grand Cañon of the Colorado by way of the Santa Fé, and will return, going north by way of Portland via the Southern Pacific. She will stop off at a number of points of interest both on her way out and returning.

MORE LOCOMOTIVES.

The Santa Fé company has recently placed an order for fifty-seven new locomotives for freight service, supplementing the order for twenty-five new passenger type locomotives, which it is expected will be placed in service next month.

TUNNEL CONTRACTS.

Contracts have been let by the management of the Santa Fé for a second tunnel through the Raton Mountains. It is expected that the work will be completed within twelve months. The tunnel will be about 3000 feet long and will cost in the neighborhood of half a million dollars. On completion of this tunnel the Santa Fé will be double-tracked between Trinidad, Colo., and Raton, N. M.

SALT LAKE MAY OPEN.

Hope is now entertained by the management of the Salt Lake Railroad that through service will again be established between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City April 10. Work has been rushed to repair the damage by washouts in the Meadow Valley district and the track has now been completed from the north to Caliente.

STILL CLOSED.

The Coast Line of the Southern Pacific is still tied up and the cave-in of the Santa Margarita tunnel is proving more serious than the engineers of the Southern Pacific had any idea of. As fast as the work of clearing this tunnel is nearing completion it is followed by another cave-in which makes all the work gone before count for nothing. It is now asserted that the Coast line will hardly be open for through traffic before next week.

FIND LOST ATTORNEY.

MOBILE (Ala.) April 2.—United States Dist.-Atty. Armbrecht, fears for whose safety were expressed last night in a dispatch from San Francisco, was heard from this morning at Los Angeles. Armbrecht is on his way to San Francisco, to make arrests, it is said, in connection with the lottery cases. He has been delayed at several places.

Every Heart Beat

Forces about 8 ounces of blood out of the heart, and sends it coursing through the veins to the remotest part of the body. This is the amount required by nature to nourish and sustain your body. Every ounce less than this means a shortage in nature's supply of building-up material. A weak heart cannot meet this demand, and consequently you suffer. If your heart skips a beat, or flutters, palpitates, pains you, or you have shortness of breath, you may be sure that the heart is working imperfectly.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure will strengthen the heart muscles and nerves.

"I had been a great sufferer for 15 years. At the time I commenced taking Dr. Miles' Heart Cure I had been confined to my bed for four months. I had frequent sinking spells, sometimes as many as three in a day, during which my heart would seem to stop beating, necessitating the calling of a physician to resuscitate me. Before finishing the first bottle the sinking spells had ceased, and I took altogether five bottles for a complete cure. I now enjoy perfect health, and am very grateful for this wonderful medicine, for it is the means of my being with my family now."

Should you meet Ed Nagle walking down Spring street backwards today, don't feel that Ed has suddenly developed a crack in his skillet; he is simply practicing his two-faced clown role, and you have caught him going instead of coming.

Then there is an unrearious quartette of old maids, ancient damsels wearing features suspiciously like Leo Youngworth, Heine Krohn, Walter Goldschmidt and Frank Bryson. The Jeffries brothers, Dick and John, will offer a strong-man specialty, juggling pianos and automobiles while you wait.

But these are mere samples of the programme. A cavorting, loop the loop, hurrah for—a very, very audacious chariot race is also down on the list.

The advance advertising of the show has been in keeping with its character.

Theater patrons Monday night were suddenly startled by the appearance of a tall, pale, sad-faced young man, who took his stand at the front of the orchestra rows, holding aloft a black scroll. Uttering no word, he continued to elevate it, while compatriots, appearing at either side of the house, pointed silently, but with cabalistic gestures, at the strange parchment. About the time excited curiosity had been worked up to the shrieking pitch, he of the scroll suddenly unloosed his fingers, and the end of the paper fell to the floor. The sheet was lettered—life-size—"Come to the Shrine Circus."

The principal actor in this mystery-stunt was Leo Youngworth.

At the Cawston Ostrich Farm the hugest bird of the famous assemblage, Old King Leopold, has just been initiated into the eerie rites of the order, and may possibly be seen at the "Sirens." His initiation was not a difficult matter, for grossing the hot sands was a matter of little moment to this big African bird.

The only thing Leopold's trainers fear is that he will eternally disgrace himself, some evil day, by snatching his fez off and swallowing it.

The Half Has Not Been Told About It

It is an oasis in Nevada. It has many gold mines now in active operation and numerous others are being elaborately developed.

It has three railroads—the Las Vegas & Tonopah, a branch of the Salt Lake Road, now running into town; Bullfrog and Goldfield, now connecting with the Southern Pacific to San Francisco, which will be finished to Beatty within a few weeks; and the Tonopah & Tidewater, Borax Smith's road, which will reach Beatty within a few months.

It has water in an inexhaustible supply from mountain springs, flowing millions of gallons of the purest water, with no variation of supply either summer or winter.

Beatty Is the Logical Spot for a Big Town.

Lots in Beatty are now selling for $100 and upward. Partial payments can be arranged. Lots on Main and Third Streets now selling for $750 to $1,000 will bring $7,500 to $10,000 in a short time.

Remember the rise of Goldfield, Tonopah, Reno and older mining towns. Buy into Beatty NOW. Since the first advertisement appeared, offering lots in the townsite of Beatty, the offices of the General Securities Company have been crowded with buyers who have been making fortunate selections. One excursion of buyers has gone forward and another is to go.

Our next big excursion will start early next week. Free transportation to all buyers of lots to the value of $500 and upward. Come along and have a good time. Make your reservations now if you wish to join the excursion.

And it will be the commercial and railroad center of Southern Nevada. Now is the time to buy lots in Beatty. Hundreds of people are pouring in, and the price of lots will be rapidly advanced. All come to see and many stay to settle.

We want a laundryman, confectioner, photographer, several more restaurants, a dry goods store, shoe store, news agency, fruit stand, several more boarding houses, another barber shop, blacksmith shop and machinist who can repair automobiles, another druggist, meat market, baker, plumber, carpenters and other mechanics.

One of the most astonishing feats ever presented to the eye of man is being whooped up in rehearsal on the left stage, where Oscar Morgan deports his school of trained sand dabs.

Should you meet Ed Nagle walking down Spring street backwards today, don't feel that Ed has suddenly developed a crack in his skillet; he is simply practicing his two-faced clown rule, and you have caught him going instead of coming.

Then there is an unroarious quartette of old maids, ancient damsels wearing features suspiciously like Leo Youngworth, Heine Krohn, Walter Goldschmidt and Frank Bryson. The Jeffries brothers, Dick and John, will offer a strong-man specialty, juggling pianos and automobiles while you wait.

But these are mere samples of the programme. Ar cavorting, loop the loop, hurrah for—a very, very audacious chariot race is also down on the list.

The advance advertising of the show has been in keeping with its character.

Theater patrons Monday night were suddenly startled by the appearance of a tall, pale, sad-faced young man, who took his stand at the front of the orchestra rows, holding aloft a black scroll. Uttering no word, he continued to elevate it, while compatriots, appearing at either side of the house, pointed silently, but with cabalistic gestures, at the strange parchment. About the time excited curiosity had been worked up to the shrieking pitch, he of the scroll suddenly unloosed his fingers, and the end of the paper fell to the floor. The sheet was lettered—lifesize—"Come to the Shrine Sircus."

The principal actor in this mystery-stunt was Leo Youngworth.

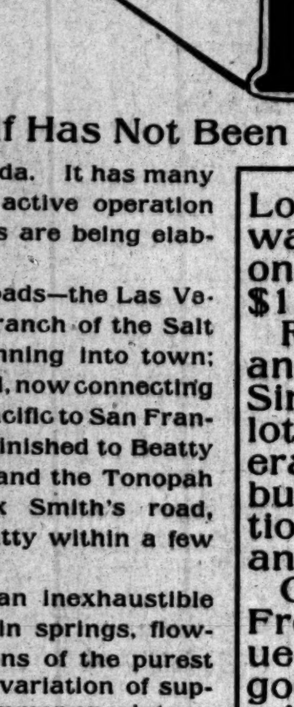
At the Cawston Ostrich Farm the largest bird of the famous assemblage, Old King Leopold, has just been initiated into the eerie rites of the order, and may possibly be seen at the "sircus." His initiation was not a difficult matter, for crossing the hot sands was a matter of little moment to this big African bird.

Leopold will at least be chairman of the reception committee on the day when the Shriners visit the farm.

The monarch is now learning to wear a fez with all the dignity supposed to append to an Al Malaikahn.

The only thing Leopold's trainers fear is that he will eternally disgrace himself, some evil day, by snatching his fez off and swallowing it.

On top of this entree of felt and gold embroidery the King would probably take a salad of shingle nails and finish his meal with a dessert of oranges—which he always swallows whole, and with apparent relish.



King Leopold, who is to do the honors when the Shriners come.

HELP FOR IMPERIAL.

Local Land Office Receives Formal Notice of the Congressional Act of Relief.

As previously announced in the telegraphic columns of The Times, the United States government has come to the rescue of the Imperial settlers, and formal notice of the time-extension on claims there reached the local land office yesterday.

This action was taken, as has been stated, on account of the terrific ravages of the Salton Sea, which has stopped development and has eaten up whole farms.

The notice sent here is by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, R. A. Ballinger, and contains a copy of the act.

It should be noted that this time extension is for two years, on final proofs only. Annual proofs must be made as before.

The parcels of land affected have been previously enumerated.

The long drouth which has caused so much loss to the corn and wheat crops in Spain was broken Monday by a torrential rain which fell throughout Spain, and all the farmers are rejoicing.

courts is so unsatisfactory that the Supervisors are now considering the question of squeezing them all into the County Courthouse.

SHUFFLE TO MAKE ROOM.

To do this will necessitate a topsy-turvy turning of present arrangements. It is proposed, however, to turn out the county surveyor and find a place for him in some near-by building, possibly the Adler building on Franklin street; to turn out Judge Wilbur from his present luxurious quarters and put him where the surveyor now is, and place one of the justice courts where Department Eight of the Superior Court is at present.

But this makes room for only one township court, so it is proposed to turn out the Tax Collector from the basement and jam the other three township courts into the cellar. This will be handy to the marriage license bureau.

But what to do with the Tax Collector? As it is, his quarters are so straitened that part of the main corridor is given up to his use and he is in dire need of more space for the business of his department and the filing of records. Possibly he will have to divide with the County Recorder quarters in the old County Jail, now the Juvenile Detention Home.

Anyway the new political darlings of Walter Parker must have quarters.

HAMBLE'S DAMAGE SUIT.

Conductor's Case Against Santa Fe Comes on in Federal Court—Answer of Defendant Corporation.

The damage suit of Mark B. Hamble against the Santa Fé Company, transferred from the Superior Court to the United States Circuit Court, finally came on for trial yesterday afternoon. The railroad is represented by Messrs. Norton and Milliken, while Mr. Hamble's chief counsel is the firm of Harris and Harris.

The plaintiff was a conductor in the employ of the defendant railroad, and early on the morning of February 2, 1903, his caboose was violently run into by another train in Tunnel No. 4, on the road between Mojave and Bakersfield. He believes he sustained physical damages entitling him to a recompense of $25,000.

Several queer things developed in the answer to the complaint, notably the Santa Fé's assertion that the Southern Pacific Company, having prior control of this particular piece of track, is really in full charge there.

The Santa Fé lawyers also allege that Hamble took no proper precautions in flagging, and that therefore he is not only responsible for his own injuries, but for the great monetary damage to both trains.

Active work in the trial of the case went over until today.

According to a dispatch from Shanghai, the Chinese government has ordered through a German firm at Tientsin two million rifles for the equipment of Chinese troops.

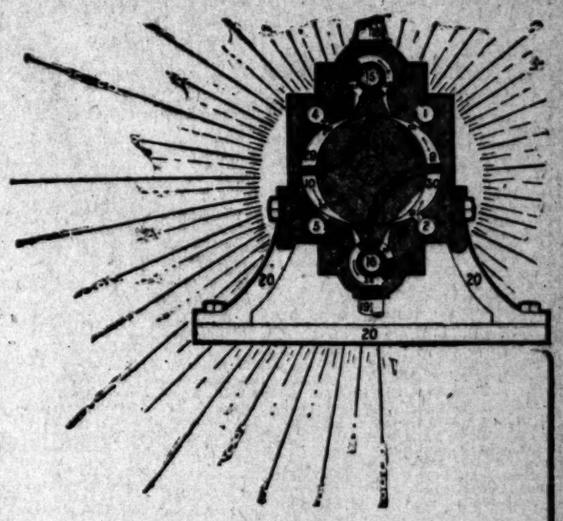
Before returning it to the factory at Spokane we will give every one an opportunity of seeing



The Most Wonderful Rotary Engine Under Steam at the Hotel King Edward

FIFTH AND LOS ANGELES STREETS

The Crescent Rotary Steam Engine—the marvel of the century, the engine that has eclipsed every other type of steam power and which in so short a time has captured the world's attention, in taking its leave of the many Los Angeles friends and investors in the shares of the Company making it, will give this last exhibition under steam. Until the factory is able to furnish some of the many engines wanted by steam users in Southern California, this may be your only chance to see this engine run.

By unexpected circumstances, a block of stock which was under option by a certain buyer, has come back into our hands and during these three days, any one interested in the engine proposition may have the privilege of buying them at the last quoted price of $1.50. Remembering the sale of German rights of manufacture on a liberal basis of profit, the prospective sale of English rights, the tremendous profit in the home manufacture of the engine, all of which assures a much higher price for this stock, this small bunch of shares will not last long, offered at the old price of $1.50. First come, first served.

So many people have wished to see the performance of this engine that we give this last opportunity of seeing it in operation before it is shipped back to the factory—Remember, three days only. Don't miss it.

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

ALL-CITY PLAN DOESN'T SUIT.

NORTH PASADENANS COMPLAIN OF WARD ELECTION.

Present Method by Which Whole Town Votes on the Representatives from the Various Districts Causes Some Dissatisfaction — Barefoot Burglar in Operation.

Office of The Times, No. 24 S. Raymond Ave.

PASADENA, April 2.—The election was the chief topic of conversation on the streets yesterday, and the result appeared to give general satisfaction. No one appeared better pleased than the defeated candidate for Mayor, who seemed not in the least chagrined that he was about to retire to civil life again.

There were rumors of a projected contest, but nothing materialized and it is not thought that there will be any attempt made to defeat the result of the election. A great many of the most ardent supporters of Mr. Waterhouse freely admit that Mr. Earley will make an excellent Mayor, and will be able to pilot the administration through the next two years to the satisfaction of every one.

The question of appointments was brought up, and the probable occupants of the offices in the City Hall were discussed. It is likely that those men who may be expecting to profit by the result of the election will find themselves mistaken, however, as the Mayor-elect is strongly opposed to the spoils system, and has time and again advanced the theory that good men should be kept in public office, regardless of their political inclinations.

There are one or two changes that are slated, however, and who will be appointed to fill the vacancies is a question. The men who have been most active in the campaign are not men who are seeking personal preferment, and when the slate is finally made up it will probably be found that there are fully as many Waterhouse men in the City Hall as there are Earley men.

At the next meeting of the City Council the result of the election will be canvassed, and the final act in the drama brought to a close.

One of the facts that was plainly brought out at the election was the necessity for making a change in the manner of electing Councilmen. According to the charter, all voters of the city vote for each Councilman, though he is supposed to be the individual representative of the ward which he represents.

In this way G. A. Winner, the Citizens' candidate for Councilman from the Fifth Ward, defeated Root, the Waterhouse candidate, though in his own ward the latter had the larger vote. While to the city at large the result of the election has been entirely satisfactory, the North Pasadenans are inclined to be somewhat dissatisfied, and insist that they should have the naming of their own representative.

BAREFOOT BURGLAR.

That the barefoot burglar is still active was demonstrated Monday night when three houses were entered in the course of the evening. The "jobs" did not prove profitable, but $2.50 being secured in all, but the miscreant ransacked the houses thoroughly and his lack of success was due to the fact that no valuables had been left lying around.

The houses entered were those of Frederick W. Shedwell of No. 749 North Catalina avenue, S. A. Bartlett of No. 225 North Hollision avenue and J. A. Barrington of No. 650 North Wilson avenue. The money was secured at the Bartlett house.

From the tracks found about the houses entered the authorities feel certain that the job was done by the same man that entered several houses in the eastern section a couple of months ago. He operated along the same lines as the man who gave the authorities so much discomfort before, and they feel certain that he is the same man.

The report of the burglaries caused considerable disquietude among East Pasadenans, and several searching parties were made up. Last night the warning went out to keep all houses well locked and a careful lookout is being kept for midnight marauders.

TRUITT IS DISCHARGED.

When the cases of the Hawkins boys, Hughes and Truitt, charged with having assaulted Nellie Beach and Pearl Kohler, two girls under 16 years of age, came up before Justice Klamroth yesterday Truitt was discharged. The young man denied that he had anything to do with the episode, and insisted that he was innocent. He succeeded in convincing Judge Klamroth and was discharged.

Young Truitt has always borne an excellent reputation, and those who know him deny that he could in any way have been implicated in the disgraceful affair. J. O. McCament, who has known the boy for several years, took up his case for him and assisted him in securing his acquittal.

The examination of the other man was continued. The case was held behind closed doors. In spite of the unsavory odor of the whole affair there was the usual bunch of morbidly curious outside Judge Klamroth's office when the case was called. They were all disappointed, however, and had to content themselves with staying out on the sidewalk.

A fire in the residence of Mrs. D. Winn of Villa street called out the department yesterday afternoon. The blaze started in the kitchen but was fortunately discovered before it had gathered much headway. A chemical engine succeeded in extinguishing the blaze before any great damage was done. The origin of the fire is unknown.

But for the fact that Benjamin Wilson of Dakota street happened to be near at hand Monday night when one of the children overturned a lamp, a serious catastrophe would probably have resulted. As it was, there was a lively blaze which required speedy work on the part of the master of the house before it was gotten under control. No serious damage resulted, and the child was not in the least injured though it received a bad scare.

On May 25 the members of the Y.M.C.A. Glee Club will give a concert to raise money toward the new building. At a meeting of the club Monday night it was finally decided to hold the concert and the arrangements will be undertaken at once. That the affair will be successful is assured as the club is in excellent condition and the end toward which they are working is one with which all Pasadenans sympathize heartily.

The regular outing of the Board of City Commissioners, which was postponed Monday on account of the election, was held yesterday morning. There was nothing of importance to be considered beyond the approving of the demands from the different departments.

BRIDGE PARTY.

The most elaborate of the several functions of yesterday was the bridge party given by Mrs. John M. Hugus, at her home on South Grand avenue. The card tables were arranged in the drawing-room which was decorated profusely with garden roses. Mrs. Hugus was assisted by her sister, Miss Marjorie Bolt, and wore a stunning Paris Costume of black and white silk with lace accessories. Miss Bolt was gowned in white all over lace. The prizes, which were handsome pieces of silver in the antique Dutch style, were won by Mmes. Wilstein Root, Fred Elmer Wilcox, Winslow Taylor, F. B. Wetherby, W. S. Wright and Miss Illsey. After the games ices in the form of fruit, were brought in, piled high in a basket made of candy, which was tied with a bow of tulle. These were served with other refreshments.

Mrs. C. S. Cristy of South Orange Grove avenue was the hostess yesterday of a delightful five hundred party where tables were arranged for twenty eight. The prizes were won by Mrs. Hampton L. Story, Mrs. Welch and Mrs. W. D. Turner. After the games a collation was served.

Mrs. F. D. H. Banks of Monterey road gave an elegantly appointed luncheon yesterday, where covers were laid for eight. The table was ornamented with Brides' roses and all the accessories were in white and green. Those at the table were Mmes. Norman Bridge, R. J. Dobbins, J. H. Graves, James P. Moore, Thaddeus Lowe, Colin Stewart, William Dobbins, who was the guest of honor, and the hostess.

Dr. John Willis Baer of Occidental College was the host yesterday at an elaborate luncheon given at the Maryland in honor of John H. Converse of Philadelphia and H. P. Cowell of Chicago. The luncheon was served in the grill room, and covers were laid for Rev. Robert J. Burdette, Rev. Malcolm McLeod, Dr. Meredith, Prof. Edwards, Seward A. Simons, V. L. Green, John A. Cole, H. B. Stehman and W. Vandusen of Minneapolis.

Mrs. Dorothea Hoagiln-Hayden will give a reading of her own adaptation of the "Sky Pilot" at the Shakespeare Club House on Monday evening, April 8th.

The Revelers Club dance that was to have been held at the Shakespeare Club House last evening, was postponed until Wednesday evening, April 10.

Miss Helen Jenkins of No. 416 North Wilson avenue, was the recipient on Monday evening of a pleasant birthday surprise when a party of her young friends dropped in to spend the evening, which was passed with music and games, and later refreshments were served.

Mrs. Henry Howard Harris, of No. 62 North El Molino avenue was the hostess yesterday afternoon at a thimble party given in honor of her house guest, Miss Sybil Shea of Goldfield. Sixty guests spent the afternoon at dainty needlework, and late in the evening refreshments were served.

Yesterday afternoon and evening a Russian fete was held at the Shakespeare Club House for the benefit of the Russian peasants. Mme. Vera de Blumenthal was in charge of the affair and was assisted by Mrs. William Edwards, wife of the ex-minister to Russia, and Mrs. Ernest Quinan, both of whom have spent a good many years in Russia.

The members of the music section of the Shakespeare Club will give their second concert of the season Monday evening, April 15. Among the artists who will appear are Miss Gertrude Cohen, pianist; Nathrop Blumenthal, violinist; J. B. Poulin, tenor; Miss Julie Christian, contralto, and the Ladies' Chorus of the music section.

Mrs. S. E. Fussell of East Walnut street has as her guest for a prolonged visit her sister, Miss Lucy L. Haswell, of Philadelphia.

The regular meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon Bridge Whist Club was postponed yesterday until next Tuesday afternoon, April 9, when the members will meet at the home of Miss Lockwood on South Orange Grove avenue.

Mrs. T. J. De Huff of No. 304 Kensington Place entertained on Monday with a unique April fool luncheon, at which the viands were served in all kinds of topsy-turvy ways.

POMONA.

POMONA, April 2.—This has been an ideal season for the completion of street improvement work, much of which is being done here. The rains have served to harden the surfaces of the newly graded thoroughfares, thus putting them in excellent condition. The abutting property owners on Towne avenue, between Holt and Alvarado streets, have petitioned the Trustees for cement walks and curbs and for road grading and oiling. A similar petition has been filed by property owners on Kingsley avenue, between San Antonio avenue and Palomares street.

Miss Ethel Clark is now in charge of the directory and forwarding department of the postoffice.

A. F. Musselman, who has come here from Denver, has purchased a half interest in the P. J. Tarr shoe business.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Wilkinson have returned from Los Angeles.

J. W. Fulton and wife started today upon a two months' eastern trip.

W. S. Faulkner and family have arrived from Toronto, Canada, to reside here.

CABBAGE OUTLOOK.

FULLERTON, April 2.—In an interview Henry Schulte, one of the leading cabbage growers of this section, says he does not believe there will be over 450 carloads of cabbages in the Olive, Fullerton, La Habra and Whittier cabbage belt this season. The price for the present crop has been $20 a ton, and Mr. Shulte does not believe it will drop much below this sum, if at all. Corpus Christi and other districts in Texas are the only competitors California has. It is said that the product of the local district is far superior in every way to the Texas cabbage, but that the Texas growers get much better prices for their stuff than the local producers receive for high-grade cabbage.

APRICOT CROP LIGHT.

BURBANK, April 2.—The apricot crop in this section will be very light this season. The rain and frosts have killed the bloom. The rain also washed pollen from the blooms, preventing perfect fertilization. The rain and frosts have not hurt the peach crop, and there will doubtless be a large yield.

The amount of rainfall for the season here up to the present is 27.42.

Harry and Will Ludlow and A. Sence have returned home from San Fernando, where they have just finished putting to grain over 1500 acres. They will remain at home until time for harvest.

A new house of worship is about to be erected here for the German Evangelical Church.

BUSY BUZZ ON MAYOR'S LINE.

MUCH TO BE DONE BY SANTA MONICA OFFICER.

Over a Score of Appointments to Be Made by the New Head of the New Administration of the New Municipal Government—Contest in Prospect Over the Treasurership.

SANTA MONICA, April 2.—Now that there is a clearing in the smoke of the municipal battle, it is observed that under the new charter the office of Mayor is of no small political importance. One of the first duties of Mayor T. H. Dudley, when the new Aldermen go into office on April 15, will be the naming of twenty-two officers or members of commissions.

These in turn are to choose other officers, such as Chief of Police, city librarian, park superintendent and health officer.

The Mayor's appointees, who are to be confirmed by the Council, include a City Engineer, City Attorney, Superintendent of Buildings, Street Superintendent, five library trustees, three police commissioners, three fire commissioners, three park commissioners and three members of the board of health. The Chief of Police is to be selected by the police commissioners, and City Marshal Max Barretto is slated for that place. The police judge is to be named by the Council.

All signs go to show that the election means a new City Attorney to succeed B. S. Hunter, who fought with the cause that was lost. The new Board of Education is also understood to have been named in opposition to City Superintendent D. A. Eckert. With the closing of the polls and the defeat of J. C. Steele for Mayor, the Morning Review this morning printed its own obituary.

The fight over the office of Treasurer and Tax Collector was so close that Ralph Bane won over S. A. Wheeler by a bare majority of five votes, although Bane had felt so certain of election that he resigned a deputyship at the Courthouse in the Tax Collector's office to make the race. The defeated candidate is considering the matter of contesting the election. The grounds for contest are based on the alleged fact that a large number of ballots that had been voted were thrown out in the several precincts because they had been improperly marked for members of the Board of Education. Instead of annulling these ballots on that one office they were not counted for any officer, although there was no error except in the one particular.

POSTAL TRAFFIC INCREASE.

In the year just ended the Santa Monica postoffice did an aggregate business of $11,889.53, as compared with a total of $10,351.24 for the preceding twelve months. Each quarter of the year was larger than that for the corresponding quarter of the year before, and both years were in excess of the total required by the government for the establishing of the free mail delivery system. Santa Monica was entitled to this convenience a year ago, and inspectors were sent at that time to make an investigation. Their report has never been made public.

Large crowds still at Coronado.

PREPARE FOR INVASION.

Venice Plans to Entertain Delegates to National Education Association Next July.

VENICE, April 2.—The Venice Chamber of Commerce is rustling with the plans for the entertainment of the thirty or more thousand delegates to the National Educational Association, who are expected to come to this beach for one day of their session at Los Angeles early in July. The official programme of entertainment includes one day on the strand, and by invitation of the Chamber of Commerce of Venice it will be made their headquarters. All of the Venetian show places will be at the service of the visitors, and the best music will be provided for their entertainment.

G. Ghrisner, one time valet to Gaston Akoun, the inventor of Midway Plaisance, has been taken to Los Angeles for examination as to his mental condition. Ghrisner, who is a native of India, is possessed with the idea that his neckties are snakes. The fellow played the part of Kiki at the "Foolish House" on the Midway for several months, and was a familiar figure along the trail.

At the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce last night Abbot Kinney introduced a resolution pledging the support of home people to home merchants and institutions. The resolution was adopted, in the belief that the way to build up a community is to patronize home institutions and not send money out of town for anything that can be purchased from local dealers.

The society ball at the Windward-avenue dancing pavilion tonight was one of the season's most charming social affairs. Given under the patronage of Mrs. George Sibley and Miss Ella Slauson, the ball was attended by persons residing all along shore and from Los Angeles and near-by cities. Several special cars brought guests over the electric line from Los Angeles.

PRIEST LEAVES FOR EUROPE.

SOLDIERS' HOME, April 2.—Chaplain of the Home, Rev. P. Hawe, P.P., after thirty-five years' continuous labor in clerical harness, left for New York on Tuesday, en route to Europe, to be absent for three months. His itinerary will include, besides incidental incursions, visits to Gibraltar, Naples, Rome, where he will enjoy an audience with the Pope, thence through Italy, Germany, Switzerland, Belgium, France, Spain and England. Finally to his childhood's home in Ireland. He will be in time for the World's Fair in Dublin, he says, and will visit, also, at Killarney. Asked if he would kiss the Blarney Stone, when so near it, the good old father smiled while he modestly disclaimed any thought of the kind.

Father Hawe was born in 1847, and graduated from All-Hallows' College, Dublin, Ireland, in 1872. In the same year he was ordained to priesthood, and was immediately appointed to the diocese of Monterey and Los Angeles, where he officiated in various parishes until 1886, when he came to Santa Monica.

Upon the establishment of the Pacific branch of the Soldiers' Home, he was appointed its (Catholic) chaplain, where, by his faithful and gentle ministrations, he has endeared himself to the veterans of the Home, who wish him bon voyage.

SCHOOL FIGHT GETS HOT.

New Candidate for Trustee in Long Beach on a Platform of Retaining Morgan.

LONG BEACH, April 2.—As a result of the fight against Prof. J. J. Morgan, superintendent of schools here, George H. Blount of Alamitos has announced his candidacy for school trustee against William Schilling.

Mr. Blount will be candidate on a platform of retaining Prof. Morgan as against any change of management.

Mr. Blount has a strong following and the election Friday promises to be the hottest contested one ever held in the district. Almost the only argument offered against the retention of Prof. Morgan is that he is a stern disciplinarian and deals with infractions of school rules without distinction as to the wealth, power or influence of the offender's parents. Conservative citizens are fearful that any change of superintendents may again disrupt the system.

The trouble existing has attracted widespread attention and in anticipation of a change five of the most popular teachers of the High School have in the past three weeks received calls to better positions. Prof. A. B. Clayton today received a call to the English department of the Kelo Gijuka University at Tokio, Japan. Miss Moody has a call to the science department of a high school in the northern part of the State and Miss Willshire has an invitation from Berkeley.

WEDS SON OF ITALY.

With her mother's reluctant consent given because she said nothing could shake her daughter's determination, Miss Olive Hurlbut went to Santa Ana yesterday in company with Rubino Muscente, one of the clarinet players of the Royal Italian Band, and they were united in marriage by the Superior judge there. Then Mr. and Mrs. Muscente hastened to Pasadena, where the groom was booked to play at the band concert. The bride, who is a young violinist of Los Angeles and with her mother is spending the winter in Long Beach, has just passed her eighteenth birthday. She is a pupil of Francisco and her mother, Mrs. F. E. Hurlbut, had planned to take her to Europe in May to complete her studies, but Cupid interfered and won the mother's acquiescence in the marriage. Now the programme is for Signor Muscente and his wife to go to Italy in the fall, where the musical studies will be completed.

SEASHORE NEWS POINTS.

Mayor F. H. Downs's attention this morning being called to the extortionate demand of $25 a day being made by G. W. Ray for delay caused in repairs to his house by the illness of a neighbor, Mrs. Moore, he paid a visit to the parties and after notifying the Moores not to pay any more demands, ordered the Rays to postpone their work and cease demanding pay, and said that in the interest of human kindness and justice he would enforce his orders if necessary. Ray demurred but the Mayor stood firm and no payment was made today nor was any work attempted.

The City Trustees at their meeting tonight adopted a new and simplified system of book-keeping for the City Clerk, whereby all bond funds will be combined into one redemption fund and budgets of different departments of city work kept separate and apart.

Census Marshal Clarke will begin the work of taking the school census April 15, and has appointed as his assistants Robert Van Vleck, Frank de Clerque and Stewart Langlin. Last year's returns showed 4123 children of school age. A substantial increase is expected this year.

Plans are being perfected for the removal of the Obispo refinery in the southwest part of the city to Sunset, about forty miles from Bakersfield. The plant consists of sixteen stills, and the chief output has been asphalt, stove oil, kerosene and gasoline of a low grade. Eight stills have been moved to Sunset, and orders are expected daily for the removal of the remainder of the plant.

The Salt Lake road today filed formal protest against the proposed opening and widening of Harbor avenue at West Long Beach. The company contends that it has never been dedicated as a street, and that there is no definite high-tide line. The protest is a preliminary to fighting the condemnation proceedings now in progress.

Jacob Beattus, president of the Sonoma Wine Company of Los Angeles, charged with violating the liquor ordinance, this morning withdrew his plea of not guilty and interposed a general demurrer to the complaint which will be heard Saturday before City Recorder Hart.

In March there were fourteen deaths in Long Beach, of which six were of non-residents. There were nine births reported, four boys and five girls.

Neatly bound copies of the new city charter have been presented by Assemblyman Thompson to the board of freeholders and several city officials. They were gotten up by the State Printer.

MONROVIA.

MONROVIA, April 2.—Mrs. John Doyle, wife of a commission merchant of Los Angelez, was seriously injured here yesterday. She has been staying at La Vista Grande Hotel for some time, but recently rented a residence on Mayflower avenue. She drove down to the postoffice yesterday and in an attempt to alight from the buggy fell, striking the cement sidewalk heavily. She was picked up unconscious and taken to the hotel, where medical assistance was summoned. It was found that besides internal injuries one of the bones of the left arm was broken.

The postal receipts here for the month of March exceed those of the corresponding month of last year by over 30 per cent.

Mrs. Frank W. Stanley has received word of the death of her father, Jackson Loomis, a resident of Diamond Springs, Kan. Mr. and Mrs. Loomis visited their daughter here last November.

AZUSA.

AZUSA, April 2.—At last night's meeting of the Chamber of Commerce it was decided to make a bid for the location of the State Normal School in Azusa by offering the school authorities the choice of two sites, each of which contains about thirty acres. One tract lies north of the city at the foot of the mountain and has a magnificent view of the San Gabriel Valley to the ocean. The other location is just west of the residence center, on the famous "Foothill Boulevard" and carries an abundance of water stock.

The B. R. Davison Contracting Company have begun work on the new $12,000 reservoir for the city water system.

COVINA.

COVINA, April 2.—The Fortnightly Club met last night. Assemblymen Thompson of Alhambra and Cogswell of El Monte were present, and both delivered addresses upon the procedure of the late California Legislature. Other speakers of the evening were Gen. S. P. Jennison and R. M. Douglas.

HARD LUMBER OF PHILIPPINES.

THIS PRODUCT ALONE MAKES THE ISLANDS VALUABLE.

A Cleveland Man Interested in the Islands Prophesies a Great Use for This Philippine Wood in America and This Will Make the Islands Valuable.

That Philippine products will eventually be largely used in the trades in this country is the firm belief of C. A. Ricks, secretary-treasurer of the Kuhlman Car Company of Collinwood, O. Mr. Ricks believes the Philippines have a great future and is inclined to question the intimation that the United States has a "white elephant" on its hands.

"At the present time several Cleveland firms are directly interested in the Islands," said Mr. Ricks. "The Nicola-Stone & Meyers Company, a large lumber house of Cleveland, operates a 60,000 acre tract of timber land in the Philippines and is selling Philippine woods here in Cleveland.

"The Kuhlman Car Company is using Philippine wood called 'lauan' in the interior finish of two big handsome suburban cars now building for the Rochester-Syracuse and Eastern Railway. These will be the first electric cars in the United States finished in Philippine woods, and there is no question at all that in a very few months 'lauan' will replace Mexican mahogany in the interior finish of suburban cars.

"I believe that more money will be taken out of the Philippine Islands in lumber alone in the next ten to fifteen years, than was taken out of Alaska in gold in the first ten to fifteen years after the United States purchased Alaska.

"The future wealth of the Philippines will lie mainly in the vast forests of valuable timber which they contain. This view is entertained by the administration, and the most farseeing measures have been adopted to conserve the extensive areas of public woodland.

"The archipelago has never been completely surveyed, but the official estimates, from which the following figures are deduced, probably approximate to exactness. The total land area of the islands is upward of 72,000,000 acres. Of this more than 66,000,000 are the property of the state and about 45,000,000 acres of this public domain are wooded, leaving 21,000,000 acres of land mostly capable of cultivation.

"But the prince of cabinet woods is narra, the mahogany of the Philippines. The tree grows to a great height —120 feet and over— and yields logs by the present process sixty feet in length and seven or more in diameter. The trunk at the roots will sometimes furnish a table top ten to twelve feet across. When cut the heart of the tree bleeds a bright red. The wood is deep red—there is a less prized white variety—and polishes to a brilliant vermillion color."

Astonishing.
It's astonishing what profitable results are achieved by a very small expenditure for a "want" advertisement in The Times. The desire for anything can be gratified by the cost of a Times' "Liner," and at so small an expense that it isn't worth talking about. Convince yourself by a trial.

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRES

SAYS NIECE DROVE HER OUT.

BEAUMONT WOMAN BRINGS SUIT FOR HER HOME.

Alleges That She Deeded the Property to the Relative With the Understanding That She Was to Have a Pleasant Home for the Rest of Her Life.

RIVERSIDE, April 2.—After having deeded away her home to a niece on the promise of loving care and protection for the remainder of her life, Mrs. M. M. Fisher of Beaumont alleges that the niece had turned against her, has driven her from the property and has made life generally unpleasant for her.

Mrs. Fisher brought suit in the Superior Court today to have the deed canceled. She claims that the only consideration for making the agreement with her niece was the promise that the younger woman would make a pleasant home for her during the last years of her life. She alleges that this promise was not made in good faith, but for the purpose of defrauding her of her property, which consists of the two-story building in Beaumont known as Hotel Del Paso. This property is valued at $2000 and has been in the possession of Mrs. Fisher for over twenty years.

The circumstances are the more pitiful from the fact that Mrs. Fisher is in feeble health and is 69 years old. The niece, Mrs. Emma J. Taylor, is defendant in the suit. In her complaint Mrs. Fisher alleges that Mrs. Taylor came with her husband and little son to live with her a year ago. The niece persuaded the aunt to execute a deed, so that after the death of the latter the hotel might become hers. Thereupon, without the knowledge or consent of Mrs. Fisher, the younger woman had the instrument recorded. A systematic course of persecution against her benefactor followed, Mrs. Fisher claims, culminating in a written notice given her by her niece to vacate the hotel.

In her complaint Mrs. Fisher asks for the recovery of the property. Her attorney is R. E. Bledsoe of San Bernardino.

HIS LIFE CRUSHED OUT.

Joshua Bacon, a rancher residing on East Twelfth street, met a shocking death yesterday afternoon by being crushed under the wheels of a wagon heavily loaded with oranges. The unfortunate man was driving in from the ranch of his employer, C. Sarlet, at Highgrove, with a load of fruit. The ropes which held the boxes became loosened and Bacon stopped the team and went to the back of the wagon to tighten the fastenings. As he did so the horses started to run. Bacon rushed to their bits to stop them. He stumbled and fell under their hoofs, the frightened animals reared, and after trampling him dragged the wagon over his body. He was frightfully crushed by the wheels and died within a few hours at the City Hospital.

FOR REFORESTATION.

At its quarterly meeting the Tri-Counties Reforestation Committee selected Francis Cuttle, chairman of the committee, as its representative at the National Irrigation Congress, which will meet in Sacramento next fall. The next meeting of the committee will be held in Santa Ana July 1.

The committee discussed with much interest the project of securing a complete list of the private holdings in the timber belt in the San Bernardino Mountains, with a view to bringing about their purchase by the government. The importance was urged of securing, at all events, the land from which timber has been cut.

The committee has adopted as its object the diminishing of the winter and spring run-off and the increasing of the summer flow of water from the San Bernardino Mountains. This is to be brought about, first, by securing to the Federal government the ownership of all lands within the outside bounds of the San Bernardino Forest Reserve; second, by preventing the further destruction of timber and brush within this reserve; third, by reforesting all denuded areas, and, fourth, by afforesting, where practicable, all areas not now covered with sufficient timber to conserve to the best advantage the precipitation falling on this reserve.

GIFT TO SANTA ANA.

City Is Presented With Two Blocks for Park Purposes—Swindler Wanted.

SANTA ANA, April 2.—Last night the city was given two blocks by H. T. Heninger and M. R. Heninger, to be used for park purposes. The property is on South Broadway, between Highland and Cubbon streets. The condition upon which this gift is made is that the city immediately sidewalk the park and have it laid off and planted under the direction of a landscape gardener. The city accepted the gift and a committee, consisting of Trustees Edgar, Tiede and Black, was appointed to draw up the necessary papers and agreements.

SWINDLES RANCHERS.

A wood chopper last week got away with $25 from each of two ranchers living on the San Joaquin ranch. One of the victims was Mrs. Albert Fuller. The wood chopper's name is E. L. Jennings. He was chopping wood for William Cubbon, and told his neighbors that should they want sewing machines he could make good buys for he had been in the sewing machine business. He took the cash

SWINDLES RANCHERS.

A wood chopper last week got away with $35 from each of two ranchers living on the San Joaquin ranch. One of the victims was Mrs. Albert Fuller. The wood chopper's name is E. I. Jennings.

He was chopping wood for William Cubbon, and told his neighbors that should they want sewing machines he could make good buys for he had been in the sewing machine business. He took the cash into town with him and sent out two sewing machines. Today it was found that the machines were bought on contract and that Jennings had paid only a little down on them and had pocketed the remainder. Jennings has disappeared.

BRUTALITY CHARGED.

Little 13-year-old Rufino Cardenas was yesterday laid in his grave, believed to have been the victim of a brutal father's beating. José Cardenas, the father, is now in jail awaiting trial on a charge of attempting to kill his daughter with an ax. Neighbors of the family at McPherson say that last Fourth of July Rufino was terribly beaten and that as a result of his treatment he went into a decline, tuberculosis setting in and death following. Dist.-Atty. Davis is making an investigation.

WOULD SELL THE HOME.

If a suit commenced in the Superior Court today goes as the plaintiffs wish it, the last portion of the once broad domain of Don Marco Forster will be sold and the proceeds divided among the heirs of the Forster estate. Two of the heirs, Mrs. Lucana McFadden and George Forster, have brought suit against John and Frank Forster and Mrs. Ysidora Echenique, the other heirs, asking that the old Forster home at San Juan Capistrano be sold. The Forster house at the mission town is one of the landmarks of the county. The whole of the estate has been sold with the exception of the home.

John Wilson, proprietor of the Delhi Creamery, is threatened with lockjaw. A few days ago he had one thumb crushed. Blood poisoning set in and amputation was necessary. Last night it was feared that he could not be saved. Today he is better.

Marriage licenses have been issued to Rubino Muscente, aged 25, and Olive Huribut, aged 18, both of Los Angeles; John E. Larmore, aged 25, and Maud Miller, aged 24, both of San Pedro; William Vanderventer, aged 23 and Ora Bell Morrison, aged 20, both of Los Angeles.

WELL-KNOWN MEN DEAD.

A. P. Hayne and William Ealand Pass Away at Santa Barbara—Cool Burglar.

SANTA BARBARA, April 2.—A. P. Hayne, youngest son of Mrs. Margarita L. Hayne of Montecito, died suddenly this morning. He was 40 years old. During the past three years he has been an active promoter of the interests of the valley, and to him should be given the credit for the promotion of a good road system. He served as a soldier in the Philippines and before his enlistment, was professor of viticulture at the University of California. While in the Philippines he contracted an illness and returned to this country a physical wreck.

WILLIAM EALAND DEAD.

William Ealand, who has been a resident of this city for thirty-five years, died yesterday afternoon after a long illness. He was the head of the Ealand Packing Company and was 65 years old. He leaves a wife, two sons and two daughters. He was a member of the Elks and was also an Odd Fellow. The former organization will have charge of the funeral, which will take place tomorrow afternoon.

BURGLAR WITH GUN.

Last night J. H. Richardson of Bath street, was startled by a noise in the first story of his home. On investigating, he was confronted by a man and a revolver. The robber forced him to give up his trousers, from which were secured $50. About an hour later the people in the house of G. A. Sanders, a few blocks from Richardson's home, were awakened by the noise of a burglar and frightened him away.

HAMMER DROP LIKELY FATAL.

Colton Man Is Critically Injured by Accident in Operation of Fruit Shipping.

COLTON, April 2.—William Schnell was fatally injured this morning while at work for the Fruit Growers' Express here. Schnell was employed on the ground, while William Lettner was engaged on top of a box car. Lettner accidentally dropped a heavy machinist's hammer, striking Schnell on the head with such force as to crush his skull.

He was at once taken to the Colton Hospital, where Drs. Champion and Pritchard operated upon him. No hope is held out for his recovery. Mr. Schnell's home is in San Bernardino.

TAKES WOMAN NORTH.

New facts have developed in the case of Mrs. Helen Freyermuth, the demented woman who escaped a few days ago from her relatives at Pomona. She was taken from a Southern Pacific train at Colton and her relatives were notified. Her husband, Dr. Otto G. Freyermuth, a practicing physician of San Francisco, was unaware of his wife's serious condition until he read the account in The Times. The doctor immediately came South and returned to the North, taking his wife and children with him.

At the time of the earthquake, Mrs. Freyermuth was visiting her parents about sixty miles from San Francisco. Her husband remained in the city, and the suspense with no news of him for a long while proved too much for her feeble health.

Hotel del Coronado always pleases.

CORONA.

CORONA, April 2.—For the purpose of erecting a new Christian Church, members of that denomination at the Sunday evening service pledged money to the amount of $1030. It is expected over $3000 will be raised for a beginning. The plan is to erect a 55x50 foot one-story frame building with basement on the quarter block owned by the church. The building now occupied by the church will be moved to one side and used for a Sunday-school room.

William M. Duee, Deputy United States Geological Surveyor, arrived here yesterday from San Francisco and left today for Rincon, where with two men he will begin the survey of the forest reservations extending from Rincon to Temescal. The work, which will require two months to complete, has to be gone over to replace charts that were destroyed by fire in San Francisco last April. Duee made the survey several years ago, but as the monuments are now accurately placed the work will not be so tedious as heretofore.

Improvements on the Ben White ranch in the foothills at the head of Main street are being continued. The capacity of the reservoir is to be increased to fifteen million gallons by building the dam twenty feet higher. An iron building 20x200 feet is to be contsurcted for storage for farm implements and to accommodate the ranch blacksmith shop.

To beautify the landscape garden portion of the White ranch 400 filifera palms and 300 pine trees have been set.

E. N. Day, a Santa Fé freight engineer, was fined $10 for closing the Main-street crossing half an hour. He failed to appear in court yesterday, so the $10 cash bond he put up was forfeited and stood as his fine.

José Gonzales, who was believed to have been the unknown Mexican burned in the Ritchie house last fall, returned here recently, leaving the fire victim still unknown.

W. H. Jamesson and daughter, Miss Bernice, of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce excursion party, returned home yesterday. Misses Helen and Stella Platt of the same party are in Los Angeles and Pasadena for a few days.

FORWARD ELECTED MAYOR.

Republican Victory in the Municipal Contest in San Diego—Puterbaugh Wins.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN DIEGO, April 2.—The city election today resulted in a victory for the Republicans. Their candidate for Mayor, John F. Forward, defeated Grant Conrad, Non-Partisan, by 300, and R. V. Dodge, Democrat, by 500. The Republicans also elected ex-Judge George Puterbaugh City Attorney and secured five out of the nine seats in the City Council. Claude Woolman, who was on both Republican and Non-Partisan tickets, was chosen City Treasurer.

STILL GRILLING GOTHAM POLICE.

PEOPLE DEMAND MORE HONESTY IN THE FORCE.

Battle Waging to Put Inspectors Under Actual Control of Commissioner—Fortune in Art Treasures Stolen from Henry Siegel—Columbia Professor Has Novel Plan.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 26.—It is a long time since the disclosures of the investigation by the Lexow Commission humiliated but did not astonish the people of the whole country. There was a lot of dirty linen washed before the commission shut the gates and went home. Men old enough to remember some of the testimony brought out by the commission never cease to regret the escape of certain witnesses, who were permitted to get out of the department without having matriculated at Sing Sing. On the pay roll of the police department there are today names of men who were hand in glove with some of those who perjured themselves without turning an eyelash when testifying before the Lexow Commission. Probably only death will rescue the community from their malign influence in the department.

This is all apropos of the battle that is being waged up at Albany between the police inspectors and their political satraps on the one side, and the honest-minded members of the Senate, backed by the people of the city, on the other. In the Assembly the bill commonly called the Bingham Bill was passed recently, despite every effort of some of the members of the body to prevent it getting to the Senate. The purpose of the bill is to enable the Police Commissioner to do something more with an inspector who for whatever reason he fails to do his duty, than he can do under existing laws. As matters now stand, an inspector of the police force of this city is little more than nominally subordinate to the commissioner. The commissioner might as well try to clean the streets of snow and filth after a storm as to undertake to discipline an inspector. But this bill, which Mr. Bingham and his friends are laboring so hard to make a law, will give the commissioner the power of removal for cause, and will make his power over all members of the police force absolute.

Several of the present inspectors are, if their records count for anything, sadly out of place as protectors of the people who hire them for that purpose, and nothing else. These men, trained in all the tricks known to their former masters, are incapable of comprehending the meaning of the little word "honor." Their whole estimate of men and things is perverted. They call him who walks the straight and narrow path of rectitude a "sucker," a word which, in their vocabulary, implies utter contempt for him to whom it is addressed.

Thieves, presumed by those who have made a study of crime to be amateurs, robbed the summer home of Henry Siegel of paintings, tapestries and other objects of art worth $100,000. The valuable paintings were cut from their frames, much after the manner of the famous Gainsboroughs stolen in Europe many years ago and only recently recovered by one "Pat" Sheedy, well known as a gambler. This latest robbery has led Sheedy to give for the benefit of other thieves who contemplate a similar haul some sound advice. Here is what he says, in part:

"I doubt very much if the thieves who looted the Siegel place will make much by their artistic taste. If the pictures were not worth much intrinsically they stand a better chance of disposing of them, but even so they will be running considerable risk. See that picture there? It doesn't look like much, does it? But it's a Corot and I value it at $15,000. If that should disappear there would be trouble. They simply couldn't get rid of it. If they got an ordinary lot of canvasses, why it's a different matter. At any rate they were foolish.

"A picture is worth absolutely nothing except for show purposes and what is more, the more valuable a picture is the less is it worth—for thieves. They cannot show it. That much is certain. If they tried to sell it they would be almost sure to be apprehended. No decent man would accept it from them as a gift. Take the case of those fellows who cut several pictures from the frames in Mr. Siegel's house. They must have been actuated by private feelings of revenge—were probably servants who had a grievance. If they were real thieves they would have realized that the pictures would be worthless to them."

New York housewives have just made another discovery which adds to their comforts and detracts from their housekeeping cares, as is shown by the following conversation between one one them and a casual visitor:

"I think we have everything now except the towels," remarked the newly-established.

"Why do you buy any of them?" asked the visitor. "Why don't you just hire them from the Towel Supply Company? I get mine that way."

"You do?" exclaimed the newly-established. "I thought they only delivered to offices and factories."

"I believe they used to confine their dealings to commercial concerns," said the visitor, "but of late they have been supplying a great many lodging and boarding houses and private families. The families mostly live in flats which they have rented for a short while. Those who keep house on a large scale patronize such firms because they have evidently come to the conclusion that the wear and tear and the expense of laundering towels makes them more costly as a personal than as a hired asset."

To broaden the minds of both students and professors in American colleges, Prof. Ridolf Tombo, Jr., registrar of Columbia University, has a unique plan, modelled on a similar one now in practice in Germany. He expects to lay his plan before the next assemblage of the American universities.

The professor thinks that one year is enough for a teacher to spend in one college at a time, and that by the time he has gone the rounds of the colleges and gets back to his starting point he will be much more competent to fulfil his duties.

The annual report of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company for 1906 shows that the subway and elevated lines, which are operated in the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx only, carried on an average of 1,151,514 passengers a day.

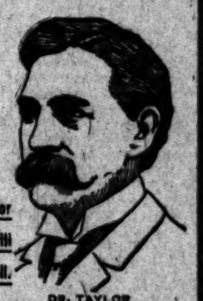
MEN ONLY

I Cure the Cases That Others Cannot Cure

A bold statement, but just as true as it is bold. Not all cases that others fail to cure are curable by my methods, but fully ninety per cent. of them are. The way to learn whether your case is curable is to consult me. I know exactly what can be done in every instance. I ought to know this, for I have done nothing else other than treat men's diseases for twenty-five years. If your case is curable I will treat you. If it isn't I will not. If I treat you, and if you so desire,



I Will Wait for May Fee Until You Are Well.

DR. TAYLOR
The Leading Specialist

WEAKNESS

Weakness in men is comparatively a simple ailment and is but a symptom of local disorder, a congestion of an important nerve center. No stimulating treatment, whether internal or locally applied, can do more than excite temporary activity. By my system of local treatment I restore absolutely normal conditions throughout the organs involved, which promptly results in complete and permanent restoration of strength and vigor. This treatment is original with me, and is the only radical and certain cure yet devised.

VARICOCELE

Varicocele is a relaxation, knotting and twisting of the most vital blood vessels of the organic system. It stagnates the local circulation and interferes with the processes of waste and repair. Neglect brings derangement of functions and injury to the general health. Most physicians resort to surgical operations and hospital treatment for cure. Varicocele in one week without operation, pain or detention from business. My cures are absolutely permanent and no ill effects whatever can follow my treatment.

I also cure all special diseases of men such as Hydrocele, Nervous Debility, Blood Diseases, etc.

EXAMINATION FREE

I offer not only Free Consultation and Advice, but to every case that comes to me I will make a careful Examination and Diagnosis without charge. No ailing man should neglect this opportunity to get expert opinion about his trouble. If you cannot call, write for diagnosis chart. My offices are open all day from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., and Sundays from 10 to 1.

WEAK MEN! Do You Want to Be Strong?

To feel young again! To realize the joyous sparkle of nerve life as it infuses the body with its glowing vitality; to feel the magnetic enthusiasm of youthful energy; to be happy, light-hearted and full of joyous impulses; to be free from spells of despondency, from brain-wandering, from the dull, stupid feeling; to have confidence, self-esteem and the admiration of men and women! Such is the wish of the broken-down man, and it may be gratified.

Blood Poison, Kidney Trouble and Sexual Weakness Cured
Goldfield, Nev.

The Dr. McLaughlin Co.

Dear Sir—Your Belt is all right. It has done me a world of good and cured as bad a case of weakness ever heard any one speak of. My blood was badly poisoned and my stomach would not assimilate food, no matter how careful I might be about my diet. My kidneys were badly out of order and the sexual organs weakened, but all that is changed, and I am a well man, only too glad to recommend treatment whenever I have a chance to do so.

Yours truly,
MAX PANNER (Box 698).

Weak Men Can Be Cured

Men who are "only half men" can be made the most perfect specimens of physical manhood by wearing Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt. It is worn for six or eight hours daily, mostly during sleep. It pours a glowing stream of electric energy into the weakened nerves and organs, filling them with the vigor of youth. From the first day a new spirit is felt in the veins, the joyous ambition of youth springs forth, and you are a man among men.

Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt

Has made thousands of homes happy. It is as good for women as for men. Man and wife can use the same Belt. The regulator makes it strong or mild, to suit the wearer. It is the only Electric Belt in the world that can be regulated while on the body. You feel the power, but it does not burn and blister as do the old-style bare metal electrode belts.

I know that Electricity is the force that makes vitality, and I use it to build up men who are nervous, hesitating, sleepless, failing in memory, losing self-confidence, weak in heart and stomach, losing youthful ambition and courage. Men like that, or those with pains in the back, rheumatism, sciatica and those other troubles which follow a lack of nature's vital power, I can cure. I can make them feel young, strong and energetic with my Electric Belt. If you are such a man come to me. My Belt is in a class by itself.

Cystitis and Prostatitis
Hernia or Rupture
Varicocele or Hydrocele
Nervous Debility
Skin Diseases
Tumors, Ulcers, Etc.
Chronic Diseases

We hold out no false hopes. We fulfill every promise.

Chronic Cases

We solicit the most stubborn, persistent and long-standing cases, because we have had wonderful success in curing diseases in most aggravated form, and every instance of that sort contributes to our fame as Specialists. We bend every effort to effect a cure, which shall be immediately beneficial and lasting for the remainder of your life. Our advice how to avoid recurrence of trouble is often worth more than our simple charge for medicine. Yet we make NO CHARGE FOR INSTRUCTION AND HYGIENIC ADVICE. Many men incur diseases peculiar to their sex through ignorance—lack of education upon the physiology of certain organs of the body. We come to help you to regain your health and retain your powers. Call on us if in trouble or distress. We will relieve you.

Debility

Some men are born weak, but for every case of this kind there are hundreds of men who incur weakness through their own carelessness or imprudence. If you are growing nervous and melancholy over what seems to be Debility, let us help you. Do not seek temporary stimulants. We preach temperance. We can remove the effects of imprudence, and restore functions to normal power when overtaxed and in a state of declination. Seek our cure. Secure our advice. We will give satisfaction in from thirty to ninety days.

Yesterday's Forecast and Report.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, Los Angeles, April 2.—[Reported by A. H. Wollaber, Local Forecaster.] At 5 o'clock a.m. the barometer registered 30.01; at 5 p.m., 30.06. Thermometer for the corresponding hours showed 52 deg. and 56 deg. Relative humidity, 5 a.m., 81 per cent.; 5 p.m., 63 per cent. Wind, 5 a.m., 8 mi. velocity 4 miles; 5 p.m., southwest, velocity 10 miles. Maximum temperature, 62 deg.; minimum, 52 deg. Rainfall past twenty-four hours, .10 of an inch; rainfall for season, 19.09 inches. Barometer reduced to sea level.

Weather Conditions.—The weather continues unsettled over the western portion of the country. The western storm area now extends thru the intermountain region, with reports of depression over Nevada, Wyoming and Kansas. It has caused light showers in Southern California, and heavier amounts in Utah, Northern Arizona and Western Colorado. An immense high area overlies the States east of the Mississippi River, and fair, cold weather continues in that section, except along the immediate Atlantic coast, where rain has occurred. The weather in Los Angeles and vicinity will continue cloudy and unsettled tonight, probably followed by clearing weather Wednesday. During the process of clearing, an occasional shower is probable.

Forecasts.—Local forecast for Los Angeles and vicinity: Unsettled, cloudy weather, possibly with showers, tonight; Wednesday, clearing; winds becoming westerly.

UPWARD TENDENCY IN MANY LISTED STOCKS.

TRADING was confined exclusively to Associated Oil during the early call on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday. This stock showed a remarkably healthy tone, selling at 43.87½, 2 5-8 points of a rise as compared with Monday's highest level. The total amount of stock transferred was 99 shares new issue and 164 shares of the old issue. The close was at 43.25@43.50, with the closing sale at 43.25, the stock showing a slight tendency to weaken at the conclusion of the call. The bid was up 2¼ and the holding price shows a stiffening of 1¾ points as compared with Monday's close. The reason for the strength in this security is said to be the purchase by strong inside parties of a block of stock amounting to between 350,000 and 400,000 shares, old issue, which is said to have been the last of the enormous holdings of Associated Oil stock owned by C. A. Canfield. Canfield is credited with having owned about 3,000,000 shares, old issue, and is said to have taken advantage of every rise in price to dump off a few thousand shares, thus keeping the market depressed. The price is said to have been 50 cents for the lot. However, rumors of this nature have been rife for nearly two years regarding Canfield's position in the Associated, and this may be only a scheme to milk the market for suckers.

Columbia Oil was stationary at 80¾@83. Olinda Land and Oil remained steady, closing at 19½@20¾. Central Oil shows a fractional rise to 1.13¾, with an offering at 1.15. Mexican Petroleum closed with the stock quoted at 1.30½@1.33. Rice Ranch was inactive. Union showed no further tendency to slump, being bid for at 209 and offered at 212, the asked price being 2 up. Union Provident was offered at 212 also, but this was a decline of 3 points as compared with former prices, the bid was at 208, this being down 6. Globe Oil remained practically stationary.

Miscellaneous securities were almost neglected. Home preferred was offered at 66 and bid for at 63. Common closed at 23.00@27.50. Los Angeles Investment showed strong at 1.90@1.95, but did not trade.

Among the bank stocks, Home Savings shows a sharp rise on the bid, closing at 139 with none offered. This quotation is up 2½. Globe Savings is up 1 on the bid at 108@110. German American was offered at 218.50 and closed without a bid. First National was weaker on the bid at 420 with the asked at 430. Bonds were quiet and steady.

Indications seem to point to the fact that the bottom has been reached in the downward path of Clark Copper. This stock, which has lost fully 65 points within the last five months, and sold as low as 23 on Monday, made a sharp rise yesterday, and sold up to 25¾ on sales of 10,000 shares. Sales opened at 25, at which point 8000 shares changed hands; 1000 sold at 27, buyer sixty days, and one lot of 1000 shares went at 25¾. The close was at 25¾@26¾, the bid being up 4¾, and the holding price having strengthened 3¼ points, as compared with the first of the week. It seems that a clique of three brokers have been buying Clark Copper quietly for fully fifteen days and have gathered in about 35,000 shares on a dropping scale from about 35 cents. Inside orders are said to have occasioned these purchases. Yesterday an outside broker showed up with a fair sized selling order, and the clique attempted to bear the market and make him let go at low prices. In this they were fooled. When they offered their own stock at fairly low price it was snapped up, leaving them short, after which they began a wild scramble to recover, and as a result the stock stiffened.

Furnace Creek Copper, an allied security, which has been following the downward course of the above mentioned stock, also stiffened considerably, being bid for at 1.50 and held firmly at 1.85. The bid was up 25 points. None sold. The remainder of the mining list showed little tendency to follow the rise of the two Clark issues. Johnnie Consolidated sold at 10¼@10½, buyer ninety days, while cash transactions were made at 9¾; 10,000 shares in all changing hands. Consolidated Mines sold at 1¾, but the other listed securities were inactive.

Citrus Fruit Shipments.

There were 89 cars of oranges and 3 cars of lemons shipped from Southern California yesterday. Total to date, this season, 13,226 cars, of which 1238 cars were lemons. Total to same date last season, 14,194 cars, of which 1486 were lemons.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Owing to the unsettled condition of the weather the produce market was uneven yesterday morning. Demand for staples was light, so sales were made at the morning exchange call.

Egg receipts are heavy. Arrivals from the east yesterday were five carloads. These went into storage at once, but broken packages were put on the market. Eastern April eggs for storing will be in heavy receipt from now until the end of the egg storing season. Ranch eggs were steady. Stormy weather may have a tendency to make egg prices firm temporarily. A few dealers were getting 21c for fancy selected local offerings yesterday.

Butter stocks are heavy. The surplus goes into storage, but dealers say that prices are too high for profit. Declines are forecasted for the latter part of this week. Should the rain continue it would serve to steady the butter market.

Potatoes are unchanged and steady for fancy grades. Concessions in quoted prices are made on common and choice stock of potatoes. Seed potatoes are in big demand. The potato crop will be light in the north this year on account of the floods, and local ranchers are planting more potatoes this year than ever before.

Onions show little change. The Richardson & Bishop Fruit Company reported in the first carload of Bermuda onions from Texas yesterday. The onions are quoted at 2.25 per crate.

Vegetables were in good supply, with few changes.

Fish was cleaned up early.

The receipts of produce as reported for yesterday's sales were as follows: Eggs, 837 cases; butter, 18,910 lbs.; cheese, 9017 lbs.; potatoes, 1863 sacks; onions, none; beans, 4 sacks; sweet potatoes, none.

SHARES AND MONEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, April 2.—The stock market was influenced today by the pace at which the recovery has been going from the extreme depression from the first part of last week. A disposition to take profits on the considerable recovery which occurred, coincided with a lessened inclination to buy stocks. The sustaining measure which had been apparent for several days has not entirely been withdrawn, and there was a halting and irregular movement of prices which testified to the conflict of the forces in the market. The conflict relapsed more into professional hands and quotations increased in dullness. The measure of support in the market was particularly effective against the unfavorable influence of the fall of prices of markets in London. Prices in London early today, after the holiday, were not much higher than when they left off on Thursday, and the tone was firm. The prices were regarded as largely nominal and the support in the local market here had no difficulty in bringing quotations well over last night's level. The aggressive strength of a few stocks had a large sympathetic influence on this result. It was from this restored level of the market that the movement became wavering and uncertain again. There was no immediate development in sight to account for this action, and it was attributed largely to technical causes. The relaxation there was marked and practically universal here and abroad. In London the private discount rate yielded to the low bank rate for the first time in many weeks. New York bankers secured $2,500,000 of gold in London without bidding higher than the prevailing rate. The effect was pronounced, however, on the sterling exchange market here, which rebounded violently. The funds in time loans were notably increased and 5½ per cent. Date was quoted for all periods. These conditions helped to the later recovery in stocks. The day's net changes showed declines predominating and the closing of the market was rather heavy. Bonds were more benefited by the rising money market than stocks and there was an appearance of considerable absorption and demand at rising prices. Total sales, par value, $4,812,000.

United States bonds were unchanged on call.

SYNOPSIS.

THE CITY. Col. Rufus Herron says he'll quit the Chamber of Commerce because he's "not appreciated;" some of the things that happened on the recent excursion to Honolulu; complaints to be heard by committee....Sixteen commercial organizations represented in movement to organize cooperative insurance company, a meeting for which was held yesterday....Self-sacrifice a notable feature in the contributions for the Bethlehem Institution fund....Dr. Stephen J. Northrop to resign, but not by request....Warrants issued against owners of Temple-street oil property....Mayor says discriminations against negroes by saloon men and restaurant owners must cease. Another landslide on Valley division blocks Southern Pacific tracks for hours....Miss Isabelle McClung becomes the bride of George L. Cochran. Marked activity in deals on Los Angeles Stock Exchange....Forty Japanese street-railway laborers strike. Last fang extracted from the new billboard ordinance....City Attorney presents measure designed to kill pugilistic contests in Los Angeles....The lie passed in hearing of the Dotter will contest....Annulment of marriage asked by second wife of man who was recently charged with bigamy....Officials of the Lowe gas company convicted of violating city ordinance. I. D. Barnard, former owner of the Russ House, San Francisco, stricken with apoplexy and in critical condition.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA. Pasadena man run down and injured by unknown automobilist who runs away. Long Beach people talk of fighting the Pacific Electric Railway Company if better service between there and Los Angeles is not given....Alhambra city to vote on $68,000 worth of bonds. Santa Ana River on rampage again in San Bernardino county and much damage threatened....Santa Barbara and Los Angeles banks reported victimized by wily Chinaman....County money puzzles Ventura County Treasurer....Redlands man gets appointment as national bank examiner.

PACIFIC SLOPE. Immense scope of work of Young Woman's Christian Association is shown at student conference at Capitola; Los Angeles woman tells of progress of work in home city. Japanese sea cooks form full-fledged leafers' union with walking delegate and all of the regulation fixings. Pickpocket is caught in act of robbing passenger on train; victim chokes the thief until his tongue protrudes and forces him to restore stolen watch. Expert Saulman declares before grafter prosecution that examination of books of the City Auditor reveals illegal certification of many demands involving over $100,000; Supervisor Gallagher and others are accused of unlawful expenditures....Seven talesmen are examined in trial of Ruef and four jurors are accepted, although some may yet be peremptorily challenged....Goldfield miners now begin to long for jobs back, and hold many conferences with employers; anarchistic agitators are set upon when they attempt to stir up trouble in meeting.

GENERAL EASTERN. The President refuses to make any further statement in the controversy with Harriman, but from the White House comes the news that the publication of the Webster letter is the beginning of a plot on the part of great corporations to discredit the administration's policies before the country, and that E. H. Harriman is the arch-conspirator; the railroad operator also preserves a grim silence....All danger of a railway strike seems to have vanished; Commissioner Neill today handed to the men final statement of the railway managers, who, after conference, have prepared their reply. Morrissey says tends toward peace....President of Southern Railway denies that capitalization of railroads affects rates....Many Japanese try to gain entry to United States through Mexico, but are held up by immigration officers..
